BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—A proposal that the World Court be divorced from the League of Nations and reconstituted under the auspices of The Hague Conference and that the United States join the court on that condition was formally submitted to the Senate today in a resolution introduced by Senator Lodge, Republican, Massachusetts, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

To accomplish this purpose the resolution provides that the President call a third Hague conference of all nations.

At the Capitol some administration leaders said that Senator Lodge had discussed the new World Court proposal with the President before deciding to submit it to the Senate and that Mr. Lodge is favorably disposed to it. At the White House it was said that the plan had not been submitted to the President for his approval or disapproval and that he is reserving judgment thereon.

Senator Lodge aims to bring his proposal before Senate within the next few days as a substitute for the recommendation of the late President Harding and Secretary Hughes that the United States join the existing World Court with reservations to prevent America from becoming involved in the League of Nations. The Democrats are planning to demand discharge of the Foreign Relations Committee from further consideration of the Harding proposal which they accuse the Republicans of abandoning.

ISSUE AT ELECTION

The prospect is that it will prove impossible to muster the necessary two-thirds majority for either proposal at this session and no action will be taken by the Senate Committee before the Presidential election in which the World Court will be an issue on which the Republican and Democratic parties will take widely differing attitudes. The outcome of the election then will determine the course the United States will pursue in relation to the World Court.

If the Lodge resolution should be adopted by the Senate, the President would propose to the powers the calling of a third Hague conference and would recommend thereto the adoption of a statute for the establishment of a world court of international justice. The resolution then sets forth the proposed statute which is substantially the statute of the present world court with new machinery substituted for the machinery of the League of Nations in the constitution and maintenance of the court.

PLAN OF SELECTION

The judges instead of being elected by the council and assembly of the league as at present, would be elected by an electoral commission composed of a general committee corresponding to the League Assembly and of a special committee representing the United States, the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan, which corresponds to the League Council. Nominations of candidates for judges would be made by the national groups in The Hague conference as nominations are now made for the present world court.

The jurisdiction, powers and procedure of the proposed court are the same as those of the present world court and are set forth in the same language, with the league eliminated. Jurisdiction is to be compulsory only on reciprocal agreement of nations.

BARS DOMINIONS

There are, however, some important and significant articles proposed by the Lodge resolution which are not found in the statute of the existing World Court. One of them provides that the word "State" as used in this statute "means only a fully self-govern-

TAX VOTE POSSIBLE TODAY

Senate Speeds Measure in Long Session, Adopting and Rejecting Many Amendments

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The Senate made such progress with consideration of the revenue bill at a session which lasted throughout the day and until late tonight that the prospect of a vote on final passage tomorrow was considered favorable.

All Finance Committee amendments were disposed of during the day and thereafter individual amendments were taken up, the Senate adding a number to the measure while rejecting others. One of the last actions before a recess was taken was the adoption, 35 to 28, of a proposal by Senator Jones, Democrat, New Mexico, to open all hearings of the proposed board of tax appeals to the public.

Two attempts to get an agreement whereby debate would be limited tomorrow at 3 o'clock and entirely prohibited after 5 o'clock, failed on objections from both sides.

Senator Norbeck, Republican, South Dakota, gave notice he would propose the McNary-Haugen farm bill as an amendment, and Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, declared he would offer his farm measure as a substitute for the McNary-Haugen bill.

The Jones publicity amendments also required that all findings of the proposed board as well as its rulings and opinions should be published as public documents.

As the debate dragged along, amendment after amendment was loaded onto the bill, members of the Finance Committee, who framed the measure, offering little objection. Chairman Smoot essayed the role of buffer to these individual proposals but he usually yielded with the declaration that reconsideration of the proposition would be reserved for the conference with the House.

Only one roll call was necessary as piece upon piece was added to the measure. This was on the motion of Senator McKinley, Republican, Illinois, to reduce the mailing rates on newspapers to the 1919 level. It carried 55 to 18.

Important among the amendments accepted today was that for a gift tax. This had been written into the bill by the House but was rejected by the Senate Finance Committee. The rates were reduced, however, to conform with those adopted for the inheritance tax, starting at 1 per cent on gifts not in excess of $25,000 and graduating to a rate of 26 per cent applicable on gifts in excess of $5,000,000.

An exemption of $50,000 would be allowed on gifts to the spouse.

CHINESE IS SHOT DOWN AND ROBBED

Resists Four Bandits in Front of Store; Money is Dropped, Recovered

Louie Gow, Chinese provision merchant, was shot twice last night by four Chinese bandits who robbed him of $950. The shooting and robbery took place in front of the store operated by Gow at 434 Aliso street, and was witnessed by Policemen Phillips and Ryder, of the narcotic squad, who were standing about a block away from the bandits.

As the bandits fled from the store they dropped the tin box containing the money about a block from Gow's store, the entire $950 was recovered by the police.

"You get money," Gow replied. Then he resisted their attempts to rob him, one of the men drew a revolver and fired several shots at Gow. One bullet penetrated the left arm and a second struck him in the left breast just above the heart. Gow's life was saved when the bullet struck a gold piece in his pocket, according to Dr. Dodge of the Receiving Hospital, where Gow was taken.

Gow fought off several sheets of the four Chinese, leaving the guard of Phillips and one assailants escaped. The bandits escaped $14 in their haste.

EXCLUSIONISTS IN SHARP ATTACK ON COMPROMISE PLAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Approved by Senate and House conferees at the request of President Coolidge of a new section to the immigration bill to defer the effective date of Japanese exclusion from July 1 to March 1 next, that opportunity may be given for diplomatic negotiations to abrogate the gentlemen's agreement, was subjected to severe criticism in a two-hour debate in the Senate.

From both sides of the chamber disagreement with the President's position and compliance to it voted by the conference was expressed. Not only did the step constitute a move toward surrendering the sovereign right of the United States to deal with "a strictly domestic question," it was charged, but it indicated an attempt to set aside the expressed decision of both houses of Congress by subterfuge.

The conference report was not submitted to the Senate today but was presented to the House by Chairman Johnson of the Immigration Committee with the announcement that it would be called up for action tomorrow.

HOPEFUL IN HOUSE

Mr. Johnson and Republican leaders, for the most part, expressed confidence that the House would approve the report. On the other hand, members in sympathy with the Japanese exclusion provision said they would seek to recommit the report to the conference and put out the claim they would have the votes to do it.

There were indications that an attempt might be made to have the exclusion substitute thrown out on the point of order that the conferees exceeded their authority in writing it into the bill. Republican leaders and some Democrats, opposed to the provision, however, were of the opinion that such a point would be overruled.

Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the Democratic leader, opened the fight in the Senate and commented at length upon the "quick change" in the President's attitude on exclusion before and after the California primaries

Four Burned at Signal Hill

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 8.—One man is believed to have been burned to death, one may die and two others are in a serious condition as a result of a spectacular fire that destroyed an oil derrick and for a time threatened to spread over the Signal Hill field late tonight.

Flames from the burning derrick reached more than 200 feet in the air and were visible for many miles in all directions. Shortly before midnight, the fire-fighting forces announced there was little danger of further spread. The value of the demolished derrick and the damage to the boiler and engine houses was estimated at approximately $50,000.

ONE ON DERRICK

Frank Gissinger, 35 years of age, a floorman, could not be located by his fellow-workers and, because he was thought to have been working high up on the derrick when the fire broke out, it was believed he perished.

The other injured men are Fletcher Bounds of 2121 East Sixth street, who was burned, perhaps fatally, and George Stubblefield and John Tunis, both of Long Beach, R. F. D. No. 4. The injured men were taken to Seaside Hospital for treatment.

The derrick was the property of the San Martinez Oil Company and was known as Frye No. 2. It had been on production about two weeks.

Only the fact that the Frye No. 2 is located at Summit avenue and Freeman street, probably the least intensively drilled territory of the field, prevented the fire assuming serious proportions, according to witnesses.

SPREADS QUICKLY

According to company officials the fire probably was caused by a spark from the engine. The men on the derrick were bailing for a water test at the time, Gissinger, the missing man, being up on the derrick.

Almost immediately the derrick was enveloped in flames. The blaze spread rapidly to the engine and boiler houses. The workers on near-by derricks rushed to the scene and with the fire-fighting forces of the Shell Oil Company turned their efforts to preventing its spreading.

Shortly before midnight, the fire was confined to the sump hole.

JAMES METCALFE SOUGHT

James Metcalfe, last heard of at El Paso, Tex., April 13, last, when he is supposed to have left for Los Angeles, is being sought by his wife and baby, who are said to be badly in need of aid. Mrs. Metcalfe lives at 504 South Hardesty avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

COOLIDGE EXTOLS WORK OF HARDING FOR WORLD PEACE

BY J. O'DONNELL BENNETT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—"I extend my arms to you in fraternal greeting," said President Harding to the Canadians last July in the plea he made at Vancouver for what he called "the brotherhood of the new world."

In the far background of that memorable scene the snow-clad peaks of the Rockies stood sentinel against a brilliant sky. All around the President towered the gigantic fir trees of Stanley Park. At the peak of the pavilion from which he was speaking our flag floated. The platform on which he stood was banked high with masses of flowers. In the open spaces of the forest before him stood a vast throng which had come from remote parts of the Province to hear the voice of the first President of the United States who had ever stood on Canadian soil. Over the heads of that throng waved the banners of the Dominion and the Republic.

The President stood with arms outstretched as he spoke to the people more as a brother than as a statesman.

PAINTING PRESENTED

Tonight in Washington Warren Harding's successor in the Presidency accepted John Innes's picture as a "gift of good will" from Canada to the United States.

He accepted it in a speech which was highly characteristic of him, for in that speech there was nothing at all about Calvin Coolidge or his views on international relations but there was a noble tribute to Warren Harding and what he had done to strengthen and to sweeten international relations.

Speaking from a platform in the spacious rooms of the National Press Club of Washington, which is the immediate recipient of Canada's gift to our country, the President emphasized in these words the service which, he believed, would keep resplendent in the annals of the republic the name of Warren Harding:

SPEECH OF AMERICAN

"It was the speech of an American which President Harding made on that day now pictured

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—First Lieut. Earl S. Tonkin, assistant Ninth Army Corps Area air officer, stationed at the corps headquarters here, will start at sunrise Saturday morning to fly to Seattle on the first leg of a trip into the North to conduct an air search for Maj. Frederick L. Martin, missing commander of the army round-the-world flyers, and Staff Sergt. Alva L. Harvey.

With Lieut. Tonkin will go Sergt. Ivan O. Cooper as mechanician. The flight to Seattle will be made in a Haviland plane, but at Seattle a Curtiss-type flyer, 1200 gallons of gasoline and necessary spare equipment will be loaded on the United States Coast Guard cutter Bear, which will sail from Seattle next Monday morning for Chignik, Alaska, the last point from which Maj. Martin took off in his known flights in his attempt to fly around the globe.

CORRESPONDENT HEARS STORY OF INDIAN

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHIGNIK (Alaska) May 8.—(By Evan J. David, special correspondent, North American Newspaper Alliance, aboard United States Coast Guard Cutter Algonquin.) Twenty-two miles up the Chignik Lagoon, north of Chignik, I today found and interviewed a half-breed Indian who is apparently the last person who saw Maj. Frederick L. Martin, the lost U.S.A. aviator. The Indian's story clearly confirmed previous conclusions of the searchers that Maj. Martin had turned northward across the Alaskan peninsula to avoid a "blind alley" which would have been impassable in the snowstorm.

In response to my questions the half-breed, who spoke in fair English, declared positively that Maj. Martin had taken the northern route. He described his failure to surmount the formidable mountain barrier which lay in his charted course.

The Indian told me that about three weeks before he had seen three aviators coming up the lagoon and that they had passed westward, over the middle ravine. About a week before, he said, he had seen a single plane, coming from the same direction, in a driving snow and wind storm. The aviator had tried the southern ravine, the route of his charted course, but had circled for five minutes and returned, as he found he could not pass the 3000-foot mountain barrier.

Then, said the Indian, the plane flew around a small island which he indicated in the lagoon and headed directly over the northern ravine, which leads to Lake Chignik, and the Bering Sea. He said the wind was directly from the north. This fits in with the theory that Maj. Martin found an added reason for, taking the northerly course in the desire to keep the wind at his right, so that it would sweep him nearly to his southeastern objective and free him from a windward landing.

CALCUTTA, May 8.—The Portugese aviators, Brito Paes and Sarmento Bieros, competing in the international around-the-world race, crashed in their airplane near Papir, State of Jochpur, India, today, it is reported. They escaped without injury.

FEAR EXPRESSED FOR DEATH OF MARTIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE, May 8. — That an aerial search for Maj. Frederick L. Martin, missing world-flight commander of the Unietd States Army, will begin at Chignik, Alaska, in about two weeks was the indication here tonight.

Meanwhile the latest advices gave ground to believe that three flyers of the Army had taken the air from Atka Island in the Aleutians today on their way around the earth.

That Maj. Martin and Sergt. Harvey would be found to have perished in the Bering Sea was a fear expressed frequently among men of the Army, the Navy and the Coast Guard in the Puget Sound district, many of them familiar by long experience with the severity of nature in the North.

Eight days would be required for the Coast Guard cutter Bear to make the run from Seattle to Chignik, said those most familiar with the cutter, a veteran to the replaced by a new vessel after this summer's cruise, which will be her thirty-eighth annual expedition to the farthest north settlements of the United States.

SWING BILL HIT TELLING BLOW IN TESTIMONY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Appearing before the House and Lands Irrigation Committee today, J. C. Allison of Calexico, one of the foremost irrigation engineers of the country, declared the proposed all-American canal for Imperial Valley prohibitive in cost and submitted an alternative project, entailing a much smaller expense to the water users.

Mr. Allison, in a comprehensive report, backed by informative facts and figures, cleared up the committee records as to the water situation in the Imperial Valley. He showed in tables and by affidavits how money had been raised from water users on which Mark Rose, Col. B. F. Fly and others were sent to Washington to lobby for the all-American Canal and made clear many of the things that heretofore had been confused and muddled by the testimony of advocates of the Swing-all-American canal project.

Elaborate engineering data were submitted to the committee and placed in the records bearing on important points in controversy. Mr. Allison offered a plan for diverting water to Imperial Valley land on the American side at less than one-sixteenth the cost to the water users of that entailed by the all-American canal project proposed in the Swing bill.

After making his long and carefully-considered formal statement Mr. Allison answered many questions in cross-examination and was in the witness chair during both the morning and afternoon sessions of the committee.

HIS STATEMENT

Mr. Allison's formal statement to the committee is, in part, as follows:

The discussion of facts, the studies and the exhibits hereinafter set forth show the following:

(1.) The all-American canal project attached to the Swing-Johnson bill, HR2903, is a project originally conceived and exploited for the development of the private and selfish interests of Mark Rose and others; later utilized by Mr. Rose and Mr. Swing for purely political purposes.

(2.) The all-American canal

WIFE OUTWITS PAIR SEEKING MAN'S WAGES

Conceals $100 in Pocket of Auto When Held Up at Lonely Spot

Mrs. Ben Mallory of 1053 Barracks avenue, Wilmington, was attacked and beaten into insensibility near midnight last night at a lonely spot on the Redondo Beach-Los Angeles Harbor Boulevard by two highwaymen in search of approximately $100, her husband's wages for two weeks, which she was taking home from Hyperion, where her husband is employed in a construction camp.

Mrs. Mallory, who outwitted the bandits by concealing the money in a pocket of her car, was struck by one of the bandits when she refused to tell them where it was. After knocking her unconscious the bandits disconnected the electrical system of her machine and drove away in a small car from which the license plates had been removed.

Mrs. Mallory was able to give the Sheriff's office a good description of one of her assailants. It is believed they were men who had been working at the construction camp.

GALES ARE PREDICTED FOR LAKES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, May 8.—A special storm warning for the lake region was issued by the Weather Bureau in Chicago today. The warning predicted "strong north and northeast winds and gales within the next twenty-four hours." The warning, it was stated, applied particularly to lake shipping.

A windstorm had developed over Lake Michigan today, and during the night it was expected that Chicago would be swept by gales.

Meanwhile, the local weather is to remain cloudy and unsettled, with continued low temperatures. The wet spell may last to the end of the week.

COOLIDGE LEAD OVER 50,000

President's Margin of Victory Swelled as Additional Returns from California Primary Are Received

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—President Coolidge's majority over Hiram Johnson in Tuesday's California primary had passed the 50,000 mark when last totals were struck tonight with 405 precincts scattered throughout the State yet to report.

The total vote was: Coolidge, 303,159; Johnson, 252,490, a majority for the President of 50,669.

In the same number of precincts, William G. McAdoo's delegates had 106,983, and those opposing him 18,368.

The President has amazed many of his most enthusiastic followers here by the demonstration of his popularity among the voters of the State. Only a few of the most optimistic had ventured to predict beforehand a majority as high as 50,000.

Los Angeles county contributed practically a two-to-one vote for the President, according to latest tabulations, which show a majority of 61,274 in that county with only twelve precincts unreported. The vote of 1804 precints out of 1816 in the county was: Coolidge, 125,201; Johnson, 63,987.

Mrs. Anna Bird Badly Injured as Car Hits Her

Stepping from the curb to the street at Western avenue and Pico street last night, Mrs. Anna Bird, 69 years of age, was struck and knocked down by a motor car operated by Harold Sears, 2254 West Fifteenth street. She was taken to the Receiving Hospital and later to the Angelus Hospital, where it was said her recovery is doubtful.

Mrs. Bird, who is known in charitable and welfare circles, sustained a broken left leg and numerous cuts and bruises. She lives at 2989 West Pico street.

FARM BILL DISCUSSION IS ASSURED

Consideration of Some Form of Relief Promised by Senate Leaders

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Formal assurance was given tonight in the Senate by administration leaders that opportunity would be given for adequate consideration of "some farm relief measure" before Congress adjourns.

The decision of a recent Republican party conference that a farm relief measure would be taken up immediately after the revenue bill, Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, said had not been altered.

Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, one of the Republican spokesmen, whose views were sought during a discussion of the subject declared, however, he saw little indication that the session would be concluded "about the first of June," a date declared by several Senators to have been agreed upon.

CALIFORNIAN AND GIRL BRIDE HELD FOR THEFT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DETROIT (Mich.) May 8.—Jean Francis Guinn, 28 years of age, of San Bernardino, Cal., and his 23-year-old bride of two days, who was Rita Armentrout of Terre Haute, were arrested at a local hotel today in connection with the theft of several thousand dollars in government bonds from an Omaha, Neb., bank. A marriage license in Guinn's pocket indicated the couple was married at Galesburg, Ill., Tuesday.

DRYS JOIN IN BEER BATTLE

Committee Denounces Bills for 2.75 Per Cent Brew

Testimony is Given Before House Judiciary

Efforts of Wets Are Termed Appeal to Anarchy

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Evils which they believe would attend the legalization of 2.75 per cent beer, as proposed in a number of pending bills, were described in fulsome testimony today by dry leaders at hearings before the House Judiciary Committee.

A committee of five from the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, now meeting at Springfield, Mass.; Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, and Mrs. Ella A. Boole, representing the Women's Christian Temperance Union, joined in an attack on the proposed bills to liberalize the prohibition laws.

ASKS FOR FIGHT

After presenting a statement from the Methodist Conference in which it was declared to be the belief of that body that the proposal to nullify the constitution amendment by legalizing the sale of wine and beer is an appeal from orderly legislation to "law defiance and anarchy," members of the delegation further presented their personal views.

While Bishop Thomas Nicholsen of Chicago, president of the Anti-Saloon League, and one of the delegation, was on the stand, Representative Perlman, Republican, New York, asked whether "the league is financing the fight now being made to release William H. Anderson (former New York State superintendent of the league) from prison."

"So far as I know, none is being made," the bishop replied.

When Representative Perlman next asked what Mr. Wheeler's salary was, the latter volunteered from his place in the committee room that he received $660 a month.

LEONARD SPEAKS

When the New York Representative asked, "whether any officers or employees of the Anti-Saloon League in the past have been charged with violation of the prohibition laws," Representative Sumners, Democrat, Texas, objected to the line of questioning and the query went unanswered.

Bishop Adna W. Leonard of California, another member of the Methodist delegation, declared efforts to change the enforcement law in California were "not meeting with success."

The bishop asserted that foreigners were leading in the agitation to "break down the dignity and strength of the laws of this nation."

The committee adjourned until next Wednesday when it will hear other opponents of the proposed legislation.

Aged Hunter for Gold Is Killed in Sight of Riches

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, May 8.—Peter Collins, 86 years of age, for almost half a century a prospector of the Mojave Desert, was struck and killed by a train at Ludlow yesterday, forty-eight hours after he had ended his long search for wealth. Collins reported that he had struck gold ore running $60 a ton. Friends shared his happiness.

Yesterday he walked in front of a Santa Fe train and was instantly killed. The old man apparently did not hear the approach of the train. The claims on which Collins was working are south of Ludlow. He had a son and daughter whose addresses are unknown. A Coroner's jury exonerated the train crew.

HOSPITAL DAY MONDAY

Hospital Day will be observed Monday at the Sawtelle Soldiers Home with open house in charge of the wives of hospital physicians. From 2 to 4 p.m. open house will be held at the main hospital and from 3 to 5 p.m. visitors will be received at the annex. Friends of the hospital and all visitors are welcomed, an announcement from the committee stated.

SWING BILL IS HIT HARD

scheme is a plan without merit from an engineering point of view and, if built on the route forced upon the engineers by the political demands of Rose, Swing and others, will become a never-ending burden on the government or upon whoever builds it; it stands the almost certain chance of being a complete failure.

(2.) All of the lands contemplated to be irrigated by the all-American canal can be served with water from the Colorado River in greater acreage and at much less cost to the land owners than is proposed in the Swing-Johnson bill.

(4.) Mexico has been used as the "bogie man" upon which to hang the only possible argument for an all-American canal. Most of the statements made by Swing and Rose regarding Mexico are proved untrue as the following statement of incontrovertible fact fully demonstrates.

(a) Mexican lands have contributed more than their fair share of all irrigation and flood-control expenses.

(b) Mexico has fully complied with every requirement of the agreement under which Imperial Valley gets its water supply, and without which agreement Imperial Valley could never have been brought into existence as a productive or irrigated area.

(c) If the all-American canal were built, the Imperial Irrigation District must still depend upon Mexico for its flood protection and for its assurance of water delivery.

HUGE SAVING POSSIBLE

(5.) The irrigation tax rate to the owners of property within the present irrigation sections of Imperial Valley will be $12 per acre per year after the completion of the all-American canal, as proposed under the Swing-Johnson bill. Under the plan herein proposed, the tax rate at the end of the same period shown above will be $1.58 per acre in place of $12 per acre.

The outlying lands in the Imperial Valley basin, including the east and west mesa and the Coachella Valley, can secure a supply of water from the Colorado River. However, this must be attained without overburdening the already too heavily taxed users of water in the Imperial Irrigation District. It can be acquired in a practical manner and at very much less expense than the all-American canal route, for the new mesa lands and the Coachella Valley. These new government lands can then be acquired and farmed successfully by the returned soldier, or by whoever the entrymen thereon may be. The entrymen on these lands can finance and build their own canal systems at the proper time, in the same manner as the other districts within the present Imperial Irrigation District and in Coachella Valley did, without the necessity of government appropriation.

ALTERNATE PLAN

Laguna-Pilot Knob canal for Imperial Irrigation District. The advantages of this proposed work over the all-American proposal are that the holding of the Hanlon Heading diversion and the Alamo canal through Mexico will serve as a stand-by for the water system to Imperial Valley in case of mishap to the Laguna Dam connection. The power development is greater and the market for it is right at hand.

Canal for Coachella Valley, with 100,000 acres instead of 77,000 acres as contemplated and with a cost of $91.74 per acre as compared to $102 per acre, estimated by the all-American canal report.

Canal for East Side mesa lands, with 10,000 acres brought in in addition to that contemplated under the all-American plan, and at a cost of $27 per acre as against a cost of $85.20 under the all-American plan.

Canal for West Side mesa lands. Under the all-American plan the cost is $106 per acre for gravity lands on the West Side and $156.50 per acre for the pump lands. The advantage of the Mexican route over the all-American route for West Side lands is the saving in cost per acre, saving in maintenance, and the more direct and simple routing, over the impossible routing and prohibitory expense of the all-American canal system as proposed.

A careful analysis of the bonded indebtedness of the district, together with a study of the costs to the Imperial Irrigation District of the all-American canal system as proposed, together with interest charges, Mexican revenues lost to the district, shows that in 1928, with the all-American canal built, the district tax rate will be $11.23 per acre. Add to this the present county tax of $2.69 per $100, or $2.69 per acre, makes the impossible charge of $14.07 per acre upon completion of the all-American canal. In 1934, without any payment on principal of bonds issued to build the all-American canal, the tax rate of the district and county will be $14.70.

The advantages to the American water user in the present system of selling water by the district to Mexico have never been properly presented by the district. Were the all-American canal to be built, for instance, and should the district discontinue the usage of its Mexico main canals and selling of water to Mexico en route, the American water user would not only have the increased bonded debt on his land, created in the financing of such canal, but he would bear the burden of the decrease in revenues of the district.

CANAL NOT NEEDED

Summarizing the whole situation, it must be evident to any person who has carefully considered the Colorado River problem from an unselfish and unbiased point of view, that outside of political considerations and ambitions there is no logical reason for the present agitation.

Fully conserved, there is more water in the Colorado River watershed than there is practical agricultural land on both sides of the international boundary line to put it on, and it does not require an all-American canal to serve the remaining agricultural lands in Southern California. A flood-control dam, built immediately at some point on the river by the government will solve the tremendous flood control necessity until the ratification of the Colorado River compact between the States. This solving of the immediate requirement leaves the Federal Power Commission free to act in granting power permits to complete the equaling of the river after the compact has been ratified.

It has been truly said that Mr. Swing's all-American canal is no all-American canal system at all, because it of necessity requires a levee system for high river water protection, and that protection must necessarily be built and maintained in Mexico.

Mexico is an innocent victim of a multitude of accusations made against her before the people of California, as well as before the committee on irrigation of arid lands. The principal accusation is that Mexican lands have not paid their share of the canal upkeep and construction. The Mexican lands are not owners of the canal system, they are only customers; the Imperial irrigation district and their Mexican companies are the owners of the system.

In Mr. Swing's testimony before the committee in Washington, On February 23, 1924, he said: "At present, our land is bound to pay for every bit of irrigation and flood control work in Mexico; and there is not a single acre in Mexico that is burdened for a dollar of indebtedness, for the cost of this irrigation system and flood control work, which protect and supply their land the same as they do ours."

Again, on the same day, Mr. Rose told the committee that, "In fact, our records show that since the district has actually operated and delivered water there, or since 1916, the Mexicans have lacked very close to $4,000,000 of paying as great a proportion of the cost of operation as they received in quantity of water.

FALSITY CHARGED

The figures taken from the accounts of the Imperial Irrigation District show the inaccuracy of both of the above statements of Mr. Swing and Mr. Rose. Such unstudied and untruthful statements as these men have made before the committee and generally broadcast are misleading to those seeking the truth.

From this audit of the accounts, it can be seen that the Mexican lands represent a customer for the irrigation district, who, rather than being $4,000,000 in arrears, have considerably overpaid. The direct cash payments by Mexican lands on levee work alone have been entirely ignored by Mr. Swing.

Furthermore, a great amount of the very lobbying expense for the all-American canal, the costs of the Congressional delegation who made the trip to Imperial Valley lately, the costs of Mr. Rose's trips and expenses in Washington in behalf of the canal and in fighting Mexico, have been paid by the Mexican lands themselves with checks drawn by the Imperial Irrigation District on the funds of "Compania." These amounts and references to the vourchers are listed in Exhibit G, furnished by Mr. C. W. Brockman, director of the Imperial Irrigation Board.

In testifying before the committee on February 13, 1924, on the comparative number of Japanese in Imperial Valley, California, and the number in Mexico, Mr. Swing states, "Well, there are much fewer Japanese; there are no Chinese that I know of on this side, and the Japanese, since the passage of the land laws, have gone out of Imperial Valley to a very considerable extent. I have no idea what number there are there now. In Mexicali the population of Chinamen, who have gone over under contract labor is estimated at $000; that is, Chinese laborers."

Exhibits "H," "I" and "J" show from official record that there are 300 Japanese on the Mexican side and 1900 on the American side in April, 1924. Of these twenty-three are farming on the Mexican side while 750 are farming on the American side in Imperial county. There are about 4200 Chinamen on the Mexican side and these are diminishing rather than increasing, as Mexico now has a law excluding Chinese similar to the American law.

Exhibit "H" is the reply, dated March 18, 1924, of the Japanese Association of Lower California, officially stating the number of Japanese in the territory as their records show to be 300. Exhibit "I" is a letter from the District Attorney of Imperial county, California, dated April 3, 1924, stating the number of Japanese in the county of Imperial as per the information in his office as being 1900. Exhibit "J" is a statement to Mr. Chandler by the Chinese association of Mexicali, Lower California, dated March 18, 1924, stating the number of Chinese in the territory, as per their records, as being 4200.

EXCLUSIONISTS ATTACK DELAY

sylvania, chief of the Senate conferees, in reply declared action of the conference should be interpreted as confirming the status of immigration as an exclusively domestic matter. It was intended, he said, to obtain the abrogation of the gentlemen's agreement, which seemed to jeopardize such a classification. Senator Reed's was practically the only voice raised in defense of the conferees. Even Senator Lodge, Massachusetts chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, declared it would be "simple hypocrisy" for him to attempt to argue that a special treaty on immigration was desirable.

"I have always believed," he added, "that the question of who should be admitted to the United States was a matter to be determined by the Congress. In my judgment the conferees and the entire legislative body including the President must say to the rest of the world: 'We alone have the power to say who shall come into the United States as immigrants.'"

The suggestion that the conferees reconsider their decision was advanced by Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, while Senator Johnson, Republican of the same State, asserted that contemplated delay would have the result of opening the nation's gates to a flood of Asiatic immigration.

ASSERTION REFUTED

This assertion was promptly questioned by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, in charge of the measure.

"The census shows a total count of Japanese in this country to be about 111,000," he said, "it should be apparent how much basis there is for such a theory."

Senator Reed insisted the conference decision recognized the principle that immigration was a domestic problem. It was for that reason, he said, that the President was asked to set aside the gentlemen's agreement, by which doubt was cast on that principle.

It was argued by Senator Borah that the conference provision not only recognized the right of a foreign government to be heard when this country proposes to restrict its immigration but recognized the quota principle as applicable to Japan.

WOULD LET 80 IN

Japanese immigration between July 1 and March 1, 1925, under the plan agreed upon by conferees on the immigration bill would be limited to about eighty persons by the quota provisions of the measure, Chairman Johnson of the House immigration committee and one of the conferees, declared in a statement.

"To all intents and purposes," he said, "the exclusion of Japanese will become effective July 1, 1924, as provided in the immigration bill as it passed the House. The Senate and House managers in conference have accepted in part the proposals of President Coolidge but the bill is so written that the postponement to March 1, 1925, of the effective date of the clause relating to exclusion of persons ineligible to citizenship does not automatically continue in force after July 1 the terms of the "gentlemen's agreement." Instead there will be a small quota of Japanese admissible and that quota in number will be approximately eighty persons.

"If the public, particularly the people on the Pacific Coast, will take time to study the terms of the bill it will be disclosed that we are guaranteeing Japanese exclusion on and after March 1, 1925, subject, of course, to the reasonable and proper exemptions which have been carried in the measure from the outset.

BARRED AFTER JULY

"In the meantime it transpires that hundreds of Japanese men are standing on the docks at San Francisco trying to get to Japan in time to return before July 1 with 'Kankodan' brides. About 400 Japanese males sailed on the steamer President Wilson May 2 instead of waiting for a Japanese steamship sailing May 12 for the reason that by sailing on the latter date they could not get back before July 1, with the 'Kankodan' brides they intend marrying in their native country. Japanese newspapers report that 6000 women and relatives of California Japanese, all admissible under the 'gentlemen's agreement,' are trying to get transportation to the United States. They will not be admissible after July 1, 1924, notwithstanding the fact that the exclusion provisions are held in abeyance until March 1, 1925."

Representative Sabath of Illinois, ranking Democrat on the House immigration committee, who declined, as one of the House managers, to sign the conference report, said he would conduct a fight on the floor against its adoption. He has consistently opposed the quota provisions of the immigration bill and has favored rigid Japanese exclusion.

Riverside County Jury Gives Victim of Mishap $10,000 Damages

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, May 8.—Ten thousand dollars damage, said to be one of the largest sums involved in settlement of a damage suit in the history of the local courts, was awarded to County Auditor Harry E. Raymer by a jury tonight at the close of a six-day trial of his suit for $25,000 brought against C. L. Sweet and A. J. Hamilton, as the result of an accident last July in which the official was injured seriously.

The jury was out slightly more than an hour and a half before returning a unanimous verdict. A poll of the jury was asked by Hayden L. Hewes, who, with A. C. Murray, acted as attorney for the defendants. The defendants, who are in business here under the name of the Sweet Grocery Company, are said to have carried insurance with the Royal Indemnity Company.

Raymer, who was riding a bicycle, was struck at Main and Fifth streets by a grocery truck owned by the defendants and driven by an employee.

WOMAN PASTOR ISSUE HELD UP

Methodists Delay Action on Question

Equal Footing With Men is Demanded

Serious Slump in Board Receipts Noted

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) May 8. After a two-hour debate on the question whether women should be admitted to full ordination in the Methodist Episcopal Church, the General Conference was unable to decide the question today and it was continued until tomorrow's session.

The women of the conference, led by Mrs. S. F. Johnson of the Southern California delegation and Miss Madeline Southard of Winfield, Kan., made it plain that they do not desire to be classed with local preachers. They demanded that the church ordain women as itinerant preachers which would place them on an equal footing with men preachers, allow them as such, to be members of annual conferences, and give them charges to serve.

A statement showing the serious decreases in receipts of benevolent boards was presented during the morning session. It shows a decrease of 26 per cent in the amount paid on the centenary during the last six months of the fiscal year of the church. The serious decrease, the statement said, is not only ominous but perilous as it is bound to curtail the work of the various missionary boards and reduce the activities of the church as a whole unless the conditions can be rectified at once.

Resolutions declaring that there is no conflict between science and religion were presented by Rev. Dr. John M. Walker, of Indianapolis. The resolutions are in refutation of statements made in the laymen's meetings at Unitarian services and other gatherings of this liberal churches tending to show that there is a serious conflict between science and religion.

The following telegram received from Rev. Dr. Lewis Bird of Ripley, N. Y., is cited by delegates as an indication of the storm which will break should the conference decide to take definite action to settle the question of whether the so-called amusement ban should be lifted:

"If you lift the ban on amusements hell will rejoice; Heaven will shed blood. May God have mercy on a decadent church and conference."

BOULEVARD BODY DRIVE IS STARTED

Member Campaign Begun at Encino Club Banquet of Valley Residents

A membership campaign was inaugurated by the Greater Ventura Boulevard Chamber of Commerce last night at a banquet at the Encino Country Club, attended by more than 800 residents of the San Fernando Valley and guests from Los Angeles. J. D. Miller, vice-president of the chamber, presided and introduced the toastmaster, John H. Blair.

The aims of the chamber were explained by Mr. Miller and George W. Bunton, secretary of the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce. Talks expressive of the good will felt by Los Angeles to the valley citizens were made by Boyle Workman, president of the City Council; Rex B. Goodcell, collector of internal revenue, and H. H. Merrick, president of the Greater Los Angeles Association. Joseph W. Tanner, secretary of the Ventura Boulevard Chamber of Commerce, also made a short talk.

SMALL CROP FORECAST IN WHEAT DATA

California Abandons Huge Acreage; Condition Below Ten-Year Average

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The smallest crop of winter wheat since 1917 was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture. The production indicated, as calculated from conditions from the 1st inst., is 553,013,000 bushels, or fifteen bushels an acre. That is 19,327,000 bushels less than produced last year. The rye crop forecast at 61,739,000 bushels, also is smaller than last year's by 1,284,000 bushels.

The winter was less severe on winter wheat, the abandonment of acreage having been 2,624,000 acres, or 6.6 per cent of the area sown last autumn, which as revised and announced today, was 39,933,000 acres. The acreage remaining the 1st inst., to be harvested was placed at 36,899,000 acres.

Abandonment of acreage was heaviest in the south and in California.

California's acreage is 84 per cent less than sown last autmun, Mississippi 50 per cent less, Georgia 42 per cent less and Kentucky and Alabama more than 52 per cent less.

The condition of the crop on the 1st inst., which was 84 per cent of normal, was better a year ago but below the ten average.

Agents to be Asked to Hold Meeting Here

Decision to invite the [illegible] Association of Purchasing [illegible] to hold its 1925 convention in Los Angeles was reached at the annual meeting of the Southern Purchasing Agents' Association last night at the City Club. J. Ballagh was selected to extend invitation at the national convention in Boston.

Besides electing officers for the coming year, the association adopted a resolution framed by L. Morse, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, urging purchase of Los Angeles products as far as possible. The new officers are: James [illegible] president; H. W. Christensen, vice-president; W. W. Storey, vice-president; Clayton [illegible] secretary, and A. S. Ballagh, treasurer.

PAINTINGS ARE INSURED

NEW YORK, May 8.—An insurance policy of approximately $15,000,000 has been taken out by Duveen Brothers on the Italian paintings lent to the exhibition at their gallery, [illegible] terms, or the name of the company carrying the risk, was not announced.

DEFENDS PARTY GROUP METHOD

Coolidge Says it is Vital to Good Government

Cites Grant and Lincoln as Such Adherents

Addresses Women "Pupils" of Political School

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Party organization was declared to be necessary to efficient government by President Coolidge in an address at the White House today to students of a "political campaign school," conducted by the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia.

"It is necessary to have party organization if we are to have effective and efficient government," the President said. "The only difference between a mob and a trained army is organization, and the only difference between a disorganized country and one that has the advantage of a wise and sound government is fundamentally a question of organization.

"I don't mean by that a narrow and bigoted partisanship, but one that recognizes the necessity to co-operate one with another if we are in any way to secure the result that we desire.

"Men of the type of Lincoln and Grant, no less than the type of Cleveland and Wilson, have been loyal to their party and desired to have party support and party government for the purpose of giving an efficient administration."

The President warned the students, all women, to cease looking for ideal candidates for office.

"I have been in public life for some time and I learned to say a long time ago that I was all through looking for ideal candidates for office," he said. "They don't exist, and we have to make the best of what we have, for it is only in that way that we are able to make any progress."

Consul Fight at Newcastle Finally Ends

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

NEWCASTLE (Eng.) May 8.—The imbroglio over the American Consulate at Newcastle, which has caused so many heart burnings since the closure of the Consulate nearly two years ago, was settled satisfactorily today when C. R. Nasmith, the new American Consul, called officially on the Lord Mayor, as a preliminery to reopening the offices.

Mr. Nasmith expects that the reopened Consulate will be doing business in a fortnight.

AMERICAN OLYMPIC TEAM THIEF VICTIMS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, May 8.—Sneak thieves today entered the dressing room of the American Olympic rugby football team at the Colcombes Olympic Stadium and robbed the players of all their valuables, about 5000 francs, and several hundred dollars in American currency. The jewelry included a number of watches and medals won in athletic tournaments, to which the men attach much value.

before us. I was about to say that it was also the speech of more than an American, for while he believed in his own country with an undying belief, his thoughts were able to compass something more of humanity than was in our land. So he stands there expressing his appreciation, his sympathy, his approbation, his kindliness, his sentiment for humanity, speaking of his own country, of course, but speaking also of his broader love through association with other countries."

The President paused. For several seconds he intently gazed upon the painting and as he gazed his mind reverted to the days when Warren Harding was making history in the seats of power, and of those days, and the world history with which they were fraught, Warren Harding's successor said:

BETTER UNDERSTANDING

"We remember him here in Washington for his many notable achievements that he has left behind him which reflected our domestic welfare. But more especially we shall remember him for being able to usher in a better understanding between our country and the peoples of other countries, and a better understanding among all the peoples of the earth. That he accomplished in a large degree through the Washington conference and had he accomplished nothing else, his name would go down in history, I believe, as one of the great benefactors of mankind."

Prolonged applause here interrupted the President.

Resuming, he emphasized the message of the picture. He said that he believed that those chroniclers of the deeds, the thoughts and the aspirations of the government who will so often see the painting will find in it high inspiration.

SERVICE TO HUMANITY

"I believe," he said—and his hard, definite tone grew somehow tender and brotherly as he advanced toward his conclusion—"I believe they will see in it an opportunity for the broadest service not only to our own country but for the broadest service to humanity. And they will see in the center of it a patriot, a man who was inspired by love of his country, but a man also who was inspired by a desire that his country might serve the other nations of the earth, and through such service reach toward the highest type of citizenship and of statesmanship. It will remain a picture to place before the American people, a picture to treasure in the hearts of ourselves and those who come after us. It is with this thought, Mr. Ambassador, that I, in my representative capacity, accept this gracious gift of thepeople of Vancouver. I would accept it in behalf of this club, in behalf of what they represent, and in behalf of the American people."

TOUCHING RECEPTION

President Coolidge, who was presented to the guests of the club by its president, George Authier, as "our most distinguished member" was given a reception that was more than enthusiastic; it was genuinely touching in its fervor and it was so spontaneous and so prolonged that the President himself beamed with happiness as he waited for the cheering and handclapping to subside.

The demonstration was one more proof of the curious hold which this man of few words and of austere personality has taken upon the affections of men of varying views and many professions—for of such comprehensive character was the assemblage before him. In that assemblage, representativ of politics, journalism, law and literature stood the man who brought John Innes's huge painting all the way across the continent to its permanent place of exhibition in the club rooms a square away from the White House. He was Stanley Beck and he represented the immediate donors of the international token of goodwill, the proprietors of the Vancouver Sun.

The speech of presentation was made by the British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, who sat at President Coolidge's side and who was greeted with much cordiality by him.

The Ambassador spoke of the gift as having arrived here with the "official indorsement of the Canadian government" and with the special greeting of affection from the 40,000 Canadian men, women and children who had participated in the scene which the painting commemorates.

AIR SEARCH FOR MARTIN IS PLAN

by the War Department, the Navy and Coast Guard service, to broadcast the North American Newspaper Alliance offer of a reward of $1000 for definite information as the fate of the world flyers, Maj. Frederick L. Martin and Sergt. Alva L. Harvey.

Secretary of War Weeks expressed his appreciation of the Alliance's offer and directed that full facilities of the Alaska cable be utilized to broadcast the news of the reward. He also requested the Navy Department to use their more effective radio facilities for the same purpose. Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur has stated his willingness to help in every way possible.

The search for the missing aviators has narrowed down to the snow-encumbered wilderness between Chignik Lake and Port Heiden. This territory is almost impassable for white men and unexplored, except by the Indians and a few native trappers. It is hoped that the Alliance reward will spur on those men who know the waste to a thorough and diligent search. Admiral F. C. Ballard, commandant of the Coast Guard at Washington, has instructed the commander of the Bering Sea patrol force to make the reward known to the Aleutian natives, cannery employees and all Coast Guard units along the northern coast of the Alaskan peninsula.

HUNT SAYS RESIGNATION VOLUNTARY

Governor Regrets Loss of Secretary Who Quits Post in Arizona

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, May 8.—Investigation into the reasons for the resignation of E. W. Samuell as secretary of the Board of State Institutions and director of the State Highway Department has brought out a statement from Gov. Hunt that, while he has no explanation to make, he regards Mr. Samuell's departure as involving the loss of an efficient and capable State employee.

It is insisted that the resignation was not requested. Mr. Samuell himself refused to make any statement. At the executive office it is declared that Samuell several times offered his resignation and had told of possible necessity for moving to Dallas, Tex., for business reasons.

Mr. Samuell was Gov. Hunt's campaign manager in the primary election of 1922 and one of the Governor's first appointments to the secretaryship, which pays $4800 a year. Later, to these duties were added those of purchasing agent and still later the secretary was put in charge of the State Highway Department, this over the State Engineer.

C. M. Zander, who succeeds to the secretaryship, recently was superintendent of motive equipment in the State Engineer's department. He also has been a close associate of Gov. Hunt and was his active lieutenant in travel about the State during the last primary and general-election campaign. For a term he was a member of the State Tax Commission, later establishing himself as a land agent.

PROPOSES NEW WORLD COURT

ing State," but does not include any dominion, colony, or other component part of a State." That would deprive Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India of the votes in the electoral commission they now have in the league. Britain's six votes to our one formed one of the objections raised to American acceptance of the League of Nations covenant.

It is also provided that any State "may withdraw from the Court and terminate its obligations under this statute after giving two-years' notice."

To guard against any possibility of the Monroe Doctrine or the American immigration question being brought before the court another article provides:

"The court shall not have jurisdiction to render advisory opinions on any question which affects the admission of aliens into the United States, or the admission of aliens to the educational institutions of the several States or the territorial integrity of the several States of the United States or concerning the question of the alleged indebtedness or money obligations of any State of the United States, or any question which depends upon or involves the maintenance of the traditional attitude of the United States concerning American questions, commonly described as the Monroe Doctrine, or other purely governmental policy or any question which is considered by the government of the United States to be a domestic question."

BLOCKS INTERFERENCE

Another restriction on interference with American affairs is contained in this article:

"The court shall be bound by the principle that international law recognizes the authority of the laws of the United States within its own jurisdiction as applied to foreigners or to foreign-owned property therein, whether in time of peace or war."

The final article is designed to insure that the United States could not be forced to submit a cause to the World Court. It provides:

"Before a case in which the United States is concerned can be submitted to the court, a special agreement must be concluded between the United States and the other parties in interest, defining clearly the matter in dispute, the scope of the powers of the court, and the periods for the several stages of procedure, and such special agreements on the part of the United States can only be made by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof."

Spreckels on Yacht Off for Convention

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, May 8.—John D. Spreckels, San Diego capitalist and a Coolidge delegate to the National Republican Convention, departed today with a party of friends on the yacht Venetia for the east coast via the Panama Canal. Mr. Spreckels has arranged the sea voyage so as to arrive in New York in plenty of time to reach Cleveland by train for the convention.

In the party are Frank Jordan, Secretary of State; Austin Adams, San Diego playwright; Michael Tarpey of Fresno; Miss Marie Spreckels and Miss Evalyn Brady.

The itinerary of the Venetia calls for an absence of about two months. The yacht will stop at Balboa and New York. The homeward voyage will include a call at Norfolk where Mr. Spreckels will visit Rear-Admiral Roger Welles, former commandant of the Eleventh Naval District here, and a close personal friend.

REPUBLICANS URGED TO INSERT WET PLANK

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 8.—Declaring that the Republican party will lose eleven important States in the coming Presidential election if it does not make a declaration on the wet and dry question, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, today came out squarely for the adoption of an antiprohibition plank in the Republican 1924 platform.

For your Mother

On Mother's Day—May 11th

You've always said to yourself that "some day" you would get your Mother a Victrola or Brunswick phonograph. You know what happiness it will bring into her life. How she and the family will enjoy its beautiful music and what it will mean to them.

Do it now—get her a phonograph and a selection of Records as your Mother's Day Remembrance. A doubly appreciated gift. VOTE ON TAX IS POSSIBLE TODAY of a donor, $25,000 on those to a parent, child, adopted child, or grandchild; and $10,000 to any other person. The tax would apply on the donor and to the total amount of gifts he had made in one year.

This was proposed by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, who declared its object was not so much to collect additional revenue, as to prevent evasions.

After two hours debate, an amendment proposed by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, was accepted with the understanding it would be worked over in conference, liberalizing the rule on collection of additional assessments of taxes. It would permit the taxpayers to withhold payment of additional assessments until a court hearing.

Approval was given an amendment proposed by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, to prohibit the Treasury Department from reopening tax cases after settlement of a dispute.

MANY REJECTED

Finally, stiffening their ranks, committee members succeeded in having voted down some proposals, including one by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, to repeal the tax on automobile parts and accessories. This tax as well as that on automobile tires and tubes had been cut from 5 to 2½ per cent by the House, and previously had been agreed to by the Senate.

Likewise an amendment by Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, to allow deductions from gross incomes for money spent for doctor and hospital bills and for other similar purposes was rejected.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the Finance Committee, temporarily withdrew his motion proposing to increase the exemption for heads of families with incomes of more than $5000 to $2500. This provision has been indorsed by the Democratic conference and a move to gain its adoption probably will be made tomorrow, Senator Simmons said.

FOREIGN SITUATION DISTURBS EXCHANGE

SHARP PRICE FLUCTUATIONS FEATURE TRADING IN FRANC, POUND

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 8.—Speculative operations in the foreign exchange market based on uneasiness over the outcome of the approaching French election and disturbances in the Ruhr today caused abrupt declines of more than 40 points in the price of French francs and 2 cents in the price of sterling.

After dropping from 6.34½ to 5.85 cents on heavy selling from abroad on the early dealings, francs fluctuated erratically during the remainder of the day's trading, rebounding at one time to 6.17 and falling back again at the close to around 5.95 cents. Interests close to the Bank of France said the break was a technical reaction, and no attempt was made to support the rates. Sterling sold below $4.36, but later recovered about a cent. London selling was said to have been influenced by fears of a delay in the reparation settlement.

SHIPPING BOARD RECANTS STAND

Reverses Section 28 Action by 4-to-3 Ballot

Time is Held Not Ripe for Application of Act

Commission Must Rescind Order on Operation

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The Shipping Board voted tonight to withdraw, without conditions, its certification to the Interstate Commerce Commission that existing shipping facilities warranted application of the preferential rail rate provisions of the Merchant Marine Act.

The vote by which the board reversed its previous position in reference to Section No. 28 of the Merchant Marine Act was along party lines and was 4 to 3. Commissioners Thompson, Haney and Benson cast the dissenting ballots.

STORM OF PROTEST

Commissioner Thompson in a statement, after the final vote declared withdrawal of the application by a majority of the board "may stop forever the establishment of American flag preference and for that reason is to be regretted deeply."

Chairman O'Connor, Vice-Chairman Plummer and Commissioners Lasker and Hull voted for withdrawal.

The resolution declared that since the board's certification resolution February 27, last, declaring tonnage and services were sufficient to place Section 28 in effect, upon which the Interstate Commerce Commission entered an order making it operative May 20 and later extended it to June 10, a storm of protests has arisen from exporters and importers claiming great financial losses would accrue to them and American foreign commerce in general if the section were made effective.

It also pointed out that since its original action, evidence had been presented before the House Merchant Marine Committee, which held hearings on the subject, and to the board itself, which was not obtained when a board committee held hearings on Section 28 throughout the country two years ago.

As a result of the information thus obtained, the resolution declared, "it now appears that for the purposes of Section 28 existing rates by rail to various ports are not properly co-ordinated."

STEP WITHDRAWN

The resolution pointed out that inasmuch as the duties imposed on the board by Section 28 of the Jones Act with respect to the development of ports "supplement the direct function of this board under Section 23 and because it is the desire that the action heretofore taken shall not result in a disturbance of commerce in its natural flow and to the end that further opportunity may be given for the efficient development and adjustment of all factors involved prior to a recertification of adequacy of shipping facilities, it is hereby resolved:

"That the United States Shipping Board hereby withdraws the certification in its resolution relative to Section 28 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1920, passed by it on February 27, last, and thereafter duly certified to the Interstate Commerce Commission."

Upon withdrawal of the certification, the Interstate Commerce Commission automatically is required to rescind its order placing the section into effect.

The resolution was based substantially on a memorandum drawn up by the President's co-ordinating committee on rail and water rates, of which Secretary Hoover is chairman. President Coolidge, while favoring the principle in Section 28 to help build up a merchant marine, had consulted with several of the committee members and told them he was opposed to placing Section 28 in effect until ample time had been given to survey every phase of the question.

Efforts of the Democratic members of the board to put through a modified proposal were futile.

CHILD DIES OF HURTS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, May 8.—Ellen Mahoney, 5 years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Mahoney, died from injuries received when she was struck by a car driven by Victor R. Norris. Witnesses testify that the child, riding on a "scooter," coasted down a driveway into the street directly in front of the automobile.

NAVAL CUT IS FAVORED IN COMMONS

Coolidge Plans for Parley Lauded as New Estimates Come Up

BY VINCENT SHEEAN

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

(Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, May 8.—The House of Commons began the debate on naval estimates today with the government preparing to introduce resolutions or discussions supporting the disarmament proposals in President Coolidge's New York speech and the Senate's recent naval disarmament resolution.

C. G. Ammon, Parliamentary Secretary for the Admiralty, speaking for the government, said that President Coolidge's recent statement and the Senate's resolution had been noted with great friendliness and pleasure by the British government, which certainly would do all they could so far as this country is concerned to show a reciprocal desire to enter into any negotiations or discussions, no matter by whom started.

It is expected that a resolution complimenting the Senate's resolution will be introduced tomorrow or early next week.

BUS LINES FINANCING PROPOSED

Bay Cities Company Tells Indebtedness Plan at Commission Hearing

At a hearing before State Railroad Commissioner Shore yesterday on the applications of four transportation companies to operate bus service on Pico Boulevard to Santa Monica, the Bay Cities Transit Company, one of the applicants, proposed a method of financing the operation of the line by incurring indebtedness.

At a previous hearing Commissioner Shore said $40,000 in cash and $100,000 at the end of the first year of operation would be required of the operating company that was given the certificate.

The Bay Cities Company proposal differed from the commissioner's suggestion and he said he could not consider any proposition of financing bus operation on Pico street which did not show the qualities of a substantial certainty.

Another point of difference was in connection with the cost per mile of operating motor busses. C. E. Anderson, secretary of the Bay Cities Transit Company, testified the concern operated during 1923 in Santa Monica at approximately 13 1-2 cents a mile, while other companies have told the commission they could not profitably operate for much less than 25 cents a mile.

The Bay Cities Transit Company's contention, however, was held in abeyance until today when the matter is expected to be definitely determined. The question of fares probably will be discussed and the hearing concluded.

At the present time the Pacific Electric holds the certificate to operate over the route but execution has not been made final, pending the outcome of the present rehearing.

College-Bred Rats Win Test Over Students

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, May 8.—College-bred rats have much better memories than students in the University of Chicago, at least in so far as muscular actions are concerned.

This was revealed today as the result of a series of tests conducted in the psychology department of the university, in which students' "motor memories" and those of rats were compared.

A number of rats were run through a maze until they could find their way out without mistake. Fifty students, blindfolded, were put through the same test. Twenty per cent of the students failed, while only 4 per cent of the rats failed to find their way out.

HARMONY WITH JAPAN DESIRED

United States Chamber of Commerce Stand

J. H. Barnes Retained as Organization Head

Domestic and World View on Issues Given

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CLEVELAND, May 8.—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States in the final session of its twelfth annual convention here today, pledged the wholehearted support of organized business to efforts to bring about through friendly negotiation "the most amicable understanding" with Japan on the question of immigration.

Unanimous adoption without debate, of a resolution embodying that stand occurred amid greater applause than greeted any other of the twenty-six expressions approved by the convention.

President Julius H. Barnes, Duluth (Minn.) grain merchant, and war-time director of the United States Grain Corporation, was selected for the third time by the board of directors to head the chamber. He has served two full terms.

O. M. Clark, representing the Portland (Or.) Chamber of Commerce, who yesterday seconded the motion of Edward E. Filene of Boston, against exclusion, was elected to the directorate of the chamber.

WORLD QUESTIONS

Touching on other matters international in scope, the convention expressed "accord with the underlying sentiments and essential principles" of the experts' report on reparations; urged American support of the International Court of Justice through Senatorial consent "to the proposal which has been made by the Executive" and prompt ratification by the United States of the Treaty of Lausanne.

On pending or prospective legislation, the report of the resolutions committee dealt with taxation, immigration, agriculture, postal service, soldier bonus, railroad labor board, and Section 28 of the Merchant Marine Act.

On questions of national policy the report approved a constitutional amendment to permit Federal highway appropriations for new construction on transcontinental routes through semidesert regions of the public domain in the Western States; economy in government through elimination of "uneconomic expenditures; enactment of legislation for the encouragement of aeronautics; peace-time industrial mobilization for war and the principle of workmen's compensation insurance. The proposal to alter the power of the Federal Supreme Court to declare legislation unconstitutional was condemned.

FOR OPEN SHOP

An utterance on industrial relations reaffirmed the expression of the 1920 convention, which declared the right of open-shop operation "an essential part" of the right of contract.

Clauses in the Lausanne Treaty viewed as unfavorable to foreign commercial enterprises, the promised success of the experts' committee's work in aiding the economic stabilization of Europe and the vigorous handling of the exclusion question and the present convention were mentioned as indicative of the need for and probable influence of such a policy on America's international relations.

A resolution sponsored by insurance interests advocating automobile registration as a protective measure against theft was approved. Other resolutions urged steps to establish definitely the status and proper functions of trade associations and special schooling for trade organizations' executives.

BASIC TAX PRINCIPLES

The guiding principles in tax revision, the report stated, should be those designed to increase the capital available "for productive enterprise and commerce." Protest was entered against the proposal to make public income-tax reports and against special State taxes on insurance companies.

"Agriculture needs no new recognition from other fields of economic activity in the United States," said a resolution opposing the McNary-Haugen bill for a government buying corporation to control price levels of farm products.

"Misfortune has come to some forms of agriculture by reason, in part, of conditions to which all business activity is subject and in part to the hazards to which agriculture is peculiarly exposed," it read.

The soldier bonus and the Howell-Barkley bill, which would abolish the Railroad Labor Board, were opposed.

Judge Reaches Office to Find Furniture Gone

DES MOINES, May 8.—"Who's moving?"

Judge Jesse Miller glanced over the office furniture in the process of transference.

"Don't know," laconically responded the lift boy at the Youngerman Building. "Some guy on the fourth floor."

"My floor," mused the judge, as his mind again turned to his law books and an approaching case in court.

"What that—!"

The judge, as he turned into his own office, completely lost continuity of thought, law case and everything.

For his rooms were stripped, cleaned, bared. Even the rugs were on the way—somewhere.

It was his own office furniture he met on his way up.

Fifteen minutes later the goods were on the way back.

HUGE STONE QUARRIED

WILLMAR (Minn.) May 8.—A slab of stone which is believed to be the largest ever taken from a quarry in this section of the country has just been cut near Cold Springs. The slab is to be used in the construction of a new bank building in California. The stone measures 26 feet in length and its other dimensions are 3 1-2 by 4 feet, and it weighs 50,000 pounds.

Man Puts Hot Water Bottle and Brandy in Coffin, Then Hangs Self

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERNAY (France) May 8. Elaborate preparations for his final rest were made by Ernest Deshayes, a laborer, before taking his life here recently. First he invested all his savings in a handsome oak coffin. When it was delivered he placed in it a soft pillow, a hot water bottle and a flask of old brandy.

Then, dressing himself in his best, he hanged himself, choosing for the purpose a peach tree in full bloom.

ARMENIAN'S CITIZENSHIP TRIAL OPENS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND, May 8.—Trial of the citizenship of Tatos O. Cartosian, Portland rug dealer, was started in the United States District Court today before Judge C. E. Wolverton. The case, whatever the decision, will be appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Upon the final outcome of this trial hinges the eligibility of all Armenians to American citizenship and the citizenship and property rights of more than 10,000 Armenians in this country upon whom citizenship already has been conferred.

The action at court is a suit brought by the government to cancel the citizenship papers issued to the defendant a year ago. The legal point to be settled is whether an Armenian is a "white person" as the term was used and understood by the common people of America in 1790 when the original naturalization law was enacted.

Girl Attempts Suicide After Love Quarrel

A lover's quarrel is said by police to have prompted Alice Glass, 20 years of age, to attempt suicide last night in her apartment at 947 Francisco street while her supposed sweetheart and his mother were visiting her.

The youth and his mother, Earl Reardon, and Mrs. Reda Barclay, respectively, who also lived in the apartment house, dropped in to see the girl. The girl and youth quarreled, Reardon told police. Shortly afterward the girl swallowed a vial of spirits of ammonia. She was taken to Receiving Hospital where Dr. Dodge said her condition is critical.

CURE FAKER IS CONVICTED

Albrextondare Found Guilty of Illegal Practice of Medicine; to be Sentenced Today

R. H. Albrextondare, professed scientist, physician and discoverer of a so-called rejuvenation treatment, was found guilty by a jury in Judge West's department of the Superior Court at Santa Ana yesterday of practicing medicine without a license.

The jury deliberated just five minutes. It took the case at 4:25 p.m. and returned with its verdict at 4:30 p.m. The self-styled scientist, whose whole conduct during the trial has been marked by extreme suavity, continued to smile when the verdict of guilty was returned. He will be sentenced by Judge West at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The trial had been in progress for two days. A similar charge is pending against the convicted prisoner in Pasadena.

Albrextondare, who is also facing a number of civil suits filed against him for the recovery of $40,000 he is asserted to have obtained through misrepresentation, created a mild sensation in the courtroom yesterday when he failed to appear for the resumption of the trial at 10 a.m. He sauntered in about 1 p.m., however, and smilingly explained that he had been slightly ill because of an old wound he had received in the World War and was therefore delayed.

DENIES LAW BREACH

Immediately after his appearance he was placed on the witness stand. This he occupied for an even two minutes, being withdrawn from the stand because of the objections raised by the defense to the questions put to him by the prosecution.

During the time he was on the stand, however, "Dr." Albrextondare took occasion to deny that he had practiced medicine without a license, but stated that he was the discoverer of a number of cures which he was willing to share with those who solicited aid from him.

The principal witnesses against Albrextondare yesterday were Mrs. M. B. Thompson, mother of the late Myrtle Thompson; Dr. Morris Thompson, a local dentist and brother of the dead girl, and William Rohrs, father of Evelyn Rohrs, who is also dead. Both the dead girls were treated by Albrextondare. A score of bottles and boxes containing the remedies which the convicted man said he had evolved were also placed in the evidence by the prosecution.

BONDS ACTION HALTED

Albrextondare fared better in Superior Court here yesterday than he did at Santa Ana. The suit brought against him by Jennie McFadden and her daughter was temporarily thrown out of court by Judge Collier of the Superior Court.

In their suit, the two women asked for the recovery of $17,000 in Liberty Bonds which they assert they lent to the defendant on his assertions that he needed the money to pay off obligations against valuable property and gems belonging to him. They were given ten days in which to file an amended complaint in the action.

TERMED AS DIET

Albrextondare, arrested on a warrant sworn to by Special Agent Carter of the State Board of Medical Examiners, was accused of administering medicines and vegetable potions to Miss Myrtle Thompson and Miss Evelyn Rohrs, both of Orange, afflicted with incurable heart disease. A similar charge has been filed against him by Carter in Los Angeles county.

The defense of the man, who declares that he is several years older than the thirty years he looks, was that he had not administered medicines but had prescribed diets.

The day's trial was punctured every few moments by objections on the part of the counsel for Albrextondare. Counsel for the self-styled "food specialist" objected to witnesses using the term "medicine" and consequently when Otto Snaker, one of counsel for the "doctor," inadvertently used the term "medicine" himself a titter went over the courtroom.

Alice B. Anderson, nurse at the Rohrs home, testified that she had seen "Doctor" Albrextondare give "medicine" to Evelyn Rohrs, one of the two girls attended by Albrextondare who succumbed to incurable heart trouble. Defense counsel took exception to her using the term "medicine" and she replied hotly:

"If you please, that is what he called it himself."

ALFALFA ELIXIR

A large white jar which Miss Lillian Thompson testified the defendant had left at the Thompson home was the center of extended questioning. The attorneys for the "food specialist" maintained that no positive identification of the jar and its contents could be made. Mrs. Anderson, when asked concerning this jar, said she was sure it was the same, "Because I never smelled any medicine like that in my life."

From this jar Albrextondare was asserted to have taken his "elixir of life," composed largely of alfalfa, pea pods, garlic and onions.

Albrextondare himself took the stand, but was allowed to remain but a few moments under a barrage of objections of Dep. Dist. Atty. C. N. Mozley. The questions asked him by his own counsel were intended to show that he had never given anyone to understand that he was a practicing physician, but on the other hand had declared that he had no license and that he was not allowed to prescribe "medicines."

Angels Drop Ninth Straight Game After Sailing Into Final Inning With a Six Run Lead

BY ROBERT E. RAY

You never can tell when the Angels are licked, but you can be pretty sure that they are licked. Yesterday, for instance, the Angels went into the ninth with a six-run lead and came out with no lead at all. Yes, the Oaks won out in the tenth, but it was the ninth straight defeat for the Angels, who really don't know what their wings are for.

Pitched like a certain Angel could in the ninth with the score three runs, 5 to 2, but Tom Seaton petered out and, with Elmer Smith, dissipated away the lead, allowing the Oaks to score three runs and even the count. Weinert and Wallace were on the mound for the Seraphs in the ninth, while the visitors drove in Kamm. Kunz gets credit for the victory, while Weinert is charged with the defeat. Other players participating in the field were Boehler, Siebold and Jacobs for Oakland, and Hughes, Myers and Wallace for Los Angeles.

KAMM INJURED

Willie Kamm, who started for the Oaks and had to retire in the third inning because he had his hand spiked by a hard liner from Hughes, left the game. Siebold then went in for Kamm and the Seraphs made all their runs off him.

The Angels scored enough runs in the ninth to win a game for an ordinary ball club, but then the Angels are no ordinary ball club; they are in doubt as to whether the Angels are a ball club or a track team. Nine runs were scored off Siebold in this frame. Galvin led off with a single, Krug filed to Armstrong, Twombly popped to Maisel, walked, and the bases filled when Whaley singled into right, scoring Galvin. Back then faced Brubaker, who tied the score by driving a long double to right center, driving in Whaley and Jacobs over the fielder's head. Cooper's single to left scored Brubaker.

Siebold then picked Hughes for a victim and struck him out on the sixth on singles by Armstrong, Lafayette, and Guisto's double. The Los Angeles came back in their half of the sixth and scored three more. A walk, two infield choices, an error by Maisel and singles by Twombly and Galvin accounted for the three runs.

ALL SMOOTH

Everything went along smoothly in the ninth when the Oaks got to Hughes for three hits off Hughes and Siebold chased over six runs to tie the count lighter than a feather on the scales. Goeble, batting for the Oaks, was up against it in this frame, getting a single and a walk. Adams also helped matters along by getting a single his way to second and fanning to end the inning. Brubaker in his second appearance at the bat poked a single over second and Cooper paved the way to victory by singling in the tenth. Cooper stole his way to second to go to the Angel shortstop's throw into the dugout, and kept right on going to second. A wild pitch and a sacrifice fly by Armstrong produced Brubaker, and then the latter proceeded to bat in four more runs off Weinert and Wallace.

The same teams play today. What of it? Score:

ANOTHER HEAVYWEIGH SIGNED BY WINDSOR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Floyd Glotzbach, former husband of Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, and now a chauffeur at Del Monte, has entered the national competition of heavyweights to find a rival for Jack Dempsey, it was announced today by Fred Winsor, who is handling the competition for the West.

According to Winsor, Glotzbach has entered under the name of "Frank Howland," Monterey, in six feet tall, weighs 195 pounds and is 26 years old. He is described by Winsor as "promising."

SHADE FACES SCHLAIFER

CLEVELAND (O.) May 8.—The proposed 10-round decision bout between Morrie Schlaifer, Omaha, and Dave Shade, California, welterweights, here May 23, was approved by the boxing commission.

DERBY FAVORITE LAME

James, Conqueror of Famous Zev, Is Out of Both Preakness and Kentucky Classics

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 8.—St. James, winner over Zev in a recent race, favorite for the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, will not be able to face the $50,000 event at Primlico, Md., next Monday. According to word received from Jamaica track, St. James went lame after running the mile and an eighth this afternoon. Jack Joyner, trainer, said the colt's horse's condition was so bad that he would also be out of the Derby.

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) May 8.—Quarters for jockeys for the Kentucky Derby was on here today. With the arrival this morning of Earl Sande, the Derby racing colony at Churchill Downs is complete.

Many of the rich established east and west have their entries, other owners who have not gone in on a smaller scale have the most lively fight among jockeys that ever took place before the running of a classic.

Interest centered on the mount Sande will ride Altawood, the dark blue-grass sensation, owned by Beau Butler of the Butler stable into defeat Preakness yesterday. C. Bruce Hunter offered the mount to Sande after a Kentucky boy, who, it was thought, thinks so well of the colt's chances that he has decided to stay, if was reported.

Sande will ride Chilhowee, a Derby hope owned by Mrs. John Gallaher of Chilhowee, who has been as fast as any horse in this section, will also be a starter in the Handicap, Saturday, it was announced. Derby entries include Earl and Wilson Wallace, D. Jones, and E. Kennedy.

Sande will come to the front of the section headed by Earl Sande, and Laverne Fator, the Rancoas stars. Other eastern owners have under contract the following riders:

Mrs. Payne Whitney-Ivan Parke and Frankie Coltiletti; Harry Payne Whitney, L. McAtee and Johnny Corcoran; George D. Widener, Arthur Johnson; Oak Ridge Stable, Johnny Callahan and Tommy McTaggert; G. W. Cochran, F. W. Hastings; J. S. Cosden, C. Kummer; Bud Fisher, Jack Merimee; E. B. McLane, N. Huff.

A Pacific Coast rider, George Ellis, will travel east to ride the dark hourse, Cannon Shot. He is scheduled to arrive Sunday night.

Churchill Downs and Douglas Park were rolling in mud today and of all the derby candidates quartered here Cannon Shot was the only one brought out for a work-out, doing seven-eighths in the heavy muck at Douglas Park in 1m. 31s.

While the time was not fast, the gallop convinced the clockers that he can go in the mud. Cannon Shot may not win the derby, but his work-outs here to date have been impressive.

While news of the possible withdrawal of Sarazan and St. James from the derby was received with a good deal of regret in Kentucky, horsemen here today expressed the belief that it would serve all the more to increase the derby field.

They point out that many owners who feared the eastern stars will now be willing to take a chance in the derby and that it more than ever makes an open race of it.

OBSERVATIONS by the INNOCENT BYSTANDER

W.M.H.

Mr. Charles A. Dean, manager of the American Olympic team, certainly pulled in his ears in a hurry the other day after making a few badly chosen and silly remarks about Charley Paddock. First, the papers published what he said, then somebody evidently got him in a corner and told him what an ass he was making of himself, and then he came out with a sickening, slobbery statement that he never said it, didn't mean it if he did say it, and anyhow, Charley is a nice boy and a perfect gentleman and all the rest of it.

In the course of Mr. Dean's remarks, which were quoted so fully as to make it rather plain that he really uttered them, he said that Paddock had never made the 100 yards in 9 3-5 seconds outside his own State and admitted that he doubted seriously if Paddock ever did run the hundred that fast. While it is true that Paddock never ran the century in 9 3-5 seconds outside the State, he did run it at Berkeley, and the timers there can't be accused of being too friendly.

Dean finally came out and admitted the real source of all the eastern dislike of Paddock—his refusal to travel east whenever they seemed to want him and compete in their meets. Paddock traveled very little during his career as a record-holder and his refusal to go to the East and compete in the big contests had a very decided effect on the gate receipts—hence the dislike of Mr. Paddock.

Duke Kahanamoku's chances of winning his third Olympic 100-meter championship at Paris this year look even brighter with the announcement from Chicago that Norman Ross in all probability will not be a competitor. Not that Ross would have any chance of beating the Duke—far from it—but because the absence of Ross makes it practically certain that the Olympic committee will want to use Johnny Weissmuller in the distance races and leave the sprint to Kahanamoku.

It isn't at all certain that Weissmuller could beat the Duke anyway, but Johnny's admitted ability to swim the long distances at great speed, coupled with the Duke's well-known ability to ramble over the century in certainly as good time as Weissmuller, makes it practically certain that the two will not meet at Paris. However, they'll undoubtedly meet in the eastern tryouts and that ought to be worth seeing.

The troubles of management are now weighing heavily upon the shoulders of Manty Krug, who is faced with the job of piloting a ball club that isn't winning and, therefore, isn't very popular in its own home town. The merry razzberry which greeted Marty on his first appearance of the week after dropping an awful total of games on the road was enough to dishearten pretty nearly anybody.

Marty's worst difficulty lies in the fact that his team looked pretty good the first week, beating the Tigers handily and thereby upsetting all the dope. Most of the "experts" had the Seraphs doped out as near-tailenders, and if they had started that way nobody would have been particularly upset. But they looked so good the first week, and now—well, go out and see for yourself, although they looked a lot better Wednesday than they did the day before.

The player-writer controversy in the tennis world is threatening to displace the hoof-and-mouth disease as the most rapidly spreading epidemic. The latest to be gnawed by the "resignation" bug is Carl Fischer, the Philadelphia college boy, who played so sensationally last season. It seems that Carl has been picking up a vagrant nickel here and there writing tennis articles, and now he thinks that he ought to join Tilden and Richards in their hurling of resignations at the tennis powers that be.

It seems evident that there is a concerted effort in the East to make an issue of the player-writer situation and Tilden and Richards, who are the only persons really affected by the ruling, are attempting to drag in everybody else and get them to resign, too. The committee is just sitting quiet and letting the boys holler for a while, after which they will probably get busy and proceed along the lines they originally intended to.

HARTZ ON HAND FOR INDIANAPOLIS RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, May 8.—Harry Hartz, the best second-place driver seen here in ages, has arrived to drive a Durant Special in the international 500-mile race to be held at Indianapolis Motor Speedway Friday, May 30.

PHYTHIAN WINS AGAIN

Plucky U.S.C. Gridder Beats Poffenberg in Olympic Tryouts at Jack Doyle's Pavilion

175-pound class—Hayden Phythian, U.S.C.
160-pound class—Al Alegrene, L.A.A.C.
147-pound class—Clayton Frye, L.A.A.C.
135-pound class—Julius Jessick, L.A.A.C.
126-pound class—Joe Salas, L.A.A.C.
118-pound class—August Gotto, L.A.A.C.
112-pound class—Fidel Labarba, L.A.A.C.

Hayden Phythian of the U.S.C. won the 175-pound class from Scott Poffenberg, unattached, in a very gory encounter. The first round was all Phythian. For a while the second round looked to be the same but suddenly Poffenberg staged a quick rally and was all over his man. He had Phythian in a bad way when the round ended and the crowd went wild.

In the third round both men went at it hammer and tongs and the gloves flew fast. It was so close that the judges ordered another round. It was then that Phythian through wonderful grit and determination, milled his way to the front and won the decision. Both men were covered with gore when the final gong sounded.

The 126-pound laurels went to Joe Salas L.A.A.C. who knocked out Sailor Levi of the U.S.S. Mississippi in the second round with a right to the chin. August Gotto won in the 118-pound class from Ned Golden, both L.A.A.C., decision. Fidel La Barba, L.A.A.C. captured the 112-pound class by knocking out Harry Paza of the U.S.C. in the first round.

In the 160 pound class Al Allegrini, L.A.A.C., defeated Sailor Virhus of the U.S.S. Mississippi. Al was down for the count of three in the second round but came back strong and had all the better of the milling thereafter and was awarded the decision.

Clayton Frye, L.A.A.C., knocked out Jimmy O'Fallon of the Pasadena Athletic Club in the third round with a right to the stomach. Julius Jessick, L.A.A.C., won the 135-pound class by default. An extra bout was substituted, Jessick defeating Kid McCorman by a technical knockout in the third round. He had McGorman down for the count of "nine" and when Mac got up he was floored again. It was then that the referee stopped the set-to and raised Jessick's hand.

FRENCH OBSTINATE ON PHOTO RIGHTS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, May 8.—The breach between the American Olympic rugby football team and the French committee over the refusal of the latter to permit the Americans to take their own pictures of the United States-Rumania match Sunday, remained unhealed today. Manager Samuel Goodman even threatening to abandon the game if the permission were not granted.

The French committee had previously let the photographic concessions for the entire period of the Olympic games to a French company.

MULTNOMAH MAY NOT ENTER SWIM TRYOUTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 8.—Unless the date for the Pacific Northwest Olympic swimming tryouts to be held at Lake Stellacoom, Wash., May 25, is changed, there is a possibility that athletes representing the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club will not compete, according to a report today.

The reason for the advisability of not competing arising in the minds of the club officials is that the date for the events falls on Sunday. Multnomah Club has never since organization, countenanced Sunday competition in any line, club officials said, nor has any Pacific Northwest Amateur competition been held on Sunday.

RANCORAS HORSES HAVE GREAT DAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, May 8.—It was a banner day for the Rancoras stables, owned by Harry F. Sinclair, when Finn Lag captured the Auburndale Handicap, the fourth race at six furlongs. The Rancoras stables won the first four races. Hourmore won the first, Mad Play took down the second and Rival came home in the third.

Young Corbett Is Walloped by Navy Star

The C.P.O. bouts at Los Angeles Harbor last night drew the biggest house that was ever squeezed into the pavilion and the fans sure did get a run for their money. In the feature event, Sailor Condenia, all-Navy champion welterweight, won from Young Corbett of Fresno. It was a cracking good set-to all the way. In the semifinal, George Etcell, all-Navy bantamweight champion, got a draw with Pico Ramies of San Pedro. Plenty of action at all times. In the special, Hank Gastine of San Pedro, lost to Sailor Reed of the U.S.S. Idaho. It was a mountain of a clash all the way, but the decision was poor—should have been a draw.

In the classiest crimson fight of the night, Roy Moore of Los Angeles got a draw with Sailor Murphy of the U.S.S. Tennessee. Moore had all the first three rounds but in the final session, Murphy showed his true nationality by staging a whale of a comeback and evened matters. Sailor Baille of the U.S.S. New Mexico knocked out Mike Walters of Los Angeles in the first round with a dainty little left to the meat crusher.

SAN FRANCISCO BOWLERS ON TOP

San Francisco bowlers went into first and second place last night at Venice on the team events at the Pacific Coast Bowling Congress, in progress there. The Belber Trunks team of San Francisco rolled into top position with a score of 2802 pins, while the Lundstrom Hats aggregation of the same city went into second with a score of 2775 points.

In the doubles, Barno and Hawkins of Los Angeles replaced Robinson and McGee of Santa Monica for first place with a score of 1186 points. Chalmers of Venice went into top place in the all-events with a total score of 1776 pins.

ARIZONA CHAMPIONS TO MEET SAN DIEGO

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, May 8.—Tucson High School's baseball team, champions of Arizona, will come to San Diego for a three-game series with the senior high school team late this month, the dates to be determined shortly. Tucson won the high school baseball title in Arizona by defeating the Phoenix team. The games here will be played in the stadium.

MAIERMEN WIN OUT IN NINTH

Vernon Scores Three Runs in Final Frame

Tigers Keep Heads Up and Cop by 8 to 6

Locals Now Tied for First Place With Seals

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—The Vernon Tigers hit only one ball out of the infield today in the ninth inning, yet they scored three runs, wiping out a one-run lead the Seals had been nursing and winning the game by a score of 8 to 6. The two teams are again tied for first place.

The Seals got off in front by scoring four runs in the third inning. The Tigers came back with four in the fourth, tying the score. A home run by Frank Shellenback accounted for three of them. Then the Tigers took a turn at leading by scoring a run in the seventh. But the Seals came back with two in their half of the seventh on Eddie Mulligan's home run following Valla's single.

THINGS HAPPEN

That was the situation when the ninth opened—the Seals leading by one run. Then things began to happen. Pete Schneider hit the ball hard and as Hal Rhyne swooped in on it the ball took a bad hop and struck him on the chest. Big Pete was safe at first base. Blakesley made a chip shot and the ball bounced lazily down toward Mulligan. Blakesley might have beaten the throw to first, but Mulligan made it easy for him by throwing the ball high over Ellison's head, so that Schneider went to third and Blakesley took second.

Manager Ellison yanked George Burger out at this spot and sent Shovel Hodge into pitch. Then he ordered Hodge to walk Kimmick to fill the bases and make a set up for a double play. Bill Essick jerked McDowell out of the lineup and sent Menosky to bat for him. Menosky made good with a single to right that scored Schneider with the tying run. That was the only ball hit out of the infield in the inning.

RHYNE FEATURES

The Seals' infield was pulled in on the grass to choke a run off at the plate and Hal Rhyne made a really marvelous play when he snapped up a ball that Griffin had hit hard and winged Blakesley out at the plate. Hal scooped the ball with his left hand while all out of position, but he made the play.

The bases were filled all this time so when Hodge walked Murphy, he forced in Kimmick with the winning run. Warner hit to Ellison, who shot Menosky out at the plate, but when Sam Agnew threw to Ellison trying to complete a double play, Griffin kept on running and scored, beating Ellison's return throw to the plate.

Shellenback finally forced Warner at second to retire the side, but the damage had already been done. Shellenback made short work of Kelly, Valla and Mulligan in the last of the ninth and the Tigers went whooping off the field gleefully. Score:

SAREZAN UNABLE TO ENTER BIG HANDICAP

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 8.—Sarazen, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's derby candidate and favorite in the winter betting, will not start in the Kentucky classic May 17.

Max Hirsch, who trains the three-year-old, decided today the colt, which was unbeaten in ten races in his two-year-old form, lacked the dash that characterized his running last year.

ANGELUS TEAM BOWLS INTO FOURTH PLACE

The Angelus Academy's crack bowling squad played its match in the Pacific Coast championships Wednesday night and rolled up the huge count of 2706 pins, landing fourth place, up to last night's standings.

E. H. Cleckner, manager at the Angelus, announces that he has called a meeting for tonight at the Angelus, 8 o'clock sharp, for all members of teams entered in the Commercial Bowling League.

LOOK OUT!

Floyd Johnson, who was touted as the coming heavyweight champion until Jess Willard whaled him into unconsciousness, is starting a comeback tonight, attempting to stave off the latest South American prodigy, Romero Rojas. The first appearance of the Chilean heavyweight when he meets Johnson in a New York ring tonight will be watched with great interest by boxing fans all over the world. Some folks believe he will be better than Firpo.

DECATHLON TRIALS TODAY

Star All-around Athletes Start Their Scramble for Honors Today

A three-man track meet, and a mighty good one at that, will be staged at the Coliseum this afternoon when the local tryouts for the decathlon are staged. The winner of the trials will go to Boston next month, with the United States Olympic team being the cherished goal.

This afternoon's events include a 100-meter dash, 400-meter dash, sixteen-pound shot put and the high and broad jumps. Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the final five events will be staged, the athletes competing in the 110-meter hurdles, discus, javeline, pole vault and 1500-meter run.

Otto Anderson, Morton Kaer and Charles Lewis are the principals in the affair, all three having something of a reputation as iron men de luxe. Anderson has been one of the mainstays of the U.S.C. track team for some years, specializing in the hurdles. During the past season he has slowed up some, but is good enough in the decathlon to take any man in the country extend himself.

Kaer is a Trojan frosh. He has plenty of speed and is a great low hurdler. In addition he can throw the javelin about 170ft., and broad jump something over 23ft.

Several years ago Lewis was a star at Cornell, attending Occidental before that. He is at his best in the pole vault, being able to clear 12ft. 6in. practically any day in the week.

Brutus Hamilton, former University of Missouri athlete, won the finals of the Olympic trials four years ago. His total score was 7022.9815 out of a possible 10,000. It will be interesting to see how the local men shape up in comparison with Hamilton.

Two Hunters Lose to Seaver and Pim Palmer

BY CHARLES WEST

The Los Angeles Country Club ten-man golf team brought order out of chaos yesterday at Flintridge in winning undisputed right to the Class A team title after battling through bitter opposition provided by Annandales' representatives, 3 matches to 2. Thus ends a struggle for the championship which began last January, came to a climax with three teams tied last week, resulted in another tie after Flintridge's golfers had been eliminated in the first play-off at Midwick Tuesday, and was then finally settled yesterday afternoon against the favorites.

It was Frank Tatum's fifteen-foot putt for a birdie three on the twentieth hole which gave the Beverly players the title at last. Annandale and Los Angeles had each won two matches, and Tatum and Maj. Karnes were even with Horace Ingalls and W. P. Herbert of Annandale at the eighteenth. The nineteenth was halved in fours, and then Tatum rose to the occasion, winning one of his few holes of the match with the valuable birdie.

HUNTERS LOSE

Everett Seaver and C. H. Palmer, Jr., accomplished the unexpected in defeating Dr. Paul Hunter and R. E. Hunter of Annandale, 1 up in the first foursome. The second foursome went to Harlow Hurley and Robert Finkbine of Annandale, who won from W. W. Campbell and Fred LeBlond, Jr., 1 up. Clark Speirs and John Arnaill captured the third match in the interests of Los Angeles from A. D. S. Johnson and Pardee Erdman, 2 and 1, while Charles Ransome and Frank Chaffee scored for Anandale in the last foursome, winning from Maury McLoughlin and Gordon Williams, 3 and 2.

As the play-off was arranged late Tuesday night, Flintridge officials had not had time to get the course in the best of condition for the championship match. The greens on the first nine had a top dressing, which made them extremely slow, although they were dry enough to let pitches roll off. Several aprons had long grass, while the eighteenth fairway needed cutting badly.

In spite of these handicaps, which, of course, favored neither team, some excellent playing was brought out in the five matches. Pim Palmer played splendid golf, having an approximate medal score of 74 in spite of two balls out of bounds on the fifteenth. He carried most of the burden in defeating the two Hunters, as Seaver was slightly erratic, while Dr. Paul Hunter was forced to play the best ball of Seaver and Palmer, Bob Hunter being completely off form. The Annandale combination won the first hole when Paul made a birdie, but Palmer squared matters on the short third with a birdie two, and a pair of fours by the Beverly representative put Annandale one down at the fifth, a margin which stood at the turn.

WINS ELEVENTH

Palmer increased this advantage to two holes on the eleventh, doing it unaided, as Seaver lost his ball. The Hunters scored fours on the fourteenth, cutting the lead to one hole once more, and the rest of the holes were halved.

Bob Hunter booted away two chances to square the match, missing a two-foot putt on the sixteenth and a four-footer on the seventeenth.

Campbell and LeBlond let Hurley and Finkbine get an early lead of three holes and, in spite of excellent work by Campbell, who won back two holes, the Los Angeles players could not overtake their opponents. Campbell had a 76 for his round.

Ingalls and Herberts were all square with Tatum and Karnes at the turn and neither team ever had enough of a lead to count for anything until things were settled on the extra green.

George Cline, chairman of the team-match committee, celebrated the conclusion of the hectic season by competing in a high-powered sevensome with Fred Wright, Frank Godchaux, Assistant Professional Paul Scott, Bud Yoakum, Ralph Reynolds and Ben Fahy. Wright had a 70, Godchaux a 74, Scott a 75, Yoakum a 76 and the others scored on an ascending scale. The best ball of Wright, Godchaux, Scott and Yoakum was 60, 37 for the first nine and 23 for the second.

WOMEN'S TOURNEY ON DECK

Invitational Golf Affair at Flintridge Country Club Opens Monday

Entries are being received for the women's invitational golf tournament at the Flintridge Country Club, which opens Monday with the qualifying rounds. Miss Doreen Kavanagh, holder of the State title, has signified her intention of competing in the medal play at least, while several other stars are expected to enter, according to Mrs. George E. Black, chairman of the women's golf committee at Flintridge.

In addition to the regular tournament, for which a handsome array of trophies has been offered, a driving contest will be held Wednesday afternoon, an approaching and putting contest Thursday, and mixed foursomes Friday after the finals in the tournament.

The tournament is to be held under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary, S.C.G.A., and will call for qualifying in flights according to handicap.

MYSTERY AIDS DOCTOR

Patients Prefer to Hear Ailments Described in Latin, Physician Says

Somebody, long ago, must have invented a "typical doctor," just as Sir Arthur Conan Doyle invented Sherlock Holmes. Because all patients know "what a doctor should look like" and be like, and resent it if the particular specimen they are dealing with does not exactly fit their ideas.

One of the cleverest physicians I ever knew was handicapped all his professional life by what his patients called his "unprofessional manner." One day he was called to see a housemaid who had a rash on her face. Her mistress had already decided that this rash was scarlet fever. "Yes," said my friend, "it might be." He went downstairs and met the daughter of the house, who greeted him with the statement, "Jane has got measles, hasn't she?" "Yes," he said, "it might be measles."

He left the house, and a few yards from the gate encountered the head of the family, a retired Indian colonel, who rather fancied himself as an amateur physician. "Well, doctor," he exclaimed, "have you seen that case of nettlerash in my house?" "Oh, yes," came the reply. "It might be nettlerash." When the colonel got home his wife met him with a gleam of triumph in her eye. "The doctor says it is scarlet fever," she began. "I knew I was right." That was how the quarrel began.

Yet to do these people justice they thought the world of their doctor and called him in to the end of his long life. It is not always so. Quite recently a young friend of mine was ignominiously dismissed from a case because he stated that the patient was suffering from nettlerash. The older physician whose partner he was had the wit next day to call the complaint urticaria—which means the same thing. Generally speaking people like to be ill in the Latin language.

Occasionally, on the other hand, it pays to be outspoken. There was a great consultant in Harley street some years ago who had a bad temper. A certain duchess noted for her talkativeness called him in and began at once to retail her symptoms. The consultant stood it for a few minutes. Then he commanded in a loud voice: "My good woman, will you kindly hold your tongue." He made a friend on the spot.

Perhaps the most troublesome patients are those who have a smattering of medicine. One of them once annoyed the late Sir William Osler by demanding that he should take "an electric picture of my heart." Sir William drew himself up. "I regret, madam," he said, "that I have no experience . . . of conjuring."

He told me once that he knew an old doctor who kept a big coil in his consulting room. It was so big that one day he asked him what he used it for. "I use it," said the sly old fellow, "for inspiring foolish people with confidence."

He tapped it as he spoke, disclosing the fact that it was a "dummy." Then he added: "When I look at it I realize that human nature is still the chief obstacle to human progress."—[A Physician in Continental Edition of London Mail.

ENJOYED THE OPERA

"You were at the opera last evening?"

"Yes; perfectly delightful time!"

"What did you hear?"

"Hear? Oh, that Madge Gray is engaged at last, and the Brews are going to get a divorce and Bert Bailey has lost all his money, and Sue Cathro has a baby, and Mrs. Sylee was lunching with another man while her husband was out of town, and—"

"But—you don't understand. What did you see?"

"See? Why, that Kate Brady has turned her old rose gown, and that those wonderful Van Gruber diamonds we read of are only paste, and that the Adleys are not on speaking terms, and—"

"But—but—what was the name of the opera?"

"Name of the opera? Oh—why, I did see it on the program, but really I've forgotten—I've such a poor memory for details."—[Unidentified.

CLAIM ELEVEN WILL BE GREAT

Stanford Believes Squad is Sure Winner

Four Good Men Out for Each Job on Team

Veteran Candidates Have a Head Start

BY BILL LEISER

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, May 8.—One hundred and forty Stanford athletes today turned in moleskin equipment after what was termed by Glenn Warner, coach, "the best spring practice I ever conducted." Warner is now on his way back to Pittsburg, where he will spend the summer. He left Stanford quite satisfied that the Card football material is excellent, confident that he has prepared a number of new men for work with the regular varsity next October, and almost ready to believe that the first Red team which he will direct in action will be one of the best he has ever handled.

Spring practice is mainly for freshmen and new players, though in the last few days after the baseball season was completed a number of the veterans of 1923 turned out to work with the youngsters. Until Ernie Nevers, Jim Lawson, Charlie Johnston, Fred Solomon, Murray Cuddeback, and a few of the other old-timers who had been absent in other sports, reported, it seemed that Warner, Kerr, and Thornhill had a group of new men who would battle them to the last for positions in the starting lineup next fall. But the old-timers got together in a team of their own, and at the end of the last session it was rather clear to all, as to Kerr, who remarked to his chief, "Pop, I guess the youngsters will have to wait a year, after all."

Barring accidents and injuries the Cardinal material next October will be as much stronger than that of last season as that of 1923 was more powerful than the squad of the previous year. There are no less than four good men for each job and the fight for positions, which when tough is one of the best assets a football organization can have, will be a good one during the coming season, even if the old-timers do have an edge. There is Ernie Nevers, a really great fullback, who will surely hold his job and be one of the best backs on the Coast in doing it, but Harth and Bogue of the freshmen, and Solomon of last season's team are candidates who rate trials, and they will keep Ernie on the move.

For quarterback Dick Lawson, Mugs Mitchell, and Paul Baldwin are leading candidates, and Solomon is something of a signal barker himself. At halfbacks Cleaveland, Cuddeback, Garthwaite, Hyland Wheat, Dennis, Moore, Phillips, and Trambetta are enough to make any self-respecting gridder question his chance of getting a berth.

Baker is back at center, and all through spring practice he had a nice scrap with Bob Hunt, of last season's team, and Price and Anderson of the freshmen. Price is a real center.

Swan and Neill are guards of merit, and Rafetto and Paulson of the freshmen are far from bad.

Charlie Johnston and Harry Shipkey, tackles, are two-year veterans, and probably the only sure paid on the eleven. They will be first line-up men without question. Warner has a half-dozen new men aiming at their jobs, nevertheless.

Capt. Jim Lawson and Art Thomas, veterans, are back for ends, and four others will try to fight them out of the line-up. Ted Shipkey, and Wilbur Adams, freshmen, and Norman Dole and Tex Middleton, former varsity squad men, whose playing has improved steadily for two seasons.

Warner, Kerr, and Thornhill organized and planned next year's playing organization, and they are ready to start real work with the first day of fall practice, which is September 15. By the first of October they will be ready for the toughest team of the schedule, if necessary.

Stanford's track and baseball victory has proved to the Cards that the old "California jinx" no longer holds, and they believe now that the time is ripe for a real old football serpentine.

JIMMY HACKLEY AT COMPTON TONIGHT

Six fast boxing bouts will be on tap for the weekly fans at Compton tonight. Jimmy Hackley, one of the most popular battlers that Uncle Sam ever turned out, will meet his old rival, Willie O'Brien, in the main event of the bill. Several fans may be turned away tonight as the boys will have friends from San Pedro and Long Beach out to see them battle. Sailor Jimmy Byrne of the Pacific Fleet will mix with Jimmy Barry in the semi-wind-up. Jimmy is getting old but is still a good trial horse. The sailor has a good future. Tommy Richards is still doing his stuff around the smaller clubs. He meets Kid Mack in the special event. They are 135-pounders. Other bouts: Bill Sweeney vs. Mike McCarthy, 165 pounds; Jack Link vs. Rube Ferns, 150 pounds, and Art Williams vs. Bullett George, 145 pounds. Earl Mohan will referee.

OXY AND POMONA FROSH NINES MIX

The undefeated Occidental frosh baseball team will entertain the Pomona pea-greeners at Patterson Field tomorrow afternoon. The Sagechicks are not expected to win over the Tiger babes, who have the best outfit in the conference. Pomona lost to the Grizzly frosh some time ago and the Benglets bumped the Grizzlies later. There will be plenty of action tomorrow, however, as there is always lots of rivalry when the two teams meet.

The Coast's Best

Percy Niersbach, U.S.C. Half-Miler

Niersbach has run the 880 faster than any other Pacific Coast athlete this season, having covered the distance in 1:58 and is almost sure of making the trip to Boston for the final Olympic tryouts. Niersbach will be seen in action tomorrow in the western tryouts at the Coliseum.

DURAY MAKES A PROTEST

Claims Discrimination in New Rule Which Is to Limit Piston Displacement

Deeply resentful over the change in piston displacement which Ascot Speedway officials announced yesterday will be in effect thirty days hence, Leon Duray, French speed demon, last night charged that he is the victim of discriminating rules. Duray abandoned the 183-inch Miller which he drove to a sensational victory over Ralph De Palma last Sunday, in favor of a 1925 Miller chassis of light weight and an oversized 183-inch motor made possible by fitting a large cylinder block to the 183-inch engine base and crank case.

The total displacement of Duray's car would equal 237 inches, which, according to the present Ascot rules, would enable him to get within the 300-inch classification, under which all free-for-all races are run. The Frenchman evidently was a bit too boastful about the power and possibilities of his new car, for several of the drivers yesterday petitioned Referee Charlie Keppen and George Bentel to reduce the displacement to 183 inches. It was decided by the management that such a limit would be enforced after June 6.

"I am going back to my old number "3" car for next Sunday in the Plantation Stakes and the Straw Hat Derby," said Duray last night. "But I am going to file an appeal from the local decision with the I.M.C.A. board. It will be useless for me to spend a lot of money on a bigger car which they will not allow me to use."

It was reported at the Miller Engine Works that De Palma has placed an order for a 183-inch motor to be put in his present chassis. In any event, the battle next Sunday between Duray and De Palma will be red hot from start to finish. Babe Stapp, Arthur Davidson, Eddie Meyer, Freddy Frame, Jack Petticord and Eddie Winfield will probably be the pilots to qualify for the two big races. As was the ruling for the start of the Triumph Stakes last Sunday, the pole and starting positions will be determined by lot in the Plantation Stakes. The shorter events will favor the driver who qualifies by driving the fastest lap.

BABE ADAMS THROUGH

Pittsburg's Veteran Heaver, After Sixteen Years of Service, Declares "I'm Done"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PITTSBURG, May 8.—Babe Adams is about through. The veteran of the Pittsburg staff pulled his arm into the discard in the Cub-Pirates game yesterday when he tried to bear down on a fast ball and tore a muscle in his shoulder.

"Ol' Charley" suffered from a nerve displacement in his elbow this spring but after much massaging by doctors he was declared fit. In the fourth inning yesterday he relieved Wilbur Cooper when the Cubs banged the left-hander hard and in the fifth inning when he tried to bear down Adams tore a muscle. X-rays today disclosed, and was forced to give up.

HE'S DONE

"I'm done Bill, won't pitch another game," he told Manager Bill Killefer of the Cubs when he stalked off the mound. And it seems that he is right.

Adams has been in major league baseball pitching for sixteen years. He was the hero of the 1909 world series, when he won the title for the Pirates from Detroit. He is now nearly 43 years of age and his passing will mark the end of another player of the old school.

BACON WATCHED THE DRUNKS

It both amused and annoyed Mr. Bacon to have people think that he drank. He was a teetotaler, but the story had gone round that unless he was intoxicated he couldn't act Bill. He came off stage after the prologue one night and said: "Those people in the second row almost sent me up in my lines. The girl said: 'Is he really drunk or only acting?' 'Oh, he's drunk all right,' said the man; 'he can't act unless he's drunk.' A little later he said: 'I guess we'll see a good show tonight, 'cause he's good and tight for fair.' ". Mr. Bacon chuckled and said: "I wonder how he'll explain is to the girl when I sober up so thoroughly for the courtroom scene!"

Mr. Bacon was often asked how he could act a drunken man to perfection the way he did if he had never been under the influence of drink. He explained it this way: "While the others were drunk I was sober, and I studied them."—[Florence Foster, in March Scribner's.

NO MORE PAY FOR STUDENT MANAGERS

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CLAREMONT, May 8.—Student managers of Pomona College sports will no longer be given pay for their services, which has been customary in the past, but will be awarded letters and sweaters supplemented by a small "M" above their sport insignia, if a ruling of the athletic council is passed in a meeting of the Pomona students Saturday. The new plan has been successful in many universities and colleges throughout the country and is proposed for Pomona as another step in Coach Nixon's reorganization of the physical education and athletic departments. Managers will soon be appointed for football, baseball, track, basketball and tennis and minor sports in the near future.

HIS FEAR AROUSED

A South Idaho farmer had three eligible daughters. The first married and removed to Twin Falls, Idaho. After a time the old gentleman was informed he was grandfather to twins.

Later another of his daughters married and removed to Three Creek, Idaho. When the old man learned his Three Creek daughter was the mother of triplets he began to lean to superstition.

His third daughter then advised him of her engagement, telling her father after the ceremony of her intention to remove from the home town, whereupon the fond parent cleared his throat and remarked:

"It's all right, only please keep away from Thousand Springs."—[Exchange.

COLIMA-WELLS REMATCHED

Near-middleweights Will Strut Stuff at Vernon on Tuesday Night Again

A rematch of two of the best fighters ever appearing at Vernon is announced for next Tuesday night, Billy Wells, the pleasing Englishman, and Bert Colima, energetic Whittier boxer, being the principals. Several weeks ago the two put on a great scrap at Vernon, Wells copping the decision by winning three out of the four rounds.

Bert Lamar and Young Datto are slated to oppose each other in the semi-wind-up, battling at 133 pounds. The rest of the card is as follows:

Eddie Macy vs. Ruby Lavine, 122; Eddie Darrah vs. Sailor Hoffman, 158; Ted Frenchie vs. Frankie Osner, 122; Roy Moore vs. Ray Edwards, 145; Young Munroe vs. Joe Avery, 120.

Whittier Nine Discovers Star in Ed Suggett

George "Rube" Ellis, baseball mentor at Whittier College has unearthed a find for his already fast ball team in the person of Ed Suggett whose ability as a football player has been well known to Southern California the past four years, but who played his first game of college baseball against Caltech last Saturday.

Suggett is now holding down a berth in left field and last Saturday started his late baseball career with two hits out of three trips to the rubber. As Ed is also to negotiate the 100 in about 10s, he is not so slow in stepping the bases in spite of his inexperience. He makes a valuable addition to Ellis's garden collection which has hardly been on a par with the fast Poet infield. Always a star football player, Suggett took little interest in baseball even in high school, but before the season is over is expected to develop into a real ball player under Ellis's capable coaching.

Coach Ellis is bending every effort this week to put the Poets into the best of trim, bent on copping every game in the second round of the conference schedule which Whittier opens with Occidental at Whittier Saturday afternoon. The Poets lost to both S.B. U.C. and Caltech in the first round but by very narrow margins and will attempt to turn the tables the second round.

ST. JAMES LAME; OUT OF PREAKNESS RACE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 8.—St. James, G. W. Widener's fast three-year-old conqueror of Zev, and favorite for the $50,000 Preakness, has broken down on the eve of Monday's stake. He did a mile and an eighth in 1:57 this morning and pulled up so lame that the order for the car in which he was to be shipped to Pimlico tonight was canceled.

HARRY HOOKER HEADS DIRT TRACK RACERS

Harry Hooker was elected president and Whyte Womack vice-president of the newly organized California Dirt Track Racing Association yesterday. Business has been going forward in full swing, and the complete set of officers has been elected by the new organization. George Sherman will fill the position of secretary and Sam Durand referee. This association contains some of the best-known race drivers of the dirt oval.

Many Who Cannot Read or Write a Menace to Others

Coal mine workers of the United States, whether foreign or native born, are largely family men having the responsibilities and steadying influences that discourage drifting and create community interest. With the well-being of all the mine workers, also, is bound up, therefore, that of thousands of boys and girls, and wives and mothers, belonging to the mine workers' families.

All of these, whether native or foreign born, alien or citizen, are directly affected by the fact that a fourth of the men from non-English-speaking countries and more than an eighth of all the 752,000, neither read nor write in any language.

Here again, however, figures for all obscure sharp variations to be found throughout the coal regions, as among all the bituminous mine workers 11 per cent neither read nor write as compared with nearly 16 per cent among all the anthracite workers.

The man who can neither read instructions and warnings, nor write a word of caution, increases the hazard of coal mining not only for himself but for his fellow-workers, literate and illiterate, native and foreign born, and menaces the welfare of their families as he does that of his own family.

But the extent of illiteracy among the foreign-born mine workers creates a hazard of wider possibilities. When the illiterates from non-English-speaking countries live and labor in "coal mine patches" remote from normal American centers of population, obviously they can get only from those of common tongue the facts—and fiction—concerning the causes of the frequent industrial and social disturbances in which the coal mine workers are involved, for they are not only isolated but impervious to all information not couched in verbal form.—[Marie L. Obenauer, in North American Review.

REED IS HIGH GUN IN SHOOT

Wins Championship Among Scattergunners in Pow-wow at Del Monte

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DEL MONTE (Cal.) May 8. R. C. Reed of San Francisco won the trapshooting championship of the California Indians in the three days' shoot which ended today, with an aggregate score of 291 out of a possible 300. L. S. Hawxhurst of San Francisco, champion for the last three years, made a straight run of 100, the highest run of the tournament, in his effort today to retain his title. He finished second for the three days' shooting with a score of 285.

W. E. Garrison of Lodi was third with 287, and H. E. Sargent of Pasadena, retiring high chief, was fourth with 285.

Fay Curtis of Taft won in Class B, with 287, with Henry Garrison of Modesto and Orvie Overall of Visalia tying for second place with 283 each.

H. J. Anderson of Taft won in Class C, with 280 and George Bare of Modesto was second with 278.

In Class D, Henry D. Say of Modesto was high gun with 275 and Jim Prentice of Modesto was second with 274.

W. M. Nutting of Los Angeles won the doubles event, breaking forty-three targets out of twenty-five pairs thrown.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLAREMONT, May 7.—When the pick of Southern California's track stars gather in the Los Angeles Coliseum May 23 for the Olympic tryouts, five star Pomona College athletes will be among them, including such well-known performers as Bob Maxwell, Homer Frisbie, Steve Turner, Charles Eaton and Dan Milliken. Charles Daggs, graduate of last year, who is now taking post-graduate work at Pomona, will also be among those present who plan to make the journey to Boston.

Bob Maxwell and Daggs seem to have the biggest chance of winning tickets to conservative Boston and gay Paree, as they have during the past season been consistently the best low and high hurdlers, respectively, in these parts. Daggs has several times done 15s. flat in his event, while Maxwell has twice tied the Coast record in the low hurdles at 23 3-10s., the last time being in Saturday's A.A.U.

Milliken seems sure to place second in the 440 low hurdles, even though he nabbed only fourth in the A.A.U. last Saturday. Milliken suffered bad luck in that race, as he stumbled on the next to the last hurdle, after running Grumbles a close second during the whole race, and until he sprawled he was sure of grabbing second.

Homer Frisbie, conference broad jump record-holder, is out to gain a trip to Boston along with Steve Turner, who plans to make a comeback in the high jump in the tryouts. Steve has not been going good in his event all season, but with some intensive training in the next two weeks he may surprise the fans that fill the stadium May 23. Frisbie also plans to enter the hop, step and jump.

Charley Eaton is the fifth Sagehen field star that has about as good a chance of taking the transcontinental journey as has Maxwell and Daggs. He cleaned up in the javelin throw all season, both in the north and in Southern California, and looks like a sure bet. He has tossed the spear 184 feet and all season his marks have been around the 175-foot mark. He is practicing every afternoon and has been heaving the javelin all over the Sagehen gridiron until the Pomona turf is beginning to look like a pin cushion.

SPHINXES GUARD LOST GOLF BALLS

Huge five-ton sphinxes that once graced the entrance to the city of the ancient Egyptian Pharaoh now guard the entrance of a modern golf club.

At the conclusion of his period of making biblical exteriors for "The Ten Commandments," near Santa Maria, Cal., Cecil B. De Mille presented to the city six huge sphinxes. Four of these were placed at the entrance to the city, while the other two became the property of the Santa Maria Golf Club.

When archaeologists explore the regions around Santa Maria 2000 years from now, it is expected that many strange theories will be evolved concerning the presence in California of these strictly Egyptian relics.

JACK JOHNSON HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BENTON HARBOR (Mich.) May 8.—Jack Johnson, former world's heavyweight champion, was injured in Benton Harbor today when his car turned turtle on a curve a mile from this city. The car was completely wrecked. Johnson had a companion with him and both were buried beneath the machine. The negro fighter was cut about the face. His injuries were dressed in Benton Harbor.

HEAVYWEIGHTS MEET IN OLYMPIC BOUT

BAKERSFIELD, May 8.—Big Mitch of Oakland, and Larry Williams, a sparring partner of Jack Dempsey, who will enter the proposed heavyweight elimination contests planned by Freddy Winsor, will meet in the boxing show at Taft tomorrow evening.

FRESHMEN NINE IS DEFEATED 9 TO 1

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CLAREMONT, May 8.—Due to the fact that U.S.C. was required to call off their scheduled baseball game with the Pomona College diamond artists this afternoon, Coach Schott's men took on the freshman nine and proceeded to trample them. No box score was kept but the varsity walked off with victory at score approximating 9 to 1. Coach Schott used many of his reserves in the game with the Peagreeners.

DAN O'LEARY WINS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN JOSE, May 8.—Dan O'Leary, 53-year-old champion heel and toe walker today defeated George S. Whipple and George R. Williams of San Francisco in a walking race from the Palace Hotel, San Francisco to Palo Alto, a distance of about thirty miles. O'Leary's competitors acknowledged defeat at Redwood City, six miles short of the goal, but he strolled the remainder of the route, checking in at 6 hours, 35 minutes.

He Wanted to Know

"I was reading in the paper last night," said old Ork Oddways, "that a caterpillar will in a month eat about 600 times its own weight."

"Looky here!" demanded Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, who had entered the crossroads store in the midst of the statement, "which one of my kids are you talking about?"

HELLMAN HELLERS IN TRACK CONTEST

The private track of Marco Hellman will be the scene of a dual meet tomorrow between the Hellman Hellers and the South East Little Brothers. Herman Hellman, son of the owner of the track manages the tracksters from the Wilshire Boulevard and Catalina-street oval. The Little Brothers' Club is one of the Big Brothers' Association. The visitors' club, which is trained and managed by Herman Hahn and Howard Calman is formed of boys from 13 to 15 years of age. The contest should be a snappy one as both teams are trained by competent men.

Secretary Harry Nelson announces that twenty-six games have been scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday in the Greater Southern California Baseball Association. Nine of the tilts will take place tomorrow, when the Commercial and Bankers leagues teams get together.

The feature Commercial League game brings together the undefeated league-leading Minor Building Company nine and the fast L. A. County outfit at Exposition Park. Another good tilt takes place when the Crane Company sluggers, who are in second place, tackle the Hal Roach Studios crew at Culver City.

In the Bankers' League contest the Bank of Italy outfit, leading the A division, is expected to win without much trouble over the Citizens National nine, while in the B division the Hellman Bankers will attempt to add to their lead by trying to down the Federal Reserve squad.

Of Sunday's games the Hollywood Merchants-U.S.S. California tussle at Hollywood is attracting a lot of attention in the independent ranks, while the Pinoline Tommies will hook up with Glendora in the feature American League scrap. Harris and Frank and Downey meet in the most important National League battle.

The feature Pacific League game brings together the Fremont Woodmen and the L. A. Chinese at Downey Playground, while the Western Lithographers hook up with the Willard Battery outfit in another important battle. Palomar meets the Watts Monarchs in the premier Intercity League contest.

Manager George McGarvey of the Huntington Park Merchants announces that he has signed up Roy Hanna to pitch for his club Sunday against th eBozzani Motors. Hanna formerly hurled for Los Angeles and was just recently turned loose by the Seattle Indians. Hanna's pitching should help the Huntington Park team no little bit.

Jack Jacobs, manager of the Bozzani Motor Car Company team in the National League, is seriously ill and will not be able to pilot his club in Sunday's game with Huntington Park. One of the Bozzani players or Harry Nelson will probably manage the team this week.

Following is the Greater Southern California Baseball Association schedule:

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE

Hobbs Battery vs. Los Angeles Wildcats, at Sixth and Soto street.
L. A. County vs. Misop Bldg., at Exposition No. 2.

PREP NINES PLAY TODAY

Manual Meets Poly, Jefferson Takes on Roosevelt, Franklin vs. Pioneers and Holly vs. Lincoln

The race for City High School baseball championship will continue today with several good games on deck. In the first tilts of the season last Friday some surprises were pulled and the play today may ruin somebody's dope sheet. Today's battles will be Manual at Poly, Jefferson at Roosevelt, Franklin at Los Angeles, and Hollywood at Lincoln.

The Manuals-Poly fracas will probably be the hottest fray of the day. Last week Manual took Lincoln down the line by a 9-to-8 score and may do the same to the Poly nine today. The latter is credited with one of the best teams in the league, however, and the Toilers will have to play over their heads to annex the victory. Jefferson should have an easy time sinking the Roosevelt crew this round. In the game with Los Angeles last week, the Democrats shoved them down to a defeat which put the former at the top of the list.

Coach White's L. A. High nine is expected to turn the tables on Franklin in today's play. Last week the Pioneers went down to a close defeat at the hands of Jefferson and with this defeat fresh in mind they are expected to put up the best game they ever played. The Kite Flyers are good, however, and the game should be a bitter battle.

The other game on the program will see Hollywood and Lincoln in action. Both teams are in the lower half of the rating list with one game lost and none won. Each nine is confident of victory. Both teams are equally matched and an opportune break either way will probably win the game. If the Movie City aggregation play the ball they are capable of they will undoubtedly win. But the Railsplitters are just the crew to keep them from doing this, all things considered either team has about an equal chance of winning.

Athletic Stars at Co-operative Luncheon Today

Men who have made athletic history—eighteen of them—will be the honor guests at the Los Angeles Co-operative Club luncheon Friday at Paulais, as a big booster rally for the Olympic tryouts at the Coliseum.

Chairman Bob Weaver of the committee to raise the $50,000 quota of Los Angeles to defray Olympic expenses of California contestants, is also a "Co-op" and promises a 100 per cent attendance of fellow club members at the big tryouts on the 24th inst.

Among the invited guests at the luncheon are Jack Dempsey with his trainer Hayes and manager, Kearns; Duke Kahanamoku, the world's greatest swimmer; Charles W. Paddock, the world's champion sprinter; Speck Schiller, Otto Anderson and 'Swede Anderson, of the 1920 Olympic teams at Antwerp; Alma Richards, Fred Kelly and James J. Donahue who won world honors at Stockholm in 1912; also Tom and May Sutton Bundy, Maurice McLaughlin, "Gloomy Gus" Henderson and Dean Cromwell.

Speakers of the day will be Charles W. Paddock and Zack Farmer, secretary of the Los Angeles Crime Commission.

EXETER GOLFERS ARE TO BUILD A COURSE

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE]

EXETER, May 8.—Exeter is to have a golf course. The Exeter Golf Club was formed at a recent meeting of local enthusiasts and N. N. Redford was named temporary chairman. Over fifty residents have signified their intention of joining and a membership committee was appointed. O. W. Carr and Leo Schelling were appointed to draft by-laws. A sixty-acre tract of land lying north and west of Lemon Cove has been selected for the course. The land lies four miles from the center of town on the Mineral King highway. It is easily accessible and has a number of natural hazards, which will make it one of the sportiest courses in the valley when it is completed.

AMUNDSEN TO STAKE ARCTIC

England and Norway Also to Get Portion of Area

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OSLO, May 8.—Roald Amundsen, the Arctic explorer, has made a agreement with the Italian government in which, in consideration of a part of any land he discovers in the neighborhood of the North Pole as Italian territory, the Italian government has agreed to buy two seaplanes with which he will attempt his flight over the North Pole this summer. As a part of the agreement is to make the Italian flag over part of any territory which he discovers and claim the territory in the name of Italy. The Italian Air Ministry also is sending a third seaplane in charge of an Italian officer to accompany him. The two planes are being built on the German Dornier model by an Italian company at Pisa.

It is understood in Rome that Mr. Amundsen made a similar agreement with the British and Norwegian governments to stake off territory in their names.

The first of the two planes, which is being finished under the supervision of Lieut. Davidson, American Navy officer, will be ready by the middle of May and will be flown to Norway immediately. The third plane will be finished by June 1. Lieut. Davidson will fly one of the planes to the pole.

Mr. Amundsen has taken the attitude that America has no prior right to territory around the pole on account of Robert E. Peary's trip. He will not stake off any territory in the name of the United States.

Mexican Ships Enter Field for American Trade

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—It was announced officially yesterday that Mexico will make a strong bid to capture coast and high-sea trade of the United States and Canada for Mexican boats. The Commission of Free Ports has been given $37,500 a month and operating expenses to boost the plan.

Four of the most modern boats in the fleet of the Ahon Company, a government concern, will make regular trips between gulf ports and New York, while two boats will engage in coastwise trade between gulf ports of Mexico and the United States and two vessels will be put in the Pacific service, operating between Mexico and the United States and Canada.

President Obregon issued a formal decree authorizing the service and giving unlimited power to the Commission of Free Ports for the development of the national merchant marine and the extension of activities between the United States and Canada.

BOLSHEVISTS FAIL TO TAKE EMBASSY

CZARISTS REFUSE TO BUDGE AT FOREIGN OFFICE HINT; LEGAL FIGHT IMPENDS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, May 8.—The British Foreign Office has allowed it to become known that if the Bolsheviks want to take possession of the Russian Embassy here they will have to obtain possession under ordinary British legal procedure. The persons now occupying the embassy, Vladimir Sabiin and others, have been there since the revolution, and they cannot be put out without a legal battle.

The Bolsheviks have worked themselves up into a rage over the question, particularly as it seems that little if any valuable furniture, art works or archives remain in the embassy. M. Sabiin has gone to bed with an indefinite "illness," and refuses to budge. He has so informed the Foreign Office in response to a note sent him suggesting that he move.

The Foreign Office now washes its hands of the matter and only a long legal fight will change the property's owners. It is pointed out that the lease on the palatial building given by the Duke of Westminster to Count Benckendorf, the Russian Ambassador, years ago, has not expired.

MacDONALD AGAIN WRITES TO POINCARE

IMPORTANT MISSIVE SAID TO DEAL WITH BELGIANS' REPARATIONS STAND

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, May 8.—Prime Minister MacDonald has written a new letter to Premier Poincare regarding reparations, it is learned from an authoritative source. The letter, which is considered one of the most important documents in the reparations tangle, is reported to have arrived in Paris late last night.

Mr. McDonald is said to have told M. Poincare frankly the result of his interview with the Belgian chiefs during the week-end, but adding "I am glad to know the viewpoints of both France and Belgium," on the great question.

It is reported that the French will keep the MacDonald letter under cover because it tends to show that Belgium has swung to the British point of view.

MASONS IN DENVER TRADE PROPERTIES

DENVER, May 8.—Announcement is made of a property transaction between the El Jebel Temple of the Mystic Shrine, and the Scottish Rite Bodies No. 2, of this city, that will react to the benefit of all concerned. El Jebel Temple, having outgrown its present accommodations, has sold its building to the Scottish Rite Bodies. The Shrine takes over the property upon which the Scottish Rite bodies have begun the erection of a temple, and will complete the edifice upon the foundation now laid, but adapted to the requirements of their order. By this arrangement the Scottish Rite bodies have ample accommodations for some time to come, while the Shrine will complete its plans to erect a temple to meet its rapidly growing requirements.

STEAL HORSE TO CART OFF SAFE

Bank Robbers Reveal Rare Technique in Michigan

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAGINAW (Mich.) May 8. Robbers revealed a new technique in bank robbing today when they used a stolen horse to drag a four-ton safe from the State Savings Bank at Harrison. The safe is said to have contained between $6000 and $7000 in cash and about $20,000 in Liberty bonds.

MIDDLE WEST NEWS IN BRIEF

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MILWAUKEE, May 8.—The dramatic career of John F. Dietz, the "defender of Cameron Dam" is about ended. With death a matter of only a short time, Dietz late yesterday was placed under the guardianship of Attorney Patrick W. Dean. Leslie J. and Clarence Dietz, participants in the memorable battle on the Thornapple River, petitioned the County Court for the appointment of a guardian to protect the property of their father. They claimed that Mrs. Polly Tellor, at whose home Dietz has been living, is exerting an undue influence over him. The petition says that Dietz is seriously ill at the West Side Hospital and that his condition renders him incompetent to act for himself.

Grover Elam, 30 years of age, cashier of the closed First National Bank of Highland, disappeared from that city on April 24 and search is being made for him. Elam was seriously burned in a gasoline explosion while on a fishing expedition on May 1, 1923. For weeks his life was despaired of. On June 4, 1923, the bank was closed by Federal examiners. Young Elam had been in charge of the bank since eight years ago, when it was founded by his father, a retired farmer of Dodgeville. Since the accident young Elam had not been outside his parents' home.

Low lands bordering the river, both above and below the dams at Neenah and Menasha are inundated, the water level having advanced materially during the last week. Conditions are not critical however, as the real flood stage has not been reached and no further rise is expected. All gates on the dams are open and huge volumes of water are rushing downstream.

AKRON

AKRON (O.) May 8.—A new wage and working agreement between the Northern Ohio Traction and Light Company and officials of the Akron local of the street car operators union, which numbers 700 men, has been signed. It runs to May 1, 1925, and contains practically the same provisions as the contract which expired. The Canton carmen's union and the interurban union are expected to meet within a few days to ratify the same contract. All told, the new pact affects 1500 platform men on the N.O.T. system from Cleveland to Uhrichville. The men withdrew their request for a 72-cent-an-hour wage increase above the present standards, ranging from 48 cents to 58 cents an hour.

Otto N. Harter, 58 years of age, president of the Akron Pure Milk Company for the last twenty years and one of Akron's best-known business men, died at Peoples Hospital. Mr. Harter had been in the milk business here for thirty-five years. He also was an executive of Depositors Savings and Trust Company, president of the Sanitary Milk Company of Canton, and a director in the Adamson Machine Company and Guarantee Title and Trust Company.

MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, May 8.—Ground was broken for a $250,000 classroom building to be erected at St. Olaf College, Northfield. Impressive ceremonies marked the turning of the first shovelful of earth. St. Olaf students and faculty members have contributed $25,000 to the building fund. There is still $88,000 to be raised.

Very Rev. James McLeary, pastor of the Church of the Incarnation here, was elevated to the rank of monsignor at ceremonies in the church. The ceremony of investiture with the robes of monsignor was carried out by Archbishop Dowling of St. Paul, in the presence of a large gathering which included a number of visiting clergymen.

Isaac Kaufmann, a prominent insurance man of the Northwest, died suddenly of heart disease at the Hotel Radisson. He was 69 years old. Mr. Kaufmann was a member of the firm of Kaufmann, Hamburger & Kaufmann, general agents of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company. He had been connected with this company for forty years' the last thirty-four of them in Minneapolis.

Ed Hinds, 65 years of age, of Hubbard county, superintendent of Itasca State Park and Forest, and former member of the Minnesota Legislature, died in a hospital at Wadena, following an operation performed about ten days ago. The body was sent to Hubbard, where Mr. Hinds resided, for burial.

OMAHA

OMAHA, May 8.—O. L. Bransom & Co., bankers at Mitchell, S. D., were closed by order of the State Department of Banking. Deposits total $190,000. D. H. McKee of Des Moines, Iowa, is president.

Final settlement of the estate of Mrs. O. M. Kinnan of Columbus, which has been in litigation in District and County Court for more than two years, was finally reached. Two daughters were awarded nearly all of the estate, which was valued at about $27,000.

DES MOINES

DES MOINES, May 8.—The Farmers' State Bank of Dyersville was taken over by the State Banking Department. Frozen assets were said to have been the cause of the difficulty.

Sale of the Purity Oats Company plant at Davenport "under the hammer" for the creditors of the bankrupt American Hominy Company, will take place at Chicago May 15. The hominy company plant at Keokuk was recently sold to Rich Brothers, former owners of both the Davenport and Keokuk plants, through a similar public auction.

After burning intermittently for the last five years, the peat bog fires have broken out in the valley about a mile southwest of Webb. The flames are being fanned by a high wind.

INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, May 8.—Mrs. H. H. Nelson, formerly of Indianapolis, died at her home at Santa Rosa, Cal. She was born here, the daughter of B. F. and Julia H. Goodhart, pioneer residents of the city. She lived here until she was married in 1892 to Harry H. Nelson, formerly business manager of the old Indianapolis Sentinel. She had written newspaper articles, poems and sketches of noted persons whom she had met. A book of poems, "Luther Burbank and the Human Flower" was published by her last winter.

Three hundred and sixty-eight cases of measles and 140 cases of smallpox in ninety-one counties were reported to the State Board of Health last week, according to Dr. William S. King, secretary of the board.

Feeling has been running so high against Joseph Blair, 24 years of age, of Shoals, who murdered his 4-year-old daughter with a club because the little one failed to lock up some chickens, that the authorities have brought him to Bedford, for safekeeping.

ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—Mrs. Minnie Witte, 71 years of age, widow of Otto H. Witte, and vice-president of the Witte Hardware Company, died Sunday in Italy, according to a cable message received here today. She had been traveling in Europe since last September, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Jeanette Achilles. She suffered an attack of pneumonia last February but recovered. The body will be brought here for burial.

LOUISVILLE

LOUISVILLE, May 8.—The Board of Park Commissioners yesterday refused to entertain a proposition to locate a municipal outdoor auditorium at the entrance of Iroquois Park, saying that the location of such a theater would mar the scenic beauty of the park and would cause a sacrifice of invaluable park space.

Hugh Seargent, one of Christian county's widely known citizens, passed away at his home seven miles from Hopkinsville. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, one sister, who resides in California, and one brother, Dr. Andrew Seargent of Hopkinsville.

KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, May 8.—The danger of the Missouri River's gaining a new channel at Harmony, Mo., has been averted for the time being, at least, railroad officials announced there yesterday. The destroying current of the river has been changed to midstream and all efforts now are being directed toward keeping it away from the Chicago and Alton's right of way.

Cornelius Masters, 45 years of age, was shot and killed near Easton, by his neighbor, Frank Boyles, about the same age. The shooting took place on Boyles's farm following complaint by Masters that Boyles's chickens were damaging Masters' garden. Masters leaves a wife and three children.

WINSOR NOT CANDIDATE IN ARIZONA

Yuma Man Declares Wish to Assist in Promotion of Colorado River Pact

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, May 8.—Mulford Winsor of Yuma today gave out a statement that he would not be a candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket. The declaration is of added importance in that Winsor, who was president of the last legislative Senate, is leader of the Arizona Democrats who favor ratification of the Colorado River pact. He states that the pact is the main reason for his refusal to go into the primaries, adding: "I prefer to expend such effort as I may be able to contribute to the public service in presenting the facts with respect to the Colorado River pact and urging the ratification of that measure and a definite and essential step toward the development of the Colorado River Valley."

The Democratic nomination now appears to lie between Gov. Hunt, antipactist, and Corporation Commissioner A. A. Betts, whose position on the pact has not been defined, but who has promised an early statement of his policies. It is known that conservative Democrats have been trying to secure the candidacy of Judge R. C. Stanford of Phoenix. In both parties all candidates for the gubernatorial nomination now are residents of Phoenix.

SEEK DISMISSAL OF MAYFIELD CONTEST

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—A motion to dismiss the election contest brought against Senator Earle Mayfield, Democrat, Texas, by George E. B. Peddy, was filed with the special elections committee of the Senate today when it began hearings in the case. Submitted by W. V. Zumbrunn, counsel for Senator Mayfield, the motion was based on the ground that Peddy had accepted and held the position of Assistant United States District Attorney in Texas since the election. The committee took it under advisement. "Mike" McNamara of Waco, Tex., then was called as the first witness.

ROBBERY SUSPECT MUST STAND TRIAL

J. J. Galantine was held to answer a charge of robbing Duke Hodge by Justice Ballard yesterday, after Hodge had testified he and Galantine and a quart of alcohol had started automobile riding together, and that when he awoke the next day his watch and money were gone. Another witness testified Galantine was seen in possession of the watch and money. Bail was fixed at $5000. The asserted robbery was on April 30, last.

MADE HEAD OF BANK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, May 8.—Thomas Armstrong Jr., has been named as president of the National Bank of Arizona. He succeeds Charles F. Salomon, who has held the position for the past four years, and who also is president of the Arizona National Bank of Tucson. Mr. Armstrong for 25 years has been counsel for the National Bank of Arizona and a director for most of the time.

STRAUS OPTIMISTIC

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, May 8.—Oscar Straus, thrice American Ambassador to Turkey and one of the judges of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague, has returned to Paris optimistic over his recent trip to Palestine. He went there on the invitation of Sir Herbert Samuel, British High Commissioner, in an effort to bring about an accord between the hostile religious elements there.

PIGGY BANK IN CONTEST OVER WILL

Attorneys Declare Bliss Collected Gold Pieces in Meeting for Secretary

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, May 8.—New developments involving a baby's bank, shaped like a pig, and $20 gold pieces to the number of 100, were promised today in the suit to break the will of Col. Samuel E. Bliss, steel magnate, who left an estate of $2,500,000. Attorneys for the complainants declare that thirty-five witnesses will testify that the aged millionaire was "98 per cent insane" for years before his death.

That it was the custom of the former Helen Weck, who became his second wife, to send the steel magnate to luncheons of bankers and boards of directors for the sole purpose of collecting the $20 gold piece paid for attendance and bring it directly to her will be proved, attorneys declare. These coins, attorneys declare, were placed in the bank by Miss Weck, Col. Bliss's stenographer for many years, and the amount totaled $2000 when the pig was broken.

Another contention is that for years, when Bliss appeared at executive meetings, he invariably made his presence known by loud snores.

BOOTLEGGERS HIT IN ARIZONA COURT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) May 8.—Judge Sawtelle, in sentencing thirty-five liquor-law violators, gave jail sentences to all but three women and levied fines totaling $11,250. The sentences aggregated 210 months, and will be in the Yavapai County Jail, save in the case of Alex McKay, an 82-year-old mining man, who was ordered imprisoned in the Pima County Jail for three months. The magistrate lectured the defendants severely, stating, "There are too many people today, too lazy to work, who are in the business of bootlegging. Pretty soon this crowd will all be in jail and the decent people will give the Eighteenth Amendment a fair trial."

JAILED EDITOR ASKS COURT FOR FREEDOM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, May 8.—Hearing of a writ of habeas corpus, seeking to determine whether J. W. Spear, editor of the Phoenix Republican, has been unlawfully deprived of his liberty in respect to sentence to the Final County Jail till payment of a $500 fine has been made, will be held Saturday before Superior Judge F. C. Struckmeyer. He was sentenced by Judge Stephen R. Abbey of Florence, who objected to a Republican editorial that reviewed the features of a sentence for life of a prisoner who had confessed to killing his wife by dynamiting her in bed.

PHOENIX TO HAVE NEW DAILY PAPER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, May 8.—In the plan of establishment of new Democratic papers in Arizona, Phoenix is to have an additional daily within a few weeks. Notice has been given that the Daily Times soon will be issued from an office in the Arizona Hotel Building, where linotypes, a press and other machinery are being installed. The editor is H. B. Watson, a pioneer Democrat, now editor and owner of the Wickenburg Weekly Miner, with whom are to be associated C. T. Rush, who now is publisher of weeklies in several of the smaller Arizona towns, and E. J. Rogers.

ARIZONA TEACHER DIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DUNCAN (Ariz.) May 8.—E. O. Bunch has died in Duncan, where, for four years, he had been a teacher. He came to Apache County in 1876, but since 1893 lived in Phoenix. He leaves his widow and four children, Carl, Alvin and Roy Bunch, of Phoenix, and Mrs. H. M. Strough of Exeter, Cal.

SEEK TO SAVE WILD FLOWERS

Real Nature Lovers Trying to Teach People

Drive Against Destruction of Dogwood is On

Some States Now Protecting Blooms of Fields

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Each spring an appeal is being made to the chivalry and thoughtfulness of the public in behalf of America's vanishing and defenseless wild flowers. For some obscure reason there are countless Americans of both sexes who would scorn to attack the little animals of the woods and fields, but who do not hesitate to wage relentless warfare on the flowers. When spring sends out the most delicate blossoms these thoughtless "nature lovers" go out to pluck, tear and cast aside.

Clumps of pale-colored flowers that make a picture in their original setting of grass, trees, and sky soon lose their freshness when carried off in bouquets. Yet toward the close of a spring Sunday every suburban road, every street car is strewn with wilted flowers tossed aside by tired holiday makers. These flowers might have bloomed for another week to give pleasure to many more people.

But that is not the real tragedy. The worst of the situation is that in so many cases the flower pickers are permanently despoiling the beauty of spring. Take the dogwood, for instance. This is not a tiny plant to be easily pulled up by children. It is a tree, generally about the size of a fruit tree. Yet the dogwood is being more ruthlessly destroyed than any other native tree or plant. Botanists say that at the present rate of destructiveness the native American dogwood will be extinct in twenty-five years.

The Wild Flower Preservation Society, which campaigns every year to save the flowers, emphasizes one particular plant each spring. This year dogwood is given the spotlight because it is so rapidly disappearing.

The dogwood tree is one of the most beautiful trees that can be found and is a native American. It is a sturdy tree, resistant to disease and adaptable to a variety of growing conditions. When the dogwood blooms in early May the tree becomes a mass of white. Each white petal has a distinctive notch in the edge which makes the dogwood blossom one of the most attractive motifs for artistic design.

BLOSSOMS PERISHABLE

A dogwood tree in bloom against a background of other foliage transforms any country road or garden. The same may be said of the dogwood when it bears its crop of red berries in late autumn. At both seasons the branches seem to shriek "Carry me home." The result is, generally, that the passer-by goes up to the tree and tears off a few sprays. The tearing process strips down the bark, leaving open wounds. If the wounds are large, fungus disease may set in and the tree dies. The Wild Flower Preservation Society is urging motorists and hikers to enjoy the dogwood on the tree. If branches must be taken home, they should at any rate be cut clean with a sharp knife so as to avoid injury to the tree.

Because of the effort to save the dogwood from extinction a number of florists have agreed this year not to buy or sell any dogwood branches. For some years school children in a number of cities have been instructed never to bring dogwood branches to decorate schoolrooms. Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts are interested in saving the dogwood and other wild flowers. And this year the American Automobile Association has planned a campaign to interest its 500,000 members in wild flower conservation.

ARBUTUS IS SCARCE

The mayflower, or trailing arbutus, the State flower of Massachusetts, is, like the dogwood, not far from extinction. This is one of the most beautiful of the American wild flowers, but the very people who exclaim over it with delight immediately set to work to destroy it. If they picked each individual flower carefully there might be nothing very reprehensible about the picking, but almost invariably the trailing stems, by which the plant spreads, are uprooted and carried off too. The trailing arbutus has become so rare that nature lovers protest against its being bought or sold, and particularly against its being picked for wild flower bouquets.

There are a number of wild life preserves on which the wild flowers, as well as animals, birds and insects, receive protection. These shut-off areas, each covering from 50 to 500 acres, are guarded.

A number of the States have enacted laws which protect certain plants. Maryland has a law protecting certain vines, shrubs, trees, and flowers against picking. The law provides a fine or imprisonment for violation.

Such laws seem to be a necessity if the flowers are to be saved for the future, but laws do not entirely solve the problems. The willing co-operation of the public is what the wild flowers need. The wild flower society says that this co-operation is steadily growing. There is more interest in the flowers than ever before and the interest is intelligent.

Twins Confuse Employer, One Quits Position

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, May 8.—Edward and William Lynch are twins. Both have a thatch of bright red curly hair; they are precisely the same height and build, and each is supplied abundantly with freckles.

Both worked in a brokerage office, but so much confusion arose that today Edward quit his position and sought another.

"We wore different suits and different colored ties, but even at that our bosses could not tell us apart, so one of us had to quit to avoid the confusion. Now, when we can wear whiskers or a mustache (they are 16 years of age) we may be able to make ourselves appear different."

"EXILE" OF BRIDES IS DEFENDED

Alienation Suit Shows Privilege Reserved by Rich Allis Family

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MILWAUKEE, May 8.—That members of the millionaire Allis family had the right to "exile" brides of the Allis family who did not come up to the social status of their husband was the unique revelation made known here in the $250,000 alienation-of-affections suit brought by Mrs. Amber Allis against the relatives of Gilbert Allis, her wealthy husband.

"The Allis family reserved the right to pass upon the eligibility of the women who chanced to marry into it," declared Attorney William Ruben, attorney for the plaintiff, and in four cases wives have been ostracized and scorned because they did not appeal to the family."

He claimed that they sought to do the same thing to Mrs. Amber Allis.

Gilbert Allis's first wife, Jessica was divorced from him because of trouble started by relatives, according to Attorney Ruben.

"The same thing was true of the first wife of Louis Allis. In the case of "Jerry" Allis, now dead, the family acted twice to break up his home. His first wife, Emma Yates, was divorced, and the family refused, to have anything to do with his widow Gladys."

Attorney Ruben openly charged that members of the Allis family had encouraged Gilbert Allis to pay attentions to a Paris woman as a means of disgusting his wife so that she would obtain a divorce.

WHO THEY ARE

ELISE DUCHANIER is a beautiful and innocent young girl of gentle birth, who, by misfortune, has sunk to be a dresser in a small Montmartre theater. Elise has the care of a bed-ridden sister, who is attended by an elderly doctor named Lapierre, who loves Elise. The young girl is dresser to the Parisian star

LOLETTE, a gorgeous creature of flaming passions, glaring appearance, and equally glaring morals. Elise's natural modesty and beauty are a thorn in Lolette's jealous side, and the star desires the downfall of her little dresser. Lolette's manager and protector is MAURICE BRUNEL, the great entrepreneur, while another follower of Lolette's is a certain Count Mordac. To this latter Lolette confides the fact that she is determined to ruin Elise.

Elise meets a young American named

TOM KENDRICK, whom she at once recognizes as a man of different stamp from the hangers-on of the theater. Kendrick asks Elise to accompany him to a great bal masque and the girl accepts. At this ball, in pursuance of her plan, Lolette induces Elise to dance with her, so that the little dresser attracts the attention of the famous Brunel—the man through whose hands many beautiful girls have passed. Brunel offers to make Elise a star—on conditions that the pure, young girl indignantly rejects.

Chapter XI

Elise would have given up her job at the theater after her interview with Brunel, but for one thing: the knowledge that while she was there she could meet Kendrick. Indeed, in Kendrick now lay her only hope. She clung to his memory as a drowning woman might cling to a plank carried to her across the waves. She could not conceive what life had been like before he came; she dared not think what life might be if he went away. He filled her thoughts and her dreams, her life. He was the beginning and the end of everything—because he had kissed her hand and spoken of friendship for her.

Perhaps, in other circumstances, she would not have given so much of herself to his memory; but now she was harassed and shamed, face to face with evil, sustaining unseen pressure from those who would cast her down.

Always at the theater she was meeting Brunel. He never mentioned his interview with her; he never again asked her if she wished to dance. From his ignoring of her the whole episode might have been a chimera evolved in her own overwrought brain. Yet she knew that the invitation was still open; she knew that Brunel stood aside to watch—and wait.

Lolette's attitude was curious. Sometimes, when she feared that Elise had definitely made up her mind to resist Brunel's arguments—for Lolette had no definite information concerning the affair and could only guess at what had occurred—she was more vicious and spiteful than ever before; and then, hoping that Elise might succumb at the last, and realizing that surrender would only come because she was in constant contact with Brunel by reason of her remaining at the theater, she would be honey-sweet, dangerously so, with still that hint of malevolence lurking in her sweetness.

Of Mordac Elise hardly thought. It was as though she saw all those people clearly except him; and yet, though he was shadowy, out of her immediate perspective for the time, she still counted him formidable, perhaps more so than any of them, because her instinct told her so to reckon him. In his manner he was absolutely unchanged. He still smiled on her, he was still suave, polite, there was still an invitation and an unspoken, unlimited promise lurking in his dark eyes. He might have been ignorant of it all. Yet he, too, stood by, watching and waiting, like Brunel. And of the two he was the more dangerous.

Elise did not tell Marthe why she had cried that morning, though Marthe pressed her to do so, with the result that Marthe, seeing how wan and listless she was, ascribed it all to nerves and general debility, and informed Dr. Lapierre of it.

Lapierre heard it in silence, and made no attempt to see Elise, or to treat her for it. More than ever was he self-occupied, shut in by his thoughts, as though wrapped in a cloak. Sometimes Marthe, studying him, thought that the kindly softness of his eyes was going, leaving in its stead a feverish, unnatural hardness, which peeped out and hid itself at intervals. But he still tended her carefully, and still spoke to her kindly, so she tried to persuade herself that she was wrong.

The days went by, and Paris danced in the sunshine and the night. The weather held fine and warm, and it seemed that summer would tread hard on the heels of spring, and come in flaunting banners of glory and gold.

The Longchamp races were a gathering of all that was smart and costly in Paris. The cafes were filled to overflowing. Paris lived and laughed and loved.

Kendrick did not come.

Elise hardly grasped this fact at first. As day succeeded day, and he did not appear, she kept telling herself that the morrow would bring him; yet it did not. His visits to the dressing room had just prior to the bal masque, been so frequent that he was there at least four nights in every week. But now a fortnight passed without his presence.

It was incredible—as incredible as the sudden sweeping away of a familiar hillside.

Kendrick was sure to come. He was sure to. For had he not declared it was to be au revoir? He had kissed her fingers and said, "Until we meet again." Until we meet again! And there was to be no "again"!

He was not that kind. She repeated that to herself over and over again, as the pattering of a prayer. He was not that kind. He would come back, so that she could find support in his near presence, in the knowledge that he was her friend. He would come back.

But he did not come.

It was from the lips of Mordac that she had it all confirmed and whether the confirmation was given accidentally or of intent she never knew; nor did she wish to inquire, seeing that the confirmation itself completely overwhelmed her.

Mordac was in one evening talking to Lolette, and watching her with apathetic eyes while she robed herself for her dance.

Lolette said: "That American—Kendrick. Has he drowned himself that he does not come now? Or did the little dance at Brunel's frighten him?"

Elise, fastening the scanty morsel of lace and jewels at the back, listened trembling, and heard Mordac's answer as though a great bell had struck in the night's silence.

"Oh! He has gone. There was a cablegram. I don't know much about it. He went to Bagdad. Something to do with oil. My business with him fell through, and I haven't heard from him since."

For the rest of the evening Elise did her work as though she walked in a trance. She had known for days and days that Kendrick must have left Paris; but the confirmation of her knowledge was nevertheless a blow more dreadful than she could realise.

She went home after the show and climbed the weary dark stairs to the garret. It was stiflingly hot, and the air pressed about her like a cloak.

She opened the door and stumbled in. Her despair was a millstone set on her heart, weighing it down.

"I'm tired, Marthe."

Marthe, her head moving in convulsive fright, heard the little rustle of her sister's skirt, heard the thud of her as she hit the worn carpet on the floor, and, staring over the bedside, looked down at her white, wan face, its eyes black-ringed and sunken, as the moonlight streamed in through the window and caressed it.

"Doctor!" she whimpered to the aloof stillness of the room. "Doctor! Elise is ill! I think she is dying! What shall I do? What shall I do?"

And she could only lie and watch.

Chapter XII

Dr. Lapierre nodded. He was very quiet, still reserved and still thoughtful; only now in his eyes gleamed a little highlight, like a bright torch seen far off in the black night. He had been brought in early in the morning by an old woman downstairs in the Rue Jacques, and he had Elise now with him in his surgery, whence he had driven her in a cab; for he had found her sitting fully dressed in a chair, she having recovered from her faint and dragged herself there, to remain still all through the remainder of the night, staring straight ahead, unmoving, not heeding Marthe's cries nor pleas.

It seemed strange that he should take Elise away with him, strange that he should not examine her and question her at her home; but the strangeness of it was overlooked and forgotten in the excitement. Perhaps, as the old woman observed afterward, it was to spare Marthe, who was very frightened and suffering.

Elise watched him as he drew back, after that little nod, and laid his stethoscope carefully on the table. She had made up her mind to resist all efforts to persuade her to leave the theater, for she still clung desperately to the hope that Kendrick might remember and write her there.

She was, she knew, in that condition which is colloquilly described as "run down." Dr. Lapierre would doubtless recommend a tonic and a rest, or a change of occupation. She would take the tonic and ignore the advice.

Lapierre, having walked across the room and back, suddenly stopped before her. His manner was restrained and nervous, and his eyes avoided hers.

"Elise," he said quietly, "you are very ill."

His subdued manner stirred her to some apprehension. She conceived that there might be more wrong with her than she had anticipated, for she had never seen him so grave, even when he had first examined Marthe after her accident.

She stood up, facing him. "What do you mean, doctor? There—there is nothing—wrong?"

He tapped the backs of the fingers of one hand on the palm of the other, a certain sign, she knew, that he was perturbed and nervous.

He spoke a little jerkily. "It is a difficult matter. You have nobody to whom I can talk in confidence — like a healthy, capable relative, who would look after you. In these cases ignorance always makes for the best chance of recovery. But—you have only Marthe, an—"

"Doctor! What do you mean?" She was close to him, staring up into his eyes.

He put his hands on her shoulders.

"Elise," he said gravely, "there is something very wrong. A little murmur, you will understand, which should not be. Such murmurs are dangerous. You will remember I stopped with the stethoscope and listened again and again."

"Yes, doctor." She was white to the lips, but her eyes were very steady and brave. "Please, don't talk all around it. Please tell me the truth. Is it very serious? Am I in great danger? I would rather know."

His breath came in deep. Hesitance showed in his eyes, vacillation, pity.

He said, "This thing is swift sometimes. Sometimes it is long. But—with you—it is difficult to say—yet. Perhaps six months, perhaps a year, perhaps two. A year may be right."

She gasped and swayed momentarily to recover at once.

"You mean"—very steadily, with yet a vibrant, panting fear behind the steadiness—"that it may be all finished within twelve months—finished for me?"

"At the moment I am afraid so, Elise. Very much afraid so—unless," he tried to smile cheerfully, "unless we can do something. Hope is not always dead, you know. I will prescribe medicine for you, and you will see me again tomorrow, when I may have something else to tell you. Just now I want you to realise the gravity of the situation and be careful. You must not take this pronouncement as definite. But it puts us on our guard. We are warned and we can act swiftly and surely."

"Yes, doctor, I see." She spoke quietly, not believing in his optimism, and seeing only the dread that he had told her.

WASHINGTON, Mayo 8.—Como parte del proyecto de ley de ingresos, el Senado ha aprobado una contribución sobre los regalos.

Una comisión del Senado que va a entender en el asunto de la elección de Mayfield, ha comenzado ya sus audiencias.

Ante la Comisión del Comercio entre Estados han comenzado los alegatos en favor de la supresión del recargo en los billetes de Pullman.

El Senado debatió sobre el proyecto de ley de inmigración, y tanto los republicanos como los demócratas atacaron la propuesta de aplazar la exclusión de japoneses.

Hablando ante una delegación de señoras republicanas, el Presidente Coolidge expresó que precisaba la organización de los partidos para tener un gobierno eficiente.

Calcula el Ministerio de Agricultura que este año se han producido 53,013,000 "bushels" de trigo; es decir, 3.4 por ciento menos que el año anterior.

El Senador Lodge, republicano de Massachusetts, presentó una moción por la que ha de suplicarse al Presidente Coolidge que proponga una "tercera conferencia en la Haya, a efecto de establecer en dicha población un tribunal mundial".

Méjico Proyecta una Almoneda

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Mayo 8.—El activo del gobierno mejicano va a entrar a rematar al martillo para pagar los sueldos atrasados de los empleados del gobierno. Hoy se anunció que el Presidente Obregón había expedido un decreto por el que se autoriza al Ministro de Hacienda a vender en almoneda pública todas aquellas propiedades del gobierno que no estén destinadas al servicio público, a fin de arbitrarse fondos para pagar los atrasos de sueldos de empleados y las cuentas de comerciantes a quienes se les adeudan saldos desde hace mucho tiempo.

El débito total por estos dos capítulos asciende a no menos de 20,000,000 de pesos. El Ministro de Hacienda Pani se ocupa en nombrar una comisión que valore las propiedades enajenables, y señale los precios mínimos. Semejante medida se adoptó en 1885, en que el General Manuel González ofreció en venta hasta las campanas de la catedral, una de las cuales es la más grande del mundo.

Créese que en estas ventas vayan a figurar algunos tesoros, y que se permitirá a los compradores extranjeros que los saquen de Méjico. La opinión pública está influida aquí por los editoriales de El Universal y Excelsior, los dos más importantes diarios, que sostienen debe suspenderse temporalmente el servicio de la deuda extranjera, y usar los dineros disponibles para las obligaciones interiores. Arguyen los escritores de fondo que el pueblo mejicano debe atender primero a sus propias necesidades, y preocuparse después por los banqueros, quienes realmente no necesitan de ese dinero para vivir. Estas opiniones, sin embargo, están en pugna con las del Embajador Warren, quien manifiesta que sería peligroso para Méjico suspender sus pagos.

Los Bandidos del Pañuelo de Yerbas Son Arrestados

Los bandidos del pañuelo de yerbas, responsables de más de veintidinco robos y atracos en Los Angeles y sus cercanías, cometidos en estos últimos meses, han sido ya cercados por la policía, según anunció ayer el Teniente Sheriff Bell, con motivo de la aprehensión de Elmer Theaker y Archie Burgess.

En este momento, agregó Bell, están detenidos por el atraco y robo de Allan Woodruff, a quien hace poco le quitaron $12 en la carretera de La Mirada, cerca de Whittier.

Los sospechosos son conocidos de las autoridades por el mote de "bandidos del pañuelo de yerba", debido a su invariable costumbre de presentarse a sus víctimas en el momento del asalto con pañuelos de yerbas a guisa de máscaras.

NUMERO 250

Pláticas Diarias en Español por el Prof. R. Guerrero, del Departamento Español de "The Times"

Para que se familiaricen mis lectores angloamericanos con el estilo periodístico serio de los diarios españoles, transcribo en esta Plática y la siguiente o dos siguientes, un artículo de Baldomero Argente, conocido abogado y periodista español contemporáneo. Procure el estudiante entender todas las voces y giros nuevos que encuentre en este escrito, el que, una vez terminado, comentaré en la forma acostumbrada.

Las Crisis Nacionales y el Valer Individual

Un escritor ilustre, gala de su generación y deleite de la España contemporánea, AZORIN, echaba de menos hace tiempo en nuestros políticos el conocimiento de la historia de España. "En nuestro país—decía—los hombres públicos no conocen la historia patria." Indudablemente significaba, no que las figuras salientes de nuestro escenario constitucional — entre las cuales había sin duda hombres incultos, pero en los que estaban en[carnados] ignorancia [de] la historia de España al uso en los Institutos de segunda enseñanza y en Universidades, sino que no ahondaban en ella, para llegar a verdades radicales en la interpretación de los hechos y sorprender enseñanzas y regirse por su lección. En este sentido, el reproche puede hacerse general y no cabe excluir a los escritores. Discutimos todos sobre la España actual, y no queremos buscar la clave de los hechos con que va mezclada nuestra propia vida, apelando a la historia de nuestro propio país.

Y sin embargo, España ha tenido una hora de grandeza en que fructificó la tarea de siglos; analizando esa hora de grandeza puede aprenderse qué la constituye y cómo se forja. España ha tenido también la más honda, la más mísera, la más definitiva decadencia en el final del siglo XVII.

¿Cómo cayó de su esplendor hasta la obscuridad, del sumo poderío a la impotencia? En ese proceso está el secreto de muchos de los problemas contemporáneos. Quizá no hay temas más interesantes, y desde luego más capitales para los españoles que éstos. ¿Cuáles fueron las causas de la decadencia de España, que principia en la segunda mitad del XVI y toca en su fondo al finalizar el siglo XVII? Propongo esos temas a la Academia de la Historia para sus próximos concursos. Por mucho que se encarnice la investigación no será excesiva, y se rectificarán muchos errores respecto de lo pasado como de lo presente; porque la Historia no se una cosa muerta: seguimos viviendo la Historia; ella vive en nosotros: las mismas fuerzas que le fabricaron siguen forjando su continuación; sólo sorprendiendo los errores en que incurrimos al manejar aquellas fuerzas podemos preservarnos ahora de la reincidencia y rectificar el rumbo para lo porvenir.

NEW CLOUDS OF WAR IN BALKANS

Russians Mass Troops on Bessarabian Border

Rumania Mobilizes All Its Troops for Defense

Greece to Keep Eye on Bulgar Frontier for Ally

BY JOHN CLAYTON
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VIENNA, May 8.—Troop concentrations throughout the Balkans particularly along the Bessarabian frontier, have brought a new war fever to Southern Europe.

For the last week the Russians have been throwing new infantry and cavalry regiments in the line along the Dneister River. The Rumanians answered the Russians' warlike moves with concentrations along their side of the river, almost denuding the Bulgarian, Jugo-Slav and Hungarian frontiers to obtain sufficient effectives.

To prevent Bulgaria from attacking Rumania in the rear if the Russians attempt to cross the river, a Greek council of generals at a meeting at Salonika decided to move several large garrisons to the Bulgarian frontier. The military of Greece today insisted in a conference that the civil government draw up a treaty with Rumania which would throw Greece into any conflict in which Bulgaria took part.

SIGNIFICANCE IN DOUBT

It is impossible to judge the seriousness of the troop movements along the Dneister or whether they presage immediate action, owing to the strict censorship which has been clamped down by Bucharest. But diplomatic circles in Athens, Sofia, Belgrade and Vienna attach the most serious importance to the general concentrations, and Russia's threats to retake Bessarabia long have been known. It is not believed here that the Rumanian army is strong enough to halt any serious Russian advance into the former Russian territory, but its treaties with France are such that Paris and the Little Entente may be drawn into the conflict on the Rumanian side.

It was officially admitted in Belgrade today that the Jugo-Slav government was on the verge of concluding a defensive treaty with France, despite the continued refusal of the Belgrade government to support Rumania in Bessarabia. Pressure has been brought to bear by France, especially since the settlement of the Fiume question, and this forced Belgrade to support, at least temporarily, what it holds to be purely Russian territory.

BULGARIA'S INTEREST

The Bulgarian interest in the conflict consists of its desire to regain a strip of territory south of the Danube taken from it by Rumania through the treaty of Neuilly. Rumania has regarded Bulgaria with anxiety since the Russian threat became serious. Its diplomacy in the Balkans has been set on making sure of either Greek or Serbian support, and if possible both, against Bulgaria in the event of an attack from this quarter.

How successful were its maneuvers was shown today in the Salonika conference, which adopted the most friendly attitude toward Rumania.

The Russian army now concentrated along the Dneister River is estimated to be well over 300,000, with new troops being brought up daily. The strict Rumanian censorship thus far has prevented outside circles from learning whether any new Rumanian classes have been called to the colors, but the situation is believed here to be critical.

LAST RITES FOR BANKER

Funeral Services for Henry A. Church, Stricken at Polls, to be Conducted Monday

Funeral services for Henry A. Church, prominent in business and banking circles in Iowa and California, will be conducted Monday at the Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn Cemetery. Mr. Church was taken ill Tuesday when he went to the polls to vote for President Coolidge, and died the following day, at his home, 1412 Victoria avenue.

Mr. Church was born on a farm in Western New York and served in the Civil War in the Eighth New York Artillery. After a time in Chicago, he moved to what was then a frontier town, Marshalltown, Iowa, where he lived nearly thirty years.

He was a buyer of stock and produce, and shipped the first full train of live stock ever sent out of Iowa. He built more than 300 houses in Marshalltown and established banks in Conrad, Maxwell, Rhodes, Liscomb and St. Anthony, Iowa, and in Norborne, Mo.

He came to Los Angeles in 1904, intending to retire, but placed a bank in Norwalk in 1904, in Burbank in 1908, bought the Highland Park Bank in 1912 and established the First National banks of Baldwin Park and Montebello. The banks at Burbank, Montebello and Highland Park are now branches of the Security Trust and Savings Bank.

Mr. Church leaves his widow, to whom he was married fifty-seven years; one daughter, Mrs. C. C. Cottle of Los Angeles; three sons, R. O. Church of Burbank, C. M. Church of South Pasadena and H. A. Church, Jr., of Los Angeles, nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild. R. O. Church and C. M. Church are vice-presidents of the Security Trust and Savings Bank and are prominent in local banking circles.

ROAD PLANS FOR RECORD TRAVEL TIDE

Summer Tourist Influx Over Espee Lines Will be Started in Week

Plans for accommodating the largest summer tourist influx Southern California has ever known have been completed by the Southern Pacific Railway Company, which will start the first contingent westward over its lines from eastern points the 15th inst. under summer tourist rates. The first eastbound contingent under the summer rates will leave Los Angeles the 22nd inst.

Accommodations at this time indicate that at least a dozen sections, each comprising a full train, will steam east from the Southern Pacific yards here on that date.

The round-trip fares, both east and west, will be as low as have ever been offered by the company and will be practically the same as last year. The round trip fare from Los Angeles to New York under the summer rate is $147.40, to Chicago, $86; and to New Orleans, $85.15.

"There is nothing on which to base an estimate of the number of tourists who will invade Los Angeles this year, but we expect to handle a larger number this year than ever before," declared H. P. Monahan, district passenger agent, last night. "Unquestionably there will be an increase over last year. The endless chain advertising that Southern California gets every year from the tourists who visit the Southland make this prediction sound."

Summer round-trip excursion rates to all points east amount to little more than a one-way fare.

Bather's Body Washed Up at Canyon Mouth

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SAWTELLE, May 8.—The body of Elwood Andres of 2117 Darwin avenue, Los Angeles, was recovered by local police tonight where it had washed ashore near the mouth of Santa Monica Canyon. Andres was drowned Sunday when he was swimming in the surf with Robert Patterson of Los Angeles and Patterson's daughter, Dora. Miss Patterson narrowly escaped a similar fate.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BAKERSFIELD, May 8.—Belief that Harry Dunlap, notorious fugitive from justice, wanted for murder, attacks on women and highway robbery, was implicated in the hold-up of the State Bank of Taft with Eleonor Walling, March 13, last, and that Dunlap may be in hiding on the west side awaiting an opportunity to take away the unrecovered loot of the robbery was strengthened today by the discovery of additional clews by the police, they said tonight.

STILLS SEIZED AND TWO SUSPECTS HELD

THREE SMALL PLANTS TAKEN ALONE WITH PAIR IN DRY SQUAD RAIDS

Three stills were seized and two men taken into custody in two raids by officers in the police reserves and vice squad last night.

Charles Scardino, 5706 South St. Andrews Place, was charged with possession of a fifty-gallon still, said to have been in operation, and John Gigich, 1000 1-2 Everett street, was held for the asserted possession of one fifty-gallon still and one ten-gallon still. The smaller still was said to have been in use.

Sergt. Phillips and Officers Murphy, Barnes and Boice of the police reserves conducted the first raid. Officers Crane, Walls, Griffin and Sanders of the vice squad took part in the second.

PARK CAMP RIGHTS SOLD TO GOODWIN

Yellowstone Company is Purchased by Local Man for Unknown Sum

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SALT LAKE CITY, May 8.—Announcement of the sale of the Yellowstone Park Camps Company to Vernon Goodwin, Los Angeles hotel man, was made here today by Daniel S. Spencer, general passenger agent for the Oregon Short Line Railroad Company. The consideration was not made public.

Mr. Spencer was informed of the sale by Horace M. Albright, superintendent of Yellowstone Park.

The Yellowstone Park Camps Company controls all of the camps in the national playground.

The property formerly was controlled by Howard H. Hays of Livingston, Mont. The sale of the properties, which was prompted by the continued ill-health of Mr. Hays, has the approval of S. T. Mather, director of the National Parks Service, who recently joined with Mr. Albright, Mr. Hays and the purchaser in a discussion of the deal in Los Angeles.

All officers of the company, with the exception of Mr. Hays, will remain with the organization and the headquarters of the company in Livingston will not be changed under the new management, it is understood.

Vernon Goodwin left Los Angeles for a visit to Yellowstone Park on the 5th inst. He had been a guest at the Vista Del Arroyo Hotel of Pasadena for several days. Until two years ago he was secretary of the Alexandria Hotel Company.

Townsend Gives Up to Police in Sale Complaint

LONG BEACH, May 8.—H. H. Townsend, head of the H. H. Townsend Company, real estate agents for Hollydale, new subdivision near here surrendered here this evening on a warrant issued by the police last night on a complaint sworn out by T. J. Y. How. The complaint charges that Townsend accepted $1000 from How as a payment on a house and lot in Hollydale and converted the money to his own use instead of turning it in to the Mercantile Investment Company of Los Angeles. The investment company, How said, holds the trust deeds on all the lots in Hollydale. Townsend was released on $10,000 bail.

The Mercantile Investment Company's offices in Los Angeles are in charge of E. A. Parkford, president, and C. A. Abrams, secretary.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, May 8.—The child labor law in the person of C. F. Lowy, attorney for the State Labor Commission, stopped the performance of the Juvenile Symphony Orchestra, the featured act on the vaudeville bill at the Temple Theater here last night.

Just as the curtain was about to rise on the number, O. H. Schleusener, manager of the theater, appeared from the wings and introduced Mr. Lowy. The latter said that as J. B. Abdullah, manager of the orchestra, had failed to obtain a permit from the commission, he had been instructed to prevent the appearance. Schleusener said the theater would return the price of admission to any who wished their money back.

The orchestra is composed of thirty-five boys and girls, of various ages, many of them under 16 years. The act has been showing in various cities in Southern California.

Jury Fails to Agree in Trial of Dr. Schley

After being out ten and a half hours, a jury of eight women and four men trying Dr. W. C. Schley, Pasadena physician charged with manslaughter, reported it was unable to agree and was discharged. Three ballots were cast. Each time the vote stood six and six. The jurors began their deliberations at 10:30 a.m., yesterday.

Dr. Schley was accused of striking with his car and killing Mrs. Ida Elizabeth Walker in Pasadena January 3, last. The crux of the case was the question of whether Dr. Schley was intoxicated at the time of the accident and witnesses for prosecution and defense contradicted one another on this point.

The case was tried in Judge Hahn's court. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ostrom appeared for the prosecution and Attorney George Grier for the defense.

OFFICER HERE FOR BURGLARY SUSPECT

Detective Lieutenant C. S. Bland of the Kansas City police department arrived here last night to take charge of Roy Shockley, alias Roy Scott, recently arrested here for suspicion of burglary. Shockley is said to have been identified as a bandit who held up the Shubert Theater in Kansas City and robbed the cashier of $3000 about three months ago.

WIFE'S BREATH BRINGS DECREE

Husband Says He Knows Whisky When He Smells It

Fred E. Brown considers himself thoroughly qualified to note the difference between the odor of "juicy fruit" and whisky, he asserted yesterday before Judge Summerfield, from whom he obtained a divorce from Mrs. Margaret Brown.

"That's just chewing gum, juicy fruit," Mrs. Brown attempted to explain when he commented on the flavor of the breath she brought home with her one night, he said.

Brown, just to make sure, took another sniff and formed his own opinion. He also told of seeing his wife riding along Wilshire Boulevard in a closed car with another man.

ACCUSER OF GIRL TELLS OF ROBBERY

Trial of Asserted Flapper Bandit Begins With Victim on Witness Stand

Pearl Redmond, asserted flapper bandit, went on trial yesterday in Judge Hahn's department of the Superior Court. A jury was quickly selected and the first and only witness of the day was C. R. Morgan, asserted victim of the girl suspect.

He identified her as the woman who, with Leroy Maxwell, held him up in Topanga Canyon some weeks ago and robbed him of two valuable diamonds. The woman and Maxwell came to him, he said, with a proposition to buy his cabin in Topanga Canyon. They drove out to look over the cabin and when they arrived at a lonely spot in the road he was held up by the two prospective customers and robbed.

Maxwell has pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery in connection with this case and may be called as a witness against the woman. Mrs. Redmond and Maxwell were arrested in Justice Russill's court a few weeks ago while attending the preliminary hearing on a charge of burglary of Homer Redmond, the woman's husband. The case against Mrs. Redmond is being prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ostram and Attorney S. S. Hahn is acting for the defense.

Permit Given for Cemetery Over Protest

After a series of hearings, the City Council yesterday dismissed all protests against the Oakwood Cemetery Syndicate's project near Chatsworth in the San Fernando Valley and adopted an ordinance giving the syndicate the necessary permit to proceed with its plans.

The only negative vote was that of Councilman Mallard, who refused to sign the public welfare committee's report recommending the ordinance.

Opposing the project are the Chatsworth Chamber of Commerce and the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando Valley. Attorney Alan Nichols represented the protestants. In supporting them, Councilman Mallard said that, in his opinion, there was no public necessity for another cemetery, inasmuch as the burial needs of the city had been met for at least forty years in advance, and that the project was purely speculative.

Before signing the ordinance Mayor Cryer will conduct further hearings on both sides of the question.

CAHUENGA PASS ROAD WORK TO START SOON

With the deed to the right of way for the new Cahuenga Pass Road already filed with the City Council, and its acceptance merely a matter of a short time, in the opinion of those behind the improvement, it is expected that grading of the new highway will be started within the next few weeks. The grading work will be completed within four months after work is started, according to the present schedule.

The right of way for the new highway was donated to the city by C. E. Toberman, Myra Hersey and other property owners. Work on the concrete bridge which is to be constructed over Indian Village Canyon, will start at the same time that the grading is done.

The proposed Cahuenga Pass Road will be seventy feet wide, 4000 feet long, and will have a ten-foot sidewalk on one side of the right of way. The present plans of the City Engineer's office call for the opening of the road about the summer of 1925 to heavy truck traffic in order that the fill will be packed before paving is started.

Admits Fraud When He Was Company Aide

Arthur C. Pollock, formerly chief accountant of the Union Oil Company, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Reeve to a count charging embezzlement of funds of the company by a system of fraudulent oil run slips. He will be sentenced the 22nd inst. Pollock will ask for probation.

The method asserted to have been used by Pollock was to issue bogus receipts for oil and appropriate the money for his own use. The shortage was approximately $50,000, it was said. It is charged Pollock deposited the money in a bank under a fictitious name. The case was prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Van Cott.

Watch your pimples vanish

Why? Pimple-Poison goes when Red-Blood-Cells increase! S. S. S. builds these Red-Blood-Cells!

You can be sure of this, nature has no substitute for red-blood-cells. Pimple-poison can't live in the red rivers of your blood as long as there are enough rich red-blood-cells in it. More red-blood-cells! That is what you need when you see pimples staring at you in the mirror. Blackheaded pimples are worse! Eczema is worse yet! You can try everything under the sun,—you'll find only one answer, more cell-power in your blood! The tremendous results, produced by an increase in red-blood-cells is one of the A. B. C.'s of medical science. Red-cells mean clear, pure, rich blood. They mean clear, ruddy, lovable complexions. They mean nerve power, because all your nerves are fed by your blood. They mean freedom forever from pimples, from the blackhead pest, from boils, from eczema and skin eruptions, from rheumatic impurities, from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-blood-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S. S. S. will build them for you. S. S. S. has been known since 1826, as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. Let Mother Know--

TOO often we allow our thinking of mother and our love of her to go unexpressed. But mother's heart will be gladdened by a gift that will tell her every day how much you care. Such a gift is the Starr Phonograph. Its rich golden voice will sing to her the songs she loves, songs that will carry your message of thoughtfulness as long as she lives.

The Starr is distinguished from all other phonographs by a tone and a superior musical quality achieved by master artist-craftsmen who have devoted their lives to the building of fine musical instruments exclusively. It is the only phonograph with such a heritage.

We most cordially invite you to hear it and compare it with all others.

SISTARELLI DAY IS KHJ OFFERING

Fitzgerald Music Company Sponsors Program

Composer-Violinist Reveals His Musicianship

Flora Engel, Lyric Soprano, Pleases Audience

BY MELLONINO

"By word and deed, Radioland will agree Fitzgerald Music Company practices charity. All must be false that thwart this one great end And all of God, that bless mankind, or mend."

And in support of this policy, public-spirited Fitzgerald Music Company arranged and presented practically the entire day's program at KHJ yesterday. Beginning at noon with Maude Fenlon Bollman, well-known soprano and vocal instructor, the matinee program presented Umberto Sistarelli, composer-violinist, whose works featured the musicale, Victor Edmunds, tenor, and Margaret Wilson, accompanist. The evening introduced Flora Myers Engel, soprano, Earl Fraser, pianist, and Clifford Lott, baritone.

Selecting for her recital the works of American composers, Maude Fenlon Bollman displayed her understanding of their moods and meaning through her interpretation. Accompanied by Ivy Mae Travis, she sang a group of children's songs that proved exceptional vehicles for her soprano voice.

Victor Edmunds, tenor, opened the afternoon festival with "Californiana" a creation of Umberto Sistarelli, who accompanied on the Knabe. This was followed by Mr. Sistarelli's rendition of his own composition, "Hearts Melody," accompanied by Margaret Wilson. "Dawn of Day," a poem by Henry Landhorne Carver, felt the touch of Mr. Sistarelli's prolific pen, and formed an ideal combination for Victor Edmund's voice. The composer played the violin obbligato and Miss Wilson assisted at the piano. "Italian Eyes" and "Belita," a Spanish song, two additional compositions of Sistarelli, completed Mr. Edmund's share of the program.

Umberto Sistarelli brought the matinee concert to a close appropriately with two of his compositions," "Intermezzo" from opera "Fatalita," and an oriental song entitled "Nurmahal," through which he was accompanied by Margaret Wilson at the Knabe. It was completely and exclusively a Sistarelli afternoon.

Events of the evening were stimulating and exhilarating. Flora Myers Engel, whose brilliant light lyric soprano voice closely approaches the coloratura type, sang Rummel's "June." The flexibility of her voice lent wings to the running rhythm of the song. "I breathe Thy Name," by Mary Turner Salter, one of the few feminine composers whose works display a decided masculine strength, was added to Miss Engel's program and followed by Roger's "At Parting," simple and sentimental ballad. The outstanding feature of Miss Engel's performance was her perfect pianissimo head tones, an objective in the art of singing to which many aspire but few reach.

Clifford Lott, lyric baritone, in the three solos he sang displayed an artistic mucianship that carried his numbers far above the commonplace. Accompanied by Earl Fraser, he sang "Tell Me Not of a Lovely Lass," by Forsyth; "My Rosalin," by Needham, and King's "Israfel." Chaminade's "Barcarolle" and Gotze's "Calm as the Night" were sung as duets by Mr. Lott and Miss Engel with excellent blending of voices.

PLAYLET FOR TOTS

The children's hour was given an unusual twist by the presentation of a novel playlet written and supervised by Ernest White of Hollywood. It wes a Jackie and Bing fairy play, in which a trip to the submarine gardens at Catalina was made. The role of Jackie was filled by little Dick Winslow, Bing, the dog, was taken by himself. Uncle John assumed the role of Happy, and Jean Hartnack, the 9-year-old reader, took the part of Princess Avalon. The character of Father Neptune was taken by James Tip O'Neil, the well-known actor, who has at times in the past headed his own companies, but at present is engaged in the production of motion pictures. The Chinaman in the cast was placed in the hands of Charley, the Oriental familiar to Angelenos, who see him daily vending peanuts on the streets of Los Angeles. Ernest White was assisted also by Hi Moulton's dance orchestra who, under the name of the Pasadenans, are known as snappy purveyors of syncopation. This organization, composed of Hi Moulton, director and violin; R. Montgomery, piano; Eugene Powers, violin; Henry G. Frick, violin; Frank Bliss, saxophone and clarinet; Ior Ware, saxophone and flute; E. P. Melvin, trumpet; E. V. Pletch, trumpet; C. J. Christian, trombone; Aeneas J. Casey, banjo, and Albert Gould, baritone, furnished the pep for the occasion and kept everyone in good spirits.

Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog selected the State of Maryland for his subject last night and for fifteen minutes held the attention of his audience as he outlined the history of the "Cockade" State.

Dickie Brandon, who shelters in his little body an endless source of energy and in his head the mental equipment of one beyond his years, entertained the youngsters in his usual style of verse and humor.

Maurice Salta displayed marked histrionic ability in his impersonation of three leading characters of the American stage. Percy Pollock's noted courtroom scene from the dramatic success "Lightnin'" was Mr. Salta's opening contribution. It proved a happy selection in view of the fact that the old Soldier's Home at Sawtelle shelters the most fervid listeners to KHJ, and its inmates have been invited by Percy Pollock to attend a performance of his starring vehicle as his guests.

The Long Beach Californians under the management of R. N. Moore, Jr., created a snappy atmosphere during their short stay with jazz that appealed and did not grate on sensitive ears. The organization is composed of Herbert Chase, leader and director; Bob Rockwell, piano; Dale Straw, saxaphone and clarinet, Jerry Bryant, saxaphone and clarinet; William Gray, banjo, and Larry Newberger, druma.

NOTASEME

:: Deserts Chilled in Stone are Best

Desserts that must be chilled are best when chilled at an even low temperature. To obtain an even low temperature The NOTASEME REFRIGERATOR has been designed. The lining is one-half inch stone composition. It is not only super insulated but it has dead air spaces between the inner stone and the outer box. This construction protects the stone from outside influences. The stone alone will stay cold indefinitely. The NOTASEME is perfection itself for holding a constant low temperature.

Desserts chilled in a NOTASEME are made solid quickly and maintain this chilled state longer after taken from the refrigerator.

This stone lining is sanitary and odorless. The corners are rounded—no dirt can collect. Desserts chilled in this clean white stone can never have a tinny flavor.

Because ice will last twice as long in a NOTASEME they often pay for themselves in one season and show a profit during the many future seasons.

DOROTHY DEVORE TO STAR IN COMEDY AT MASON

By Grace Kingsley

Another of our young stars is quitting the films for the stage. She is no less charming a young lady than Dorothy Devore, who erstwhile amused us in Christie Comedies.

Mis Devore, who lately left comedies flat to try her wings in other skies, is to be starred in a new play to be produced at the Mason, following th run of Don Marquis's comedy, "The Old Soak," at that house. Quite appropriately, it might be said, considering the title of its predecessor, the play is called "The Morning After."

"The Morning After" was written by C. A. Newton, a budding playwright, and is described as a comedy with music. Miss Devore not only will have a chance to exercise her famous comedy gifts, but will also do some singing and dancing.

Dorothy Devore, considered one of the best comediennes of the screen, is not a novice to the stage. She gained her early experience in stock and on the Orpheum vaudeville circuit.

The comedy will go on tour following its premiere here. C. A. Niggemeyer will direct it. A beautiful chorus, small in numbers, but said to be peachy in quality, will add to the charm of the new production.

"It will seem nice to be able to see my audience once more," said the dashing Miss Devore. "And in any case I hope I'm through with the black-and-blue drama. Do I dance? Of course I dance! And I'm glad to take my voice out of cotton wool, too."

MONTEBLUE CHOSEN TO PLAY "DEBURAU"

The suspense is over at last, and masculine heart-burnings will have to cease. The coveted role of "Deburau" has been filled.

Selection of Monte Blue for the role of Charles Deburau in the screen version of "Deburau" was announced yesterday by Production Manager J. L. Warner of the Warner Brothers. It is the plan of the Warners to make this the most important of their producing year.

"Deburau" was one of the greatest of the David Belasco stage successes. On the legitimate stage Lionel Atwill portrayed the role that Monte will have in the film version. The story has to do with the greatest pierrot that ever lived and promises much as a screen adaptation.

At present Blue is appearing under Phil Rosen's direction in "Being Respectable" and before going into the characterization of Deburau will play the male lead in "Her Marriage Vow," which the Warners are to start within the next two weeks. In casting Blue for "Deburau," which will be the star's most important screen appearance, Jack Warner said yesterday that when the play was purchased it was with Blue in mind for the title role.

Wallace Eddinger to London

While thrilling little rumors of a real romance between Margaret Lawrence and Wallace Eddinger continue to be heard among the professional folk, the delightful stage romance of "All Alone Susan," by Leo Freeman, continues to charm the public at the Majestic.

In the meantime, Miss Lawrence is preparing to spend a few weeks at the beach, after the close of the play, before going back to hot old New York to commence rehearsals for the metropolitan premiere of the most whimsical and amusing stage romance we have seen in many a long day.

Mr. Eddinger, however, will not play his present role in New York, but another leading man will be engaged for the part. Mr. Eddinger being a star, his managers insist that he seek a new play. To this end the actor will go to London this year.

"I have not been able to find a real starring vehicle since 'Captain Applejack,'" said Mr. Eddinger yesterday. "But I am on the track of a couple of good English plays, notably Frederick Lonsdale's latest play, 'The Fake,' now current in London, and the leading role in which I believe would suit me admirably. There are one or two other plays running there which I want to take a look at."

Mr. Eddinger, as a matter of fact, is now entitled to have the word "Producer" tacked to his name, as he is in partnership with Messrs. Lewis and Gordon, New York theatrical producers, whose latest effort was "The Wild Westcotts," which read beautifully, but did not act so well, and therefore was not a howling success. However, they have some other plays in their desks, which they are about to produce, and about which they have great hopes. The firm will produce "The Fake" in case Mr. Eddinger decides to play in it. Leo Carrillo is busy just now rehearsing "Magnolia," which is to go on at the Majestic a week from Sunday.

Playhouse Plans

Doris Keane is settled nicely in her new Hollywood house, and from her sun parlor can pass the time of day with Theodore Roberts, while she confesses that she believes her cook has already borrowed a cup of sugar or something from Tully Marshall's cook.

Living right across the street is Mae Murray, and Miss Keane is expecting daily to be able to return Miss Murray's nice, friendly little call.

"I'm falling more and more in love with California every day," said Miss Keane, "I motored down to see a friend off on the train the other day, but I told her I didn't think there was any place to go from here!"

"Romance," in which Miss Keane is starring at the Playhouse, the beautiful new theater on Figueroa street, is doing a phenomenal business. It will run indefinitely, but following its close, it is likely the piece will be taken to San Francisco, according to the statement of Lillian Albertson, stage director, and wife of Louis Macloon, coproducer of the play along with Messrs. Selwyn and Woods.

"We are receiving such urgent requests from San Francisco managers and residents to bring 'Romance' to San Francisco," said Miss Albertson, "that it seems likely we shall do that. While we are in the north, Pauline Frederick will be appearing at the Playhouse in Frederick Lonsdale's play, 'Spring Cleaning,' which has been such a sensation in New York during the past season.

"Then Miss Keane will return to Los Angeles, where we shall produce her new play by Edward Sheldon, author of 'Romance.' The new play is called 'Starlight,' and may be described as a romance of sophistication."

Another big star's name will shortly be announced for the Playhouse also.

So that it doesn't look as if theater-goers here are going to have a dull moment.

Ruth Stonehouse Marries

If you want anything done in a hurry, just leave it to Ruth Stonehouse. That ambitious young lady carried off the palm for fast action last Monday when she was called to appear at the Raymond Theater in Pasadena, which is playing vaudeville.

The management trailed Miss Stonehouse to the Biltmore dining-room at 12 o'clock, asking her to appear at the Raymond at 2:30 in the sketch she has been playing on Pantages circuit. But she couldn't find her partner anywhere in town. So she finally dashed over to Pasadena, went on the stage without make-up or changing her clothes, and did a single, singing and dancing, getting away with it to good returns. She had rounded up her vaudeville partner by night, however, and the two went on and did their regular sketch.

Tourneur's Next

"Belonging," a novel by Olive Wadsley, dealing with high society life in Paris and London, has been purchased by M. C. Levee for Maurice Tourneur's next production. Camera work will start about June 1. Albert Shelby LeVino, who adapted "The White Moth," now current at Loew's, will make the adaptation of "Belonging."

Cecil De Mille at Sea

Barred from his mountain ranch, thirty miles back in the Sierra Madre range, Cecil B. De Mille is now among those whose activities have been curtailed by the quarantine put on against the hoof-and-mouth disease.

Mr. and Mrs. De Mille and party of ten were turned back at the foothills on their start toward Mr. De Mille's domain of 600 acres, where he goes frequently to rest from his motion-picture endeavors.

As a result Mr. De Mille has taken to the sea and his period of preparation on his forthcoming photoplay, "Feet of Clay," is being passed aboard his yacht Seaward, for as yet it has not been found that the hoof-and-mouth disease has any effect on fish.

Colleen Would Abroad Go

Just honing and hankering to play a role in a story, the plot of which is laid in France, is what Colleen Moore is doing these days. Miss Moore confesses that it isn't all just for art that she longs for such a story. The truth of the matter, if you must know, is that she wants to go to Paris. This story gets more complicated as it goes along, as you can see for yourself when I tell you that the reason she wants to go to Paris is because she is dead sure that her brother Cleve, youthful athlete, who is trying for the fancy diving honors, in order to be sent to the Olympic games, is going to win those honors, and Colleen just knows that when he gets to Paris he will show the world a thing or two along this athletic line.

Young Morrison has won practically every meet in which he has been entered under the colors of the Hollywood Athletic Club, and he is expected to win a place on the team which will go East this summer for the final tryouts for the American team.

SPIRIT OF YOUTH PREVAILS IN CAST

The spirit of youth prevails so strongly in the story of "Free Love," which Hobart Henley is picturizing for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, that the mother of the principal flapper does not look much older than her daughter. Hobart Henley has engaged the aristocratic looking Hedda Hopper for the role of Mrs. Stevens, the film mother of Eleanor Boardman.

Featured in Coming Sea Story

Jacqueline Logan,

New Revue at Plantation Is Hit at Start

Cafe revues come and go with frequent regularity. Some of them are interesting. Some are just passable. Others do not even rate comment in their going.

Few of these productions have the dash and spirit in evidence with the opening of "Privolities" at the Plantation in Culver City, Wednesday night. This offering, staged by Fanchon, who has made a name for herself with local cinema theater presentations, is one of the best things of its kind seen here in many months.

An interesting cast includes five principals and a chorus of eight charming and talented girls. Heading the list of entertainers are Betty and Jimmy Morgan, a team that has appeared here before, and always with success. Betty Morgan is trim and slim, singing with pleasing personality songs of a rather unique type. Jimmy accompanies her at the piano, and also offers a violin solo or two.

Jack Kinney and Hilda Lee are a dance team of merit who win applause in a series of difficult numbers. Kinney also attempts to sing, but registers a much greater success when he devotes himself to his terpsichorean efforts.

Jacqueline Drew has a soft, mellow voice, ideal in the dreamy numbers she sometimes sings, but a little out of place in the jazzy selections.

The chorus is decked out in a wardrobe of fresh, new and novel costumes. They appear to be well trained, as a whole, and talented in their individual contributions to the scheme of things.

TIME TO SMILE

Two Laughable Pictures on Bill at California Next Week

"Laugh a Week" will start tomorrow at the California Theater with a special comedy program to offer theater-goers.

The main attraction on a double bill is "Conductor 1492." Johnny Hines will take the audience for a volley of fun on a trolley. Your fare will take you on a tour through Joyful Junction, Cheerful Corner, Hilarity Hill, Thrill Turn, Suspense Point, Comedy Circle, Scream Square, Pleasing Place, Love Landing and Romance Landing.

Another dash of spice to the program is Will Rogers in "Big Moments from Little Pictures." Bill displays his talent as a screen actor. He shows you how Douglas Fairbanks should have played the role of "Robin Hood," Rodolph Valentino in "Blood and Sand," Johnny Walker in "Over the Hill" and Ford Sterling as the famous Keystone cop.

Carli Elinor will give a special "Laugh a Week" musical number in conjunction with his usual concert offering.

KEATON COMEDY TO PLAY ANOTHER WEEK

Buster Keaton, than whom there is no greater embryo detective in all moviedom, will continue to play "Sherlock, Junior" at Tally's Theater for another week. With but one thing in mind, to produce a comedy with bigger and better laughs and to prove for all time that feature comedies are no longer in their infancy, Buster went ahead and promised not only his fans but himself that in "Sherlock, Junior" he would give the world something to laugh at that would make them remember for many a day with a snicker.

An added feature, "A Trip to the Far North," continues as a singularly remarkable adventure trip into the Arctic regions.

SEA STORY COMES TO METROPOLITAN

Today marks the final showings at the Metropolitan of the mystery play, "The Guilty One," with Agnes Ayres, Edward Burns and others featured.

Beginning tomorrow, Rod La Rocque and Jacqueline Logan are featured in the exciting story of life on the briny deep. "The Code of the Sea," which depicts the regeneration of the son of a line of cowards. The story is an original from the pen of Byron Morgan. In the supporting cast are George Fawcett, Maurice Flynn, Luke Cosgrave and Lillian Leighton.

BRUNSWICK NIGHT

Monday has been designated as "Brunswick night" at the Cinderella Roof, with two Brunswick orchestras furnishing the music. Paul Ashe and his Granada orchestra from San Francisco will be the visiting guest artists of Herb Wiedoeft's band. This is the first local appearance of Paul Ashe and his syncopators. They are in the city for the purpose of making records, following a long engagement at the Granada Theater in San Francisco.

FINANCING THE MOTION PICTURE

Fifty Million Dollars Spent Every Year Here

Credit Should Only Follow Intimate Knowledge

Banker Discusses Los Angeles' Greatest Industry

Ranking the motion-picture industry as the seventh in size in capital investment and earning power in the United States, with a total investment of $1,250,000,000, John E. Barber, vice-president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles and First Securities Company, outlined before a meeting of the bank credit men of Los Angeles some of the problems involved in motion-picture finance.

The occasion was the monthly dinner given by the Los Angeles Credit Men's Association at the Alexandria Hotel last night at which Mr. Barber was the chief speaker.

"As the largest single industry in Los Angeles with an annual expenditure for production purposes in this city of at least $50,000,000 per year," he said, "the motion-picture industry is entitled to the fullest support of this community with a broader conception of what it has done to promote the prosperity of this city and spread its fame not only throughout the United States, but in every quarter of the globe."

AN INTRICATE BUSINESS

The motion-picture business is so intricate and complex that credit should be extended by banks to motion-picture enterprises only where bankers have a full and intimate knowledge of the essential factors controlling the motion-picture industry, are familiar with its problems and are constantly alert to rapidly changing conditions. Mr. Barber stated that the motion-picture industry rests upon the legitimate base of supplying entertainment to millions of people at a moderate cost.

As in other industries centralization, both in production and distribution of pictures, is rapidly becoming more pronounced. According to the Wall Street Journal, 95 per cent of the motion-picture industry is in the hands of a dozen concerns, including producers and distributors, while 80 per cent of motion-picture production centers in six concerns. This tendency, indicated Mr. Barber, is making for greater stability within the motion-picture industry and should lead to greater credit facilities at the banks and larger investment by the financial public.

COTTON REMAINS IN GRIP OF DULLNESS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 8.—Cotton futures continued irregular in a dull and featureless session on the local exchange today at the end of which prices had about recovered the small recessions of the day before, closing 12 to 23 points net higher. Prices fluctuated hardly more than 1-4 cent a pound during the day, the opening being 4 to 12 points higher and showing only a half-hearted response to Liverpool's sharp rise before our opening. Scattered selling by commission and spot houses eased prices off moderately with the May options liquidation causing some uneasiness.

With local shorts New Orleans was a buyer on the decline, taking considerable July and causing a recovery of 15 to 20 points after which the list again became dull. The foreign spot market was more active, advancing 10 English points. Spot cotton closed 10 points higher at 30 1-2 cents.

Bankers Closely Watching Progress of McFadden Bill; Grapes and Wine; Trade Outlook

Unrest among the national banks in this State arising from the restrictions imposed by the National Bank Act exists in New York where, it is said, some of the national institutions are seriously considering the relinquishment of their charters for the more favorable ones granted by the State.

Two institutions which, it is stated, have given careful thought to the proposed surrender of national charters are the Chemical National Bank and the American Exchange National Bank. Others are reported to have raised the question in directors' meetings, but have taken no action.

Lewis L. Clarke, president of the American Exchange National was quoted recently in this summary of the situation: "Unless the McFadden bill, or some other bill of similar nature is passed, we probably will be forced to make the change in order to liberalize our charters along the lines that State banks enjoy."

Percy H. Johnson, president of the Chemical National Bank, said: "I don't believe that any national banks will have to leave the system. Our officers, and officers of other national banks, are hopeful that pending legislation will liberalize the present national bank regulation. In order to give the national banks a fair chance in competition with State banks, such legislation is necessary. If it were not to materialize, then, of course, the Chemical National Bank would have to go back to a State charter, for with us the question of branch banking is a vital one."

The McFadden bill, now before Congress, and acted on favorably by the Committee on Currency and Banking, is considered objectionable in some of its features by the State banks, but is supported by the national banks. It amends some of the ironclad provisions of the National Bank Act and would permit national banks to perform may of the duties now permitted only to State banks, including branch banking. The McFadden bill would give national banks authority to open branches within the city limits of their headquarters location provided such privileges were given under State laws to State banks.

GRAPES AND WINE

Commenting on the increased popularity of the grape since prohibition and its widely extended markets, the Wall-street Journal sententiously remarks that "the only difference today is that transcontinental railroads carry grapes on the stem instead of in the bottle or barrel. Grape-growing goes on, as always, but wine making has been changed from a vast centralized industry to a home affair like domestic canning and fruit preserving.

To support its contention, the Journal submits a table showing the declining tonnages of wine carried by the two railroads serving the California grape section, the Southern Pacific and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe.

Year—	Southern Pacific. Tons.	Atchison. Tons.
1922	40,946	21,423
1921	61,718	22,306
1920	139,371	36,593
1919	230,197	54,151
1918	418,134	102,697
1917	450,287	107,585

Of 54,660 carloads of grapes produced in California in 1923, 52,339 carloads, or 96 per cent, were shipped out of the State, a preponderance to North Atlantic States. Considerably less tonnage is used in the production of wines and grape juice in California every year. The Volstead amendment shattered the California wine industry and high prices for grapes have reduced the volume of grape juice made.

The largest manufacturers of grape juice have felt the effect of high grape prices in lessened demand for their product. Before prohibition Concord grapes were available for $20 a ton, while in the past three years over $100 a ton has been paid. Necessarily higher prices for grape juice have sought out substitutes, one of the most successful of which has as its base an extract of coal tar. The irony of this is the fact that some of the largest grape juice people are said to have contributed liberally to prohibition—one company's gift being reported at $3,000,000—in the expectation they would profit from it.

WHY BANKS ARE NEEDED

Stanley McIntosh, chairman of the organization committee of the Bankers' Trust Company, the newest of the proposed banks for Los Angeles, says there is a real need for additional banking facilities in Los Angeles, because a community such as this can realize upon its opportunities only as its supply of capital matches with the mounting demands of industry, commerce and agriculture.

"Last year," Mr. McIntosh summarizes, "the bank clearings of Los Angeles gained 40 per cent over those of 1922, and topped the $7,000,000,000 mark. The city's banking resources have practically doubled in the past three years, and are now well in excess of $900,000,000. Last year's building permits aggregated more than $200,000,000. Imports jumped 50 per cent, and so did exports. The city's industries produced more than $1,100,000,000 worth of merchandise, and the manufacturers' pay rolls exceeded $6,500,000 a week. Forty-five thousand families bought or built homes here.

"The banks of Los Angeles have risen splendidly to the occasion, justifying the public confidence in their safety and demonstrating convincingly the excellence of their standards of service, but recognition of the value of their contribution to the city's growth and progress only makes more apparent the need for the type of institution which the Bankers' Trust Company is to be."

BUSINESS SUMMARY

Bradstreet's Review for this week has the following summary from the Los Angeles office:

"Much encouragement is shown in the foot-and-mouth disease which is now under control, and conditions in this district are normal.

"Business has improved over March, but is not up to 1923. The automotive trade is still quiet, although summer opening will improve this condition.

"May starts off well with collections behind last year. Wholesale shoes report good business, with collections fair. Wholesale grocers report business off about 10 per cent, with collections good. Lumber sales average 15 per cent less, with collections dragging. Furniture business is slow with little demand. Employment is still unsatisfactory. Hotels and railroads report capacity business. Postal receipts increased $119,000 over April, 1923. Building is quiet, with plenty of available space, both residential and business. Ranchers report that crops are good, with a good demand for potatoes and tomatoes. Other commodities are fairly active. The lifting of the quarantine will help the rancher."

FRUIT EARNINGS

The Bastanchury Ranch Company will produce a gross revenue from its orange and lemon crops of between $600,000 and $700,000, and a net return of between $200,000 and $250,000, according to estimates made by Drake, Riley & Thomas, underwriters of the company's first mortgage 6½ per cent gold bonds.

The company has shipped about forty cars of lemons to date, and expects about 125 cars will be shipped in the season. Orange loadings will begin shortly.

NEW COPPER BULLION RATES ARE ORDERED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—New rates on copper bullion from Clarkdale, Ariz., to San Pedro and East San Pedro, Cal., were prescribed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, former rates having been found to be unreasonable. Action was brought by the United Verde Extension Mining Company against the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and other railroads.

MORTGAGE INVESTMENTS

Appraising Values; Many Angles to Watch; Applying the Laws; Reconciling Terms and Clauses

BY EUGENE WEBB, JR.

First mortgages are considered among the highest type of investments known at the present time. When an investor buys a bond he usually tries to get a first mortgage bond and a prior lien secured by certain specific properties which he considers well worth considerably more than the amount of the loan.

The appraisement of property is usually one man's guess at the value of a certain piece of real estate. It requires the use of a specialist who knows something of construction and the cost of replacement; the conditions which made the real estate worth its present value, and whether or not the value is fixed or fictitious and what the property would reasonably be worth in case real estate values should be depressed before the maturity of the mortgage. This appraiser must know which sections of the city are appreciating and which are depreciating in value. He must be in touch with the community, familiar with all the conditions that have arisen for years past, and be able to foresee causes which might bring on a similar condition in the future. This subject can only be learned through actual experience. Appraisers for a mortgage company should not only appraise property from the standpoint of safety, but from the standpoint of the saleability of the mortgage.

APPRAISING VALUES

Some mortgage institutions have their appraisements made by a savings bank appraiser, and such an individual appraises property from the standpoint of conservatism and safety and in accordance with the laws of the State of California governing savings banks. A savings bank appraiser must not only make these appraisements from the standpoint of the savings bank laws, but also from the standpoint of conservative banking and the sale of the mortgages. While savings banks are permitted to loan 60 per cent of a fair valuation of the property under the law, the most conservative mortgage companies only make loans from 30 per cent to 40 per cent of their appraised value, which is their appraiser's idea of what a fair valuation of the property will be under the most trying circumstances and under any conditions, and not on the present sale value of the property.

MANY ANGLES TO WATCH

There are various forms of mortgages used today in Los Angeles, some originated by printing establishments, and others by individual mortgage firms who have eliminated objectionable features and put in other features which would make the mortgage more secure. Among the several forms of mortgages in use now is the deed of trust which is little known to people outside of California. There are certain laws applicable to the loaning of money in this State such as the usury law; commissions which may be charged; the laws under which license should be secured in order to collect a commission; the amount of commission, etc. All of these the individual must be familiar with if he endeavors to successfully loan his own money. By that I mean at the highest rate of interest consistent with safety both legally and financially.

The law provides that if a mortgage is made on property to be constructed, unless the mortgages recorded before any material is is delivered on the premises or before any work has been started, all of the material and labor may become a direct lien ahead of any mortgages that are afterward recorded, provided the liens are filed within a certain time. It is therefore necessary to maintain a careful inspection.

An individual who is not familiar with the laws and practices in use in this State might as well be in a foreign country without a knowledgeof the language, as he may find himself doing business and using misleading certificates, such as policies of title insurance and the regular form of certificate of title in use by most of the title companies, which provide certain things in very large type and provide other things or fail to provide them, and call your attention to this failure to make the provisions in very small type on the last page of the certificate.

TERMS AND CLAUSES

The fact that a custom is in general use does not always make it right, and this applies to insurance. People can form a habit of doing things wrong just as they can of doing things right. In Los Angeles there is an organization of fire underwriters which provides certain rules, certain forms of policies, clauses, etc., which are to be used by all companies affiliated with this organization. Of course it is not possible to make rules and clauses that will cover every condition that will arise, and certainly the proper clauses and the proper methods are not in use to protect the mortgagee.

An individual who attempted to loan his own money on improved real estate must insist on insurance to cover the loan and must have stricken out of the policies certain objectionable clauses if he is to be properly protected. It is easy to lock the stable door after the horse has been stolen and to find too late that the insurance which you thought you had did not exist. The most conservative mortgage companies in Los Angeles provide earthquake insurance on buildings wherever it seems necessary, according to the material used in the building, and some use a special form of mortgagee clause which is not in general use.

When an individual signs a note and mortgage the burden of knowing the amount, the rate and when due is on him and not on the one who furnishes the money. Therefore, it becomes necessary in many cases to send out a notice before the interest payment is due, or before the principal payment is due, notifying the borrower that on a certain date, at a certain place there will be due a certain amount of money.

PROGRESSIVE STEP

One of the most progressive steps being made by the mortgage companies of today is the use of the first coupon mortgage. Coupons are placed on the note the same as a coupon on a bond, so that the holder of the mortgage may cut his coupons just before they come due and deposit them in his bank or send them direct to the mortgage company and the company will remit whether it has collected the interest or not. Each maker of a mortgage through this plan is notified of the exact date that his payments will be due and the exact amount of the payment and is told that he should remit in plenty of time so that the actual money is on hand on the date the interest is due and if a check is going to be sent in payment of the interest on an out-of-town bank it should be sent in time so that collection can be made on the date the interest is due.

If the above considerations are taken into account in mortgage investments they can be made the safest and most profitable investments.

BUTTE MINE STARTS SUIT FOR $500,000

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE]

BOSTON, May 8.—The East Butte Copper Mining Company today entered suit for $500,000 against the Davis-Daly Copper Company, with offices in this city and mines at Butte, Mont., for alleged breach of contract. The East Butte Copper Mining Company claims that in January, 1923, it entered into a contract with the Davis-Daly Company whereby the Davis-Daly concern agreed to sell to the Butte company all copper ore which it might produce for a period of five years and that the Davis-Daly company violated the contract in March, last.

Better Balance Being Achieved in Steel Trades

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLEVELAND (O.), May 8.—"So swift and so extensive has been the recent curtailment of iron and steel production that indications now point to a better balance in the condition," says Iron Trade. "Price variations have narrowed, and in several quarters sentiment is beginning to brighten up after the recent period of distrust. New buying has not improved and remains comparatively light; yet consumption appears to be keeping very comfortable proportions and producers continue to count on strong basic conditions to restore activity in due season.

"Now since the severe depression of 1921 have so many blast furnaces gone out of production in so short a period as in April. In that month the total net loss was thirty-five stacks. Since May 1, the number of furnaces blown out has further increased and other steel works suspensions are about to follow. But iron production in April did not fall as far as the loss of active furnaces indicates, since many of these changes came in the latter part of the month. The April total of pig iron production was 3,226,401 tons, compared with 3,465,000 tons in March. The average daily output fell from 111,787 tons in March to 107,546 tons in April. Furnaces in blast at the end of April totaled 284.

"Apart from 60,000 cars, it is reported the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad may buy soon, the railroad equipment market shows no life. Car orders in April totaled 19,253, bringing awards for the first four months up to 72,955, compared with 76,399 in the corresponding period of last year. Two independent producers, one in Chicago and the other in the East, divided the 80,000 to 100,000 tons of steel for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad cars. The American Steel Foundries took 32,000 cast steel wheels for this order. Late reports of automobile production in Detroit and Michigan territory placed the total around 11,500 cars daily, excluding trucks. European iron and steel markets continue to improve, although prices still are being readjusted to the fluctuations of exchange. Iron and steel production in France in March reached the high point since the war."

The Iron Trade composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products for this week is $41.58, compared with $41.73 last week and $42.01 two weeks ago.

REFINANCE COMPANY IS ORGANIZED

Plan to Restore Ailing Businesses to Health and Commercial Vigor

A form of financing new to the Pacific Coast is promised through the organization of the Refinance Corporation of America, a $100,000 company headed by Michael Tauber, president, and M. J. Stein, secretary-treasurer, with offices in the Merritt Building.

These gentlemen yesterday explained the purpose of their determination to locate in Los Angeles and to make large investments in this field, which appeals to them as having within itself unusual development possibilities.

They would carry the initials "B.D." after their names if degree of "Business Doctor" was recognized, for that is what they really are. Not wreckers, or salvagers, as Mr. Stein was particular to point out, but doctors available for curing sick businesses and restoring them to health and vigor.

The aim of the company is to finance and reorganize commercial institutions financially embarrassed; to act in the capacity of commercial advisers, advancing the necessary assistance required to make cash settlement with creditors, and to place the business on a sound basis without the attendant disadvantages of court and liquidation proceedings.

A special department is organized for effecting cash settlement with creditors of insolvent estates and for conserving the assets and liquidating estates for the benefit of bankers' and creditors' committees.

The president of the company and one of its organizers is a member of the firm of Michael Tauber & Co. of Chicago, where he has been engaged in refinancing and liquidating estates in United States courts, credit men's organizations and creditors' committees for over thirty years.

M. J. Stein, secretary-treasurer and another organizer, is also a former Chicago man; for many years he was the operating head of the Illinois Realization Company, a concern, he says, which has saved many worthy institutions from the bankruptcy courts. Mr. Stein has also recently severed his connection as secretary-treasurer of Philipsborn, Inc., a large mail-order house operating through the Middle West, and will devote his efforts to establishing and building up the Los Angeles business.

The company is said to be backed by ample capital to carry out its commitments, and such additional funds as are required will be available, according to the officers, without a public offering of its securities.

CONDITIONS SUMMARIZED BY REVIEW

Pessimism Has No Real Basis; Investment Market Quiet But Sound

An undue and, in many respects, unreasonable spirit of pessimism pervades the business community of the Pacific Southwest, due to conditions, which, while fairly serious, are nevertheless transitory, is the statement contained in the Monthly Summary of Conditions in the Pacific Southwest, compiled by the research department of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank and the First Securities Company and released for publication today.

Basically, the summary continues, this territory remains sound and the present tendency toward liquidation in certain lines is but a healthy reaction following a period of extraordinary activity. It should but lay the foundation for continuing prosperity. In other words, in spite of the difficulties created by the subnormal precipitation of the prsent year, by the hoof-and-mouth disease, and by reduction in speculative activity, the present period is primarily one of consolidation of gains in strong hands, elimination of pyramiding and preparation for expansion in the coming cycle of economic development within the Pacific Southwest.

The investment market is at present in a period of comparative quiet. While not so active as during the month of March it nevertheless has exhibited sufficient strength to maintain its previous level. This has been evidenced by the manner in which new issues of merit have been received and is attributed to the fact that there has been plenty of idle funds in eastern centers awaiting investment.

Investors in placing their funds, however, appear to be more discriminating, selecting only the most liquid of investments. This apparently accounts for the continued strength throughout the month of the Liberty issues, Treasury obligations and the better trade utilities. Seeming uncertainties of the future course of business make imperative the greatest of precautionary measures. A Presidential election year is always one of hesitancy on the part of business, and this is being reflected in the securities market. A desire to maintain assets in a liquid condition prompts the selection by investors of only those issues which are readily marketable.

In the local market, much the same feeling prevails, the bulk of buying being concentrated on the stronger utility issues and municipals. New issues of unusual merit have been readily marketed. An issue of $1,150,000 The Yuba River Power Company first mortgage 6 per cent bonds was greatly oversubscribed within a few hours in the local market, and an issue of $12,500,000 Pacific Gas and Electric Company first and refunding mortgage 5 1-2 per cent bonds was accorded a national reception that assured its complete success.

NEW LEMON PACKING HOUSE IS PROPOSED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, May 8.—Plans and estimates for a new packing-house to care for the new acreages of lemons in the groves of the southern section of the county will be drawn up at a meeting of Carpinteria growers tomorrow evening. The plant, made necessary by the constantly increasing citrus industry of the valley, will be located near the Carpinteria shipping center, it is planned. Prof. R. E. Milliken of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, will attend the meeting.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Foreign Issues React

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 8.—Bond prices slowly forged ahead in today's quiet trading despite general reaction in the foreign list following the weakness of allied exchanges.

Brisk activity marked dealings in Bolivia 8s, which at one time fell back 2 3-8 points to 88 5-8 and then rallied to 90 3-4. Considerable uncertainty developed, regarding reports of new financing. Speculative buying based on expectations that an attempt would be made to sell $10,000,000 additional bonds at 94, lagged on publication of reports that the government needed only $3,000,000 and might not enter the market here. Strength of Belgian 7 1-2s, which duplicated their 1924 high price of 122, contrasted with weakness of French municipal and other European obligations.

Sinclair Consolidated 7s broke 2 points to the year's lowest level as reports of new financing persisted. Later they recovered part of their loss when it was rumored that a bank credit of $25,000,000 would take care of the company's financing requirements without recourse to a public offering. Speculative railroad mortgages improved in tone, although Seaboard adjustment 5s lost a point on denial by the road's president that payment of accumulated dividends had been considered. Conflicting price movements marked dealings in Wilson & Co. liens, the convertible 7 1-2s advancing 3 points, while the convertible 6s yielded 1 1-2. Virginia Carolina 7s also were weak.

In connection with reports that London bankers were arranging a £30,000,000 loan to Argentina to finance purchases from Great Britain, it was hinted that the government also was seeking a bank credit of less than $10,000,000 here. The United States government is expected to do additional financing early in June, according to local bankers, who look for an offering of short-term notes.

NEW YORK CURB

Oils Ease Lower

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 8.—Strength of high priced industrial specialties and weakness of the oil shares were the outstanding features of today's irregular curb market.

Selling of the oils was traceable to reports of another increase in crude prediction, net losses of 1 to nearly 3 points being recorded by Standard Oils of Ohio, Kentucky and Nebraska, Prairie Oil and Gas and Penn Mex fuel.

National Tea jumped 10 points to 373 on the stockholders' approval of 150 per cent stock dividend. Glen Alden Coal soared more than 5 points to 99½, a record top and then eased to 90. American Power & Light added 6 points to its recent 17-point gain but lost it all before the close. Durant Motors touched another bottom at 16¾. Dubilier Radio lost nearly a point.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

The steady drain on spot holdings of prunes has made rapid inroads or the available supply. The present movement of large-size California prunes is well supported by increased business in medium prunes which are finding a broader outlet through chain stores, particularly in the 40 and 60 sizes. Oregon prunes are reported to be irregular as to price. The demand for raisins is well maintained and there is no accumulation of stock either on the hands of distributors or jobber. Packages keep pace with bulk raisins. A steady call is noted in peaches, especially peeled. Pears are very scarce and high. Apricots continue to have a call, but it is restricted by the high prices. Currants unchanged.

While the canned foods show no important changes, inroads have been made into remaining stocks. Pears cleared sufficiently to give the market a firmness not to be found in any other vegetable. Corn is less active. There is a broadening of the demand for tomatoes, particularly Southern 2s which are held firm at $1.05 Baltimore. String and stringless beans are very firm and scarce. California fruits have been reduced to the point where supplies for the balance of the season must come from stocks which are available in second hands, to a very large extent. The demand has been of greater volume particularly in peaches. Both standards and choice grades are wanted. Apricots are in greater call and prices are firming up. Pears are scarce. Pink salmon continues to move in a way locally, but there is a greater volume of shipments from the Coast. Chinooks of the new pack are selling in a small way. Maine and California sardines show no changes. Tuna is practically cleaned up on white meat.

SUGAR SHADE UP

Raw sugar improved 1-8 cent a pound which was in line with anticipations that the 4-cent level would not prevail for long. Upward of 49,000 bags of Porto Rican raw sugars were taken out of the market including 5000 for the second half of May shipment at 5.78 cents c.i.f. to the National; 37,000 bags for clearance about the 15th inst. at 5.78 cents c.o.f. to the same refiner and another 7000 bags for the middle of May shipment also to the National. Sale of Porto Ricos and a sale of 5000 bags of Cuban raw sugars were put through at 4 cents c.i.f. for May shipment to the American. Then an operator bid the market up by paying 4 1-32 cents c.i.f. for 10,000 bags May shipment Cuban raws.

Notwithstanding that all refiners give a guarantee against decline and can make shipments immediately the trade was not disposed to commit itself beyond its current requirements.

A better feeling was in evidence in raw sugar futures. One transferable notice was issued for May which Cuban interests bought at 4.10 on covering. After the call the market was firmer, renewed covering sending the list up about 7 to 9 points, this being followed by slight reaction.

COFFEE DECLINES

Pronounced declines in the primary markets in Brazil, notably Santos which was 775 to 1125 reis net lower while Rio had shown a recession of 200 to 325 reis with an advance of 1-32 in exchange to 6 9-32 pence and with the dollar up 20 reis, brought an opening break of 18 to 20 points in the coffee futures. Selling appeared to be quite general. Finals were 14 to 19 points net lower.

Evidence of continued necessity on the part of consumers to replace owing to their adherence to hand-to-mouth buying policies over a long period, is not wanting in the tea market. The urge to buy is not as pronounced as it might be but this is a condition which is confidently expected will be rectified by the definite setting in of seasonable weather.

The market for beans has not changed materially. Receipts from the Western States have been moderate as there has been no incentive for shippers to use this market as an outlet. Pea beans are in free offering at quotations. Marrows are fully sustained. White kidneys are weak. Reds are quiet. Lima beans less active.

PRODUCE MARKET

Butter is steady to firm on extra fresh creamery at a ruling price of 38c. Offerings were not large and buyers took hold so freely that easy clearances were effected.

Eggs were quiet but steady on desirable offerings of regular and storage packings at unchanged prices.

Local oil men today expressed the view that the reduction in the price of gasoline in South Dakota was purely a local proposition resulting from the attempt by the State to force prices to low levels. It is not, they said, any indication of the general trend which, to the contrary is firmer, if anything. The local market is just marking time for improved weather. Reports from midcontinent indicate gasoline demand is improving.

METAL MARKET

It is reported that sales of electrolytic have been made at 13 1-4c. delivered for several days past. Some transactions were also concluded at 13 3-8c. So this is the range of the domestic market. London cables a decline of 5s for the list with standard spot closing at £62 17s 6d; futures £62 15s; electrolytic spot £68 15s and futures £69 5s.

While the leading interest in lead is quoting 7 1-2 cents New York the independents are willing to sell at 7.40 cents New York, and 7.10 cents, St. Louis. London cables spot as declining 7s, 6d, to £27, 15s, and futures 5s to £26, 15s.

Renewed weakness in the zinc market caused this metal to drop 5 points today to 5 3-4 cents, St. Louis. Reports that some of the Joplin mines will close down are current. London spot declined 7s, 6d to £29, 15s, and futures 5s to £30.

Tin continued to decline today and losses here ranged from 3-8 cent to 1 cent, while in London the list was off about £3, 10s. Spot straits here closed at 46 1-2 cents; May 46 cents; June 45 3-4 cents; July and August, 45 1-4 cents, and September 45 1-8 cents. London cables both positions of standard as declining £3, 10s, to £224, while straits dropped £3, 7s, 6d to £226. Straits in Singapore closed at £231 c.i.f. London.

The bond market was quiet. Some prices receded from the previous day's closing levels, while others showed slight gains. Changes were not very large. Irregularity was noticeable in speculative issues. The Wilson bonds continued their rally, but the Virginia Chemical obligations were pressed further. Speculative rails held at about the previous closing levels. Liberties sagged off although the losses were not large. The foreign group was mixed with Bolivia 8s, which have been in demand lately, falling below 90. This country will do some new financing very soon but the issue is not expected to total more than $2,000,000. Jugo-Slav 8s improved their position. High grade corporation issues were slow and unchanged.

PLAN TO STANDARDIZE STORAGE TANKS GAINS

MIDWEST MANUFACTURERS TO MEET IN CHICAGO FOR REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Midwest manufacturers of hot water storage tanks, cold water storage tanks, hydro-pneumatic tanks, gasoline and oil storage tanks have been asked to attend a meeting next Tuesday in the Drake Hotel, Chicago, to review tentative recommendations for reduction in the present variety of sizes and dimensions of these products, it was announced by the Division of Simplified Practice, Department of Commerce.

This gathering is a sequel to a meeting of Eastern tank manufacturers in Washington in March, when it was decided to eliminate a large number of excess varieties and establish sizes and working pressures which should become standard practice. The Midwest manufacturers, from Pittsburg to Denver, will be asked to review and act on the recommendations of the eastern group.

FRUIT GROWERS LOSE OLD RAIL FREIGHT SUIT

FRESNO, May 8.—Judgment by default was entered yesterday by Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe for James C. Davis, director-general of railroads, against Hagopian and Setrakian, operating under the name of the California Fruit Growers, in the sum of $1500 for freight charges on four cars of fresh grapes from Escondido, Cal., to Pittsburg, Pa.

The suit, originally brought in the name of Walker D. Hines as director-general, has been pending since 1919.

REPORTS SLAUGHTER OF MANY RATTLERS

HANFORD, May 8.—Sixteen rattlesnakes this season is the killing record of P. A. Cox, range rider for enforcement of the cattle quarantine, who rides the line between San Luis Obispo and Kings counties. He has just presented to Dr. Frank Griffith, Kings county live-stock inspector, thirteen rattles taken from his last rattlesnake victim.

KLAN TO HAVE DAILY

SAGINAW (Mich.) May 8.—A new daily for Saginaw, booked by the Ku Klux Klan, is promised within the next few weeks by the Saginaw Valley Publishing Company, which has been incorporated with a capitalization of $200,000. The Saginaw Star, established about a year ago, will be taken over, it has been announced by officers of the company.

HEAVY SNOW IN MAINE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AROOSTOOK COUNTY (Me.) May 8.—The fish and game warden in the Eagle Lake, Aroostook County section reports five feet of snow on the hardwood ridges. He says that at present it looks as though he would be traveling on snowshoes during the entire month of May.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Another spurt in Los Angeles Investment yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange added a net gain of 10 cents on the price of the stock. Starting at 3.67, the price fell to 3.62 and immediately felt the influence of strong buying at that point. The rise to 3.78, the high for the movement, was rapid, and the closing price was only one cent under 3.77.

Oils were afflicted with apathy and sales were few. United States Royalties slipped off 1-2 cent to 18 and Julian preferred struck a snag, opening weak at 23 1-2. Buying support moved the price up to close of 25, off 1 point from the previous day. Shell Union lost 1-8 at 17 1-8 and Globe Petroleum sold at 5 cents.

Transactions in Gold Dust were at 1 1-2 cents. Richmond Consolidated was steady at 16 1-2 at the finish, while United American sold at 6 and United Eastern at 61 cents.

Following are the closing quotations and sales:

BY ROBERT J. PRITCHARD

After drilling twenty feet from the point where its first oil sand was found, the Union Oil Company's Rosecrans No. 1 has passed through 60 feet of the oil sand, and is drilling in formation which shows many signs of oil, according to official reports. Cores taken at 3946 feet are declared to indicate a total absence of the oil-bearing sand and shale which the Union has been trying to tap for the past nine months.

The Rosecrans No. 1 found its first oil showings at 3926 feet, and immediately set eight-inch casing. A series of attempts to get a shut-off at this depth failed, and the well was drilled to 3936 feet, and a new string of six-inch casing was landed, and cemented. Again the attempt to solve the water trouble failed after a total of nine cement jobs, and the operating department abandoned the idea of shutting off from that depth, and began drilling to find a better place to land casing. Now at 3946, only four feet from the top of the oil sand, the formation is reported to have pinched out.

Drilling is proceeding, and it is believed likely that the Union Oil Company will go to the deep sand discovered in the Athens No. 1, and is the fourth luck at putting the Rosecrans No. 1 on production from the deep sand.

Plans are being constructed at Athens as speedily as possible. The well is officially said to be flowing over 1000 barrels per day through a seven-fifteenths-inch bean, and has filled one sump, and is filling a second. The product is of 38.7 deg. gravity and a considerable proportion of the flow is being lost by evaporation through lack of inclosed storage.

Other Well Wet

The General Petroleum Corporation's White No. 1 in the Dominguez section of the Dominguez field swabbed wet in the water sand, according to field reports. Operators are uncertain whether the water is coming in around the shoe of the well below, and are now trying to shut it off from below the shoe to determine this question.

The Austin well was reported as having lulled yesterday, preparatory to cementing today. It is said the well will be cemented near the 4000-foot point.

In Wat Soon

The Rossi wildcat well of the Santiago Oil Company in the Banning district will be drilled out to the water shut-off about Sunday or Monday, it was said by officials yesterday. The well is said to have good oil sand showings, but several attempts to cement off the water have failed. The present job is the seventh. Gaffridge has three other wells drilling in this district.

In Paw Wells

The Torrance field saw five new wells brought in yesterday, the latest production for the five about 3700 barrels. The Superior Oil Company completed No. 23 and Torrance No. 28, these wells being located in the eastern section of the field. Each well flowed about 400 barrels per day. No. 23 from 3833 feet, and No. 28 from 3838 feet.

The Standard Oil Company is in two wells. Interstate No. 1 came in on the pump, producing about 250 barrels per day from a depth of 3846 feet. Marble No. 1 was brought in from 3840 feet, flowing about 250 barrels.

Long Pipe Line

A six-inch pipe line, approximately 3000 feet in length, is being laid by the Union Oil Company from Athens to take care of the production from Athens No. 1 and the flowing well of the new Rosecrans No. 1.

The pipe line will run from the tanks of the well at 126th and Compton to Delphi Siding on the half a mile south. At this point it is planned to load the oil into cars. The work will be done by the Pacific Electric Railway.

The line in operation is only a temporary one, and will be used until the final European price having been in the neighborhood of 6.16 cents. A variety of causes are apparent to be assigned in a market so singularly placed as that for the franc now is, and today for the new labor deadlock in the Ruhr, threatening Germany's contracted

PANKHURST IN SERMON FOR PEACE

Allegiance to Christ is Only Safeguard, Asserts Former Suffragette

Miss Christabel Pankhurst, formerly famous as a suffragette in England, spoke on "The Peace Problem" last night at the Bible Institute. She spoke in part as follows:

"There is not a nation in Christendom that really wants war. I am sure America doesn't want war, nor Great Britain, nor France—not even the Turks (if they can get what they want without it!) And Kemal Pasha got away with a great many spoils at Lausanne without even striking a blow.

"Some nations are more peaceable in their disposition than others. Some people are saying that these should disarm, but what would happen in three weeks' time if they did? I wonder how long the American flag would fly?

"Some persons are looking to the church to do what the State has failed to do, but I do not see how the church can accomplish it. Supposing the church passed resolutions that there must be no more war—would the non-Christian nations pay any attention to the pronouncement of the church?

"It would be well if all public leaders would betake themselves to the Bible for guidance in these perplexing days. Without it they are blind leaders of the blind. The Bible tells us of one who will claim world supremacy. It gives us certain details about him so that when he appears no one will be able to mistake him for anyone but who he is, the anti-Christ, who will out-Napoleon Napoleon and out-Kaiser the Kaiser, but who will have the same ambition which they had—world supremacy or downfall!

"Nothing can avert the last great battle of Armageddon unless there should be a universal allegiance to Jesus Christ. Then the calamity would be averted, as the prophesied judgment on Nineveh was averted because of their repentance at the preaching of Jonah."

PASADENA PUTS LID ON FIREWORKS' FUN

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, May 8.—Small boys of Pasadena must go "south of Columbia street" to celebrate the United States' 148th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, it was disclosed today. Fireworks in Pasadena have been banned by the local Board of Directors, while just a few days ago the South Pasadena directors took off the fireworks ban.

FINDS CASH IN BOXCAR

SIDNEY (Mont.) May 8.—A carpenter removing boards from a consignment of locomotive parts shipped here from St. Paul found $7500 in greenbacks. The money is thought to have been hidden in the car by bank robbers who were unable to recover it before the shipment was made.

NEW LEADER OF FLEET FLAGSHIP

Capt. Hasbrouck to Take California Command

Present Chief Will Attend Naval War College

Important Transfers to be Made in June

Capt. Raymond D. Hasbrouck has been named by the Navy Department to command the U.S.S. California, flagship of the United States battle fleet. The appointment is one of a large number of important battle fleet transfers which will take place immediately after June 11.

Capt. Hasbrouck, now naval attache to the American Embassy at Rome, succeeds Capt. Harley H. Christy, who will go to the Naval War College at Newport, R. I., as a student. Capt. Kenneth C. Castleman will succeed Capt Hasbrouck at Rome.

Capt. John Fore Hines, commanding the U.S.S. Pennsylvania, will be relieved by Capt. Harris Laning, now on the instruction staff of the Naval War College. Capt. Hines will go to the War College as a student. Capt. Yates Stirling, Jr., commander of the U.S.S. New Mexico, will trade posts with Capt. Frank Brumby, captain of the Washington (D. C.) Navy Yard.

Seven of the ten battleships based at Los Angeles Harbor also will receive new executive officers. These changes will be as follows:

Commander R. T. Menner of the U.S.S. California, relieved by Commander M. S. Davis, Commander Menner to go to the U.S.S. Prometheus as relief for Capt. Hugo W. Osterhaus; Commander Frederic V. McNair, Jr., of the U.S.S. New Mexico, relieved by Commander William S. McClintic; Commander S. C. Rowan of the U.S.S. Arizona, relieved by Commander R. B. Coffey; Commander H. A. Baldridge of the U.S.S. Tennessee, relieved by Commander J. V. Babcock; Commander Baldridge relieving Capt. Benyaurd B. Wygant in command of the U.S.S. Melville. Commander F. C. Martin of the U.S.S. Mississippi and Commander J. D. Martin, commanding the U.S.S. Neches, will exchange duty; Commander C. E. Smith of the U.S.S. Pennsylvania, will be relieved by Commander Charles S. Kerrick, Commander Smith relieving Commander O. C. Dowling in command of the U.S.S. Kanawha. Commander Abram Claude of the U.S.S. Nevada, will be relieved by Commander E. S. Root, Commander Claude relieving Commander W. S. Anderson as Commander of Destroyer Division No. 34.

Approximately 450 officers of the various forces of the Battle Fleet will change posts after the firing of force practice June 11, the most comprehensive shakeup in commands since the fleet came to the Pacific.

DATES CHANGED FOR ENGINEERS' MEETING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PASADENA, May 8.—Announcement was made today that the time for holding the fifty-fourth annual convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers in Pasadena has been slightly changed, the dates now being June 18 to 21, inclusive. T. D. Allin of Pasadena, chairman of the general committee on arrangements for the Los Angeles section today announced his committees, and vice-chairman S. B. Morris has just returned from San Francisco where he went to consult President O. E. Grunsky with regard to the program. It is expected that about 1000 engineers will attend the gathering.

SAVORY RECIPES FOR RICE GIVEN

"Times" Washington Bureau Has Free Booklet for Distribution

In the South, where rice is eaten as an all-the-year-round and every-day-in-the-year dish, the dinner guest is served white, tender, flaky rice and rich chicken or ham gravy with his meat.

There are many other savory Southern rice dishes that every cook should know how to prepare. These are included among the ninety recipes contained in the rice booklet The Times Washington Information Bureau has for distribution.

To obtain a copy, write name and address clearly on the coupon, inclosing 2 cents in stamps for return postage, and send to Los Angeles Times Information Bureau, Washington, D. C. To avoid wrong delivery at Washington, use full address as given. Do not send to The Times' Los Angeles office.

'BANDANA' ROBBERS ARE HELD

Two Men Arrested Near Whittier Confess Crimes; Plunder Recovered

The "bandanna handkerchief" bandits, responsible for more than twenty-five hold-ups and robberies in and about Los Angeles in the past few months, have been rounded up, Deputy Sheriff Bell announced yesterday, as a result of the arrest of Elmer Theaker and Archie Burgess.

The two bandit suspects were arrested late yesterday afternoon about three miles outside of Whittier by Deputy Sheriffs Peoples, Fitzgerald and White. They have already confessed to four robberies, Deputy Bell stated, and he is confident that they will be shown to have participated in at least a score of others.

In their possession, Bell stated, were found a large number of pocketbooks, a considerable quantity of jewelry and other articles taken in various hold-ups.

At the present time, he said, they are being held on a charge of holding up and robbing Allan Woodruff of $12 on the La Mirada Road near Whittier recently.

The suspects, it was stated by Bell, have become known to authorities as the "bandanna handkerchief" bandits, because of their unfailing custom of coming on their victims while wearing bandanna handkerchief masks over their faces.

DEFENDANT ADMITS HAVING TWO WIVES

Aaron T. Woodruff admitted yesterday in Judge Reeve's court that he had married Gladys M. Pauls of Long Beach on February 13 last, while still the legal husband of Jeanne Provost. In pleading guilty the defendant declared he had obtained a divorce from his first wife, but admitted that a year had not elapsed and the decree made final. The defendant applied for probation, hearing on which was set for the 27th inst. He was sent to the County Jail pending hearing on the application.

OAKLAND WIFE SEEKS FORMER LAW STUDENT

A letter requesting aid in locating her husband, Joseph L. Altman, a former law student at the University of California, was received by The Times yesterday from Mrs. Dorothy Altman of 516 Eighteenth street, Oakland, Cal. Mrs. Altman states in her letter that her husband left home several months ago for Los Angeles. She has not heard from him since, she says, though a baby has been born in the meantime.

HAMMER YEGGS ROB ANOTHER STORE SAFE

Yeggs broke into the Bruce & London auto accessories store at 320 West Sixteenth street early yesterday morning and rifled the office safe of $60 and $340 in checks. The safe was opened, according to a report to the University police, with a chisel and sledge hammer. No finger prints were found, indicating that the yeggs used gloves in their operations.

RECALL GIRL THIEF AT SAN LUIS OBISPO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, May 8.—Edith Walling, Bakersfield "girl bandit" and confessed bank robber, was born in San Luis Obispo and for years lived here and at Avila, San Luis Obispo residents who have read in the newspaper remember of her exploits. A member of the Walling Orchestra, directed by her father, the girl is recalled by local people as a musician of ability. She left here to go on the vaudeville circuit.

Junior Radical Body Sponsors Are Arraigned

Pete Carcich, Ursel Ulbery and Ruby Mylos, arrested Tuesday in the harbor district in connection with the asserted activities of a "junior I.W.W. organization," were arraigned yesterday before Superior Judge Archbald on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minor children. Their bail was set at $1000 each and a preliminary hearing fixed for the 20th inst.

The complaints accused the trio of allowing several children to become members of the "junior wobblies," and permitting them to circulate I.W.W. literature. The complaint specifically stated that the defendants encouraged the children to "grow up to lead idle, dissolute and immoral lives."

HOLLYWOOD HOSPITAL TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

The new Hollywood Hospital at 1322 North Vermont avenue, Hollywood, built and furnished at a cost of $750,000 by Dr. O. E. Valmer, will be opened for public inspection next Wednesday evening. Patients will be received at the hospital the following day, according to Dr. T. R. Ponton, superintendent. The hospital is a 150-bed institution and one of the most up-to-date in the country.

WOE TO AGENTS IN REDLANDS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, May 8.—Walter Thomas, Chief of Police here, is just about ready to order the arrest of every solicitor that sticks his or her head into the city.

For there has been an epidemic of sneak thievery in Redlands and in every instance a solicitor of some kind has called at the place just a day or so before. And the sneak thieves are entering all the houses with pass keys.

WARD PLAN IS HELD PASSED

City Attorney Says Vote on Representation Legal

Will Ask Supreme Court to Double Ballot Tangle

Present Contradiction Came Up Despite Officials

District representation carried at last Tuesday's special election—on City Attorney Stephens will hold in a forthcoming legal opinion.

He himself does not regard his opinion as final and will institute proceedings to test it in the courts at the earliest possible moment.

"Nothing less than the dictum of the State Supreme Court," he said yesterday, "can be accepted as settling a question of such importance. We can hope for an interpretation of the State constitution by the court of last resort in from ninety to 120 days—certainly before the new charter goes into effect."

As soon as the City Council convenes all nine members, elected at large. The new charter adopted Tuesday provides for a Council of nine, also elected at-large. The vote stood: Yes, 126,447; No, 19,-

Proposition 2 on the ballot, however, asked, "Shall the proposed alternative, providing for a Council of fifteen members and for the division of the city into fifteen districts, and for the election of members of the Council from said districts, be adopted?" A majority of voters said yes. The vote in favor of district representation number 88,228; the vote on election at large number 31,941.

DILEMMA ARISES

Thus there has come before the City Attorney a contradiction which he says was unavoidable, and which only the courts can settle. A charter was adopted which provides for representation at large. On the other hand, an overwhelming majority of those voters who expressed themselves specifically on the subject of representation declared that it should be by districts.

The dilemma in which we find ourselves," said City Attorney Stephens, "was foreseen a year ago. It could not be avoided. It arises in that article of the State Constitution which prescribes how charter amendments are to be submitted to the people. It has long have known that this section was hopelessly ambiguous. The only binding interpretation of it that is possible, because every charter submitted under it has been voted at the polls, and so the question has remained moot. Here is the case, No. 8, under Article XI:

"In submitting any such charter amendment, separate propositions, whether alternative or conditional, or one included within the other, may be submitted at the election to be voted on by the electors separately, and, as between those so related, if more than two receive a majority of the votes cast upon the propositions receiving the largest number of votes shall be taken as to all matters in conflict."

SOLUTION SOUGHT

The man who wrote that ought to be committed to an insane asylum. I got after he wrote that there was no question of his demented condition when he wrote it, on account of mental incompetency. However, there it is in the Constitution, and the list of names on the ballot was certified by the Board of Freeholders to the Constitution directs. There is nothing this office can do but to interpret the conflicting provisions of the Constitution as they appear to me.

WHEN IS A WIFE NOT A WIFE?

When Her Half-Sister Was the One Her "Husband" Married; Justice Ballard Given Solution to Marital Enigma; Accusation of Bigamy Against "Wife" Dismissed

John Folger and his wife were married eleven years and had four children, but did not become really well acquainted, it developed yesterday in Justice Ballard's court, when Mrs. Emma Swenson was freed of a bigamy charge. They were such strangers, Fogler said, that he could not be positive whether the woman in court had ever been Mrs. Folger.

Mrs. Swenson said she hadn't ever been married to Folger, had never borne him four nor indeed any children and consequently was not a bigamist in marrying S. P. Swenson.

Folger's divorce suit brought her arrest. They married in Oklahoma, he asserted in this suit, February 16, 1910, and separated three years ago when he came to Southern California. During the progress of this suit it developed that the woman Folger thought was his wife was in this city and the District Attorney filed a charge against her.

After Folger had testified yesterday, Mrs. Swenson took the stand and produced army discharges showing she had been in war service in France during two of the years Folger said they lived together in Oklahoma. She insisted it was a case of mistaken identity.

Folger was recalled.

"Is this your wife?" he was asked.

"I think it is, but I can't be sure," he replied.

Then Mrs. Swenson offered a solution of the mystery.

"I have a half-sister named Evelyn who looks so much like me it is hard to tell us apart," she said. "Maybe she was married to Folger."

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Lucas waved his arms in despair and Justice Ballard cut the hearing short by dismissing the case.

SEND YOUR LAUGH AND WIN PRIZE

Best Jokes With Names of Writers Will be Shown in "Times" Film Feature

Mistress: So you've been married three times?

Charwoman: Yus, ma'am; and if it pleases 'eaven to take this one, I know where I can lay me 'ands on a fourth.

How was that one? Can you create one just as funny, or funnier? If so, sharpen your pencil and wits, figure out a good joke and forward it to the local laugh editor of The Times. You may win a cash prize and, in addition, have the fun of seeing your name and address, together with your creation, flashed on the screen of theaters throughout Southern California.

The first "Local Laugh" reel, new humorous film sponsored by The Times, will be released Saturday, the 17th inst., at Loew's State Theater, Los Angeles. Each film will show the fifteen best jokes, witticism and funny sayings received by The Times from its readers.

Each week prizes will be given as follows: $5, $3, $2, and twelve of $1 each.

The contest is open to all. Send in as many jokes as you wish. Make them snappy, brief and funny—not more than thirty words. See blank printed elsewhere in this issue of The Times.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR H. S. SIMPSON

Funeral services for Howard S. Simpson, treasurer of the J. Harvey McCarthy Company, will be conducted today at 2 p.m. from the Amanda Chapel, Carthay Center. Los Angeles Commandery, Knights Templar, will have charge. Mr. Simpson, who lived at 627 North Lucerne street, died Wednesday following a long illness. He was 43 years of age and a native of Chicago. Besides his widow, Mrs. Ethel Meckes Simpson, he leaves a young son Ned and a daughter Marjorie Lois.

GIRL DIES OF POISON BY ERROR

University Senior Takes Lysol in Mistake for Cough Medicine

Janice Smurr, 22-year-old daughter of C. R. Smurr, industrial agent for the Southern Pacific, died yesterday of lysol poisoning in a police ambulance racing to the Receiving Hospital. She drank the poison by mistake.

Miss Smurr was a senior at the University of Southern California and widely known in college and social circles. She returned from the University to her home at 1246 Fifth avenue with a sore throat and a cold yesterday afternoon.

A few minutes later she stepped into the bathroom of the house to get some cough medicine. By mistake she obtained a bottle of lysol and drank some of the contents. The father told Detective Lieutenant Stephens that the girl at once took an antidote and then called him. He at once communicated with the Receiving Hospital.

Bond Forfeited With M'Cartney Still at Large

While deputy sheriffs are endeavoring to find Grant McCartney, real estate operator, on various charges, Judge Crail yesterday declared forfeited his bonds of $10,000, given to obtain his release on ten counts of obtaining money under false pretenses. In the indictment against him, McCartney is accused of having represented to various persons that he had a large sugar refining company in operation in Panama, and of obtaining about $120,000 from them.

While awaiting hearing on these charges McCartney also was accused of assault with a deadly weapon and assault by means of force to do bodily harm to his wife, Mrs. Paule McCartney. A divorce suit between the McCartneys is pending.

NOTED PAINTING IS COMING HERE

Historic Canvas Purchased by H. E. Huntington

Depicts Benjamin Franklin Before Privy Council

Coveted Art Work to Hang in Collector's Library

Henry E. Huntington, it was learned yesterday, has returned to Los Angeles after making an important addition to his art treasures, one that is arousing the envy of collectors in all parts of the country, particularly in Philadelphia.

At New York a week ago Mr. Huntington bought Christian Schuessele's famous painting, "Benjamin Franklin Before the Privy Council, Whitehall Chapel, London, January 29, 1778." The canvas will arrive in a few days at Mr. Huntington's home, San Marino, where his art gallery and library are located.

The painting is an important piece of Americana and is an artistic addition to the local collector's books and manuscripts as well as paintings. In fact, Mr. Huntington said yesterday he intended to hang the painting in the library because of its historic interest and its relation to British-American literature of the pre-Revolutionary period. Mr. Huntington's library is noted for its Americana.

EAST BEMOANS LOSS

The retired railroad builder and patron of art bought the painting for $7900, a bargain, for the dealers had expected to get at least $20,000 for it. It was sold with twenty-three other paintings, a part of the collection of the late Benno Loewy, the sale being at the famous Anderson Galleries, New York. If there had been any spirited bidding Mr. Huntington would have been compelled to pay a much higher figure and since he much coveted the piece he is very pleased with the purchase.

The purchase is another evidence of the collecting skill of the man who not many months ago carried off Gainsborough's "Blue Boy" from London. The Franklin piece formerly was in the collection of Joseph Harrison, Jr., of Philadelphia. Art critics of the Quaker City now are bemoaning its loss. It transpires that some time before it was placed on sale at New York several Philadelphia men of wealth were asked to buy it so that it might not leave Franklin's city, but there was no result of the movement.

AUTHENTIC ORIGINAL

Schuessele was an Alsatian painter of the mid-nineteenth century.

The canvas is an unusually large one—five by seven feet. There is a great deal of detail. It shows Franklin standing before Lord Gower, president of the Council, on the occasion when the solicitor-general, Wedderburn, railed against the American like a police magistrate, and the faces of several of those in the group display a scornful laughter while Franklin stands in calm dignity.

The group shows such notables as Edmund Burke, Dr. Priestly, Jeremy Bentham, Lord Dartmouth, the Duchess of Rodney and John Lee; in all, sixty persons. The artist spent much time in research and the likenesses are said to be excellent, while the artistic result is masterly. The picture was eight years in the making. A key to the individuals in the picture accompanies the canvas. There are several copies of this painting but the one now in Mr. Huntington's possession is known to be the original.

IMAGINARY PROPERTY

Wife Says J. A. Nelson Had None of Boasted Possessions

Before marriage John Alfred Nelson was a retired naval officer, manager for a large shipping firm and owner of two automobiles and a fine home in San Francisco, said Mrs. Beatrice Nelson in her suit for annulment of marriage filed yesterday.

After marriage, she said, she discovered all his possessions were imaginary. Nelson borrowed all her savings and an automobile tire from her brother, she said. Then, she said, on March 19, last, a little more than a month after they were married, he departed.

HYPNOTIC LURE IS CHARGED

Mrs. Zeigler Asserts She Was Taken from Husband by Weird Power of Clarke; Oath Is Told

Testimony that she had been hypnotized into leaving her husband and had been forced to sign an oath "to love honor and obey and submit in all matters" to John Burton Clarke, head of the defunct "Live Forever Folks," was given by Mrs. Eugenia L. Zeigler yesterday in Judge Clock's court. Mrs. Zeigler seeks to cancel a note for $6800 she said she gave to Clarke.

Mrs. Zeigler asserted she was mentally and physically ill and sought to be cured by Clarke. She said he exerted a hypnotic influence on her and caused her to leave her husband and go to live with him.

Shortly after she took up her residence with Clarke, Mrs. Zeigler said, he had her sign an oath agreeing to submit to him in all things.

OATH IS CITED

The asserted oath, as introduced into the evidence yesterday, follows:

"Having solemnly sworn to do just what you say for a period of eighteen months and finding myself breaking this oath continually I wish to use every means possible, even physical violence, to make me keep my oath.

"I have tried hard to keep my word and oath but somehow my mind is dull and seems to forget and I need some treatment to keep my mind attentive. I am being guided by your intelligence from now on and I hereby solemnly swear to keep all my promises to you and to do just what you say for a period of eighteen months from date."

The document was signed by Mrs. Ziegler and was dated May 6, 1923.

Mrs. Zeigler declares the note, which was secured by a mortgage on a house in South Pasadena, is not valid because there was no consideration.

She said Clarke persuaded her to give him the note after he had obtained $3800 she got in a prop-

REPAIR SHIP ASSIGNED TO FLEET HERE

Medusa, Finest Floating Machine Shop, to Come to Local Navy Base

Assignment of the new fleet repair ship Medusa, said to be the finest floating machine shop in the world, to the United States battle fleet stationed at Los Angeles Harbor, has been announced by the Navy Department. The Medusa, now nearing completion at the Puget Sound navy yard at a cost of $3,250,000, will replace the present fleet repair ship Prometheus, to be decommissioned.

She will be in command of Commander Robert T. Menner, now executive officer of the U. S. S. California, who next month will temporarily assume command of the Prometheus.

Machinists' equipment valued at more than $2,000,000 and enabling her crew of trained craftsmen to repair on the high seas any part of a fighting ship has been installed aboard the Medusa.

The Medusa has a length of 484 feet, a displacement of 16,000 tons and has a loaded cruising speed of sixteen knots. She is the first repair ship afloat to be equipped with geared turbines, these developing 7000 horsepower to her single screw. She carries a cre wof 324 officers and men and for armament has four 5-inch rifles, two 3-inch antiaircraft guns and two six-pounders.

Commander Ellis Lande, now on duty at the Puget Sound navy yard, has been assigned as executive officer of the Medusa.

PRESS ROOM WILL PUT UP STRUCTURE

Eighth and Crocker Site is Purchased; Six-Story Building Planned

A six-story loft structure to be occupied by the Trade Press Room, Inc., now located at 317 Central avenue, is planned for the northwest corner of Eighth and Crocker streets, according to William Wolfer, who purchased the property yesterday for an approximate consideration of $200,000 from the Eberle estate.

The lot, which is one of the largest unimproved properties in the downtown district, has a frontage of 122 feet on Eighth street and 296 feet on Crocker street. The loft structure will occupy only a portion of the entire property, according to present plans, as a lease for another building on the remainder of the corner now is in negotiation.

Francis D. Boyer of Burton & Co. represented Mr. Wolfer in the purchase proceedings and H. S. Beeks of the W. Ross Campbell Company represented the Eberle estate. Mr. Wolfer is general manager of the Trade Press Room, Inc.

TWO TRIBES OF INDIANS ARE LINKED

Mission Man and Papago Girl Married; Ceremony is Followed by Program

Representatives of two famous Southwestern Indian tribes were united yesterday when Thomas Largo, a Mission Indian, married Miss Ella Ponjo of Sells, Ariz., a member of the Uapago nation.

The ceremony was solemnized before more than 100 Indians, all graduates of government schools, at the home of Mrs. Rilla M. De Porte, 143 North Benton Way. Rev. M. Howard Fagan, pastor of Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church, officiated.

Both of the young people are members of the Returned Students' Club, an organization of Indian school graduates who meet regularly in the Benton Way home. Mrs. De Porte is a United States Outing and Field Matron, looking after the fortunes of the many young Indians earning a living in this vicinity.

Following the wedding the members of the club gave a program, in which Chief Yowlache, a noted Indian singer, and William De Porte, Indian athlete, took part.

GRAND ORATORY FINALS TONIGHT

Southland Contest Climax Eagerly Awaited

Five Boys and One Girl Will Battle for Prizes

Are Pick of 15,000 Starting in Eliminations

After a long series of elimination tests in which the original number of contestants in the National Oratorical Contest in Southern California has been reduced from 15,000 to six the stage is set for The Times Grand Final, the climax of the series, which will take place at the Los Angeles High School Auditorium at 7:30 o'clock this evening and at which the champion orator of the high schools in this territory will be determined.

Five boys and one girl will battle for oratorical supremacy in this final test and to the winner will go the honor of representing Southern California at the national semifinals to take place in Los Angeles the 16th inst., in which the ability of the local orator will be pitted against that of representatives from all parts of the Pacific Coast.

The series of elimination contests closing with The Times Grand Final tonight has been in progress in the thirteen southern counties of California for the last three months. It began with the elimination tests conducted by each of the 125 schools with entrants in the contest. These were followed by thirty-seven district eliminations, in which the champions of each of the schools in a given area competed for honors. Then came six group contests, where the winners in the district contests met to decide on representatives for the Grand Final, each of the groups being represented by one orator at this final match. The total number of elimination contests prior to the Grand Final was 168.

ELABORATE PLANS

In view of the widespread interest the National Oratorical Contest has attracted in Southern California not only in the schools but also on the part of the general public the Grand Final promises to be an event that will go down as an outstanding feature in local school history. Elaborate preparations have been made to conduct it in a style appropriate to its importance.

Gov. Richardson will preside at the meeting, which will be attended also by county and city officials and other persons of prominence as guests of honor. Seats will be reserved for large delegations from the schools, the representatives of which appear among the orators participating.

The chief interest in the program centers in the six contestants who have demonstrated their superior oratorical ability in competition with some 15,000 of their fellows and have been awarded the high honor of representing their respective institutions in this final test.

LIST OF ORATORS

The names of the contestants, the schools they represent, the subject of each and the order in which they will speak follow:

Malcom Archbald, son of Judge Archbald, representing South Pasadena High School; subject, "Washington and the Constitution."

HARBOR BONDS ARE VOTED

Long Beach Carries $5,000,000 Improvement Issue by Huge Margin; Great Expansion to Ensue

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 8.—With all fifty-six precincts heard from, the $5,000,000 harbor improvement bond issue carried here tonight by more than 18 to 1. The total for the fifty-six precincts showed the following vote for the bonds: For, 23,825; against, 1286.

In precinct No. 2, out of a total of 918 votes there were 899 for the proposition and only 13 against it. This, however, was an extreme majority.

Mayor Buffum declared last night that the result of the election was far better than he dared hope for. "It is a splendid demonstration of the people's faith in Long Beach and its future," he said.

City Clerk Waughop said that the tremendous vote for the bonds can be construed as a vote of confidence in the administration of the city's affairs by City Manager Windham and proof of the fact that Long Beach is forging ahead.

In less than twelve months the voters of this city have voted in favor of bond issues aggregating $8,900,000.

From the proceeds of the bonds voted today, $2,000,000 is to be expended in extending the breakwater to the Long Beach side of the harbor. This amount will be in addition to any funds the United States government decides to spend in assisting in extending the breakwater.

The remaining $3,000,000 is to be spent in dredging channels in the Long Beach Harbor, dredging and widening the turning basin, dredging and widening what is known as the connecting channel—an inland channel extending from Long Beach to San Pedro, the erection of docks and warehouses, the establishment of steamship terminals and the reclamation of thousands of acres of land in the harbor.

The passage of the bonds means that work will begin at once on the dredging projects as contracts have already been awarded to various dredging companies for this work.

With the carrying out of this harbor improvement program, the

Federal Action Likely; Brainard Capture Is Held Imminent; Girls Give New Details

A Federal grand jury investigation into the asserted escapades of A. Brainard, former city building inspector, appeared likely tonight as asserted details of a trip north taken by a 19-year-old girl were disclosed to Deputy Sheriffs Weir and Stensland.

The girl was interjected into the case by the authorities conducting their search for Brainard, who is wanted on a warrant charging a statutory offense with a 15-year-old school girl. It is said to have fled in his automobile with his wife early morning after the warrant had been obtained on statements made by his wife.

Brainard's arrest is expected to be made within forty-eight hours, it was said. His approximate whereabouts are known and it is believed he will give himself up when he learns arrest is imminent, the officers said.

Startling testimony was given by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Tripp, it was said, when the girl victim of the alleged crimes, Three girls were questioned yesterday, Tripp said that Brainard telephoned them and asked if they "would put." They said they would not. This accounted for his sudden departure, it is said.

In the Federal investigation, it is said, centers about a trip taken by Brainard to San Francisco on laforth.

SPENCER WILL GET MIND TEST

Wealthy Defendant to be Examined by Jury

Order in $151,000 Heart Balm Case Granted

Action Follows Objection to Court Ruling

Amos P. Spencer, wealthy retired merchant of Oskaloosa, Iowa, and defendant in a suit for $151,000 damages brought by Mrs. Clara Bell Lessig of 624 South Wilton Place for asserted breach of promise to marry, will be tried before a jury in order to determine his mental condition, Presiding Judge York of the Superior Court ordered yesterday. The case was set for hearing next Thursday before Judge Monroe.

The order was granted in connection with a petition filed in Superior Court by Mrs. Nannie C. Bell, mother of the plaintiff in the heart-balm action; Milton F. Martle, who asserted he is a friend of Spencer, and William A. Barnhill, one of Mrs. Lessig's attorneys.

The petitioners attacked the validity of a ruling made by Judge Shaw April 28, last, finding Spencer to be mentally sick and his condition bordering on insanity."

The assertion was made that the court had been imposed on and that the order was obtained by means of fraud by several of Spencer's relatives in an attempt to prevent the proposed marriage of Spencer and Mrs. Lessig on April 25.

At the same time Mrs. Lessig instituted her breach of promise suit against Spencer she brought an action against Spencer's relatives and G. R. Smith, his business associate, who were accused of conspiring to frustrate the marriage plans of Mrs. Lessig and Spencer.

This suit, which also asked damages of $151,000, named Jack F. Shephard, G. N. Spencer and Mrs. Ada Shephard, grandson, son and daughter, respectively, of Spencer, as defendants, in addition to Smith.

Mrs. Jennie Bell, a friend of Mrs. Zeigler, took the stand and testified regarding Mrs. Zeigler's departure from her husband to go with Clarke.

"When Mrs. Zeigler left," Mrs. Bell said, "she told me 'this man is a god. I am going to live with God.'"

Clarke, immaculately dressed in white palm beach clothes, maintained his poise during the testimony of both the women. He kept up with the testimony by glancing at the notes of the shorthand reporter on account of his deafness. Occasionally he smiled at some bit of the testimony.

The case was not concluded yesterday and further hearing will be conducted today.

Child Off for Alaska Alone to Join Parents

When the steamer Alexandria sails from Los Angeles Harbor today, the most eager passenger aboard will be 10-year-old Wilma Johnson, who will travel alone to Ketchikan, Alaska, to rejoin her father and mother.

The girl was left in the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart Orphanage, 610 North Hill street, eight months ago when her mother started for Alaska to join the father, William Johnson, in Alaskan waters with a fishing fleet. News of reunion of the parents and instructions for the daughter's trip to join them were contained in a letter to the sisters of the orphanage.

SHOW BALDWIN RANCH PAY

"Lucky's" Daughter Gives Manager $8000 and Horse Expert $6000, Witnesses Declare

Mrs. Anita M. Baldwin, daughter of the late E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin, pays $8000 a year to the man who manages her ranch, and $6000 a year to the man who cares for her stables of thoroughbred horses. This information, with the narration of the detailed intricacies of managing the vast estate, provided the bits of interest in the presentation yesterday of Mrs. Baldwin's defense against a $50,000 suit filed by Maj. Edwin H. Moore.

Maj. Moore, former manager of the Baldwin estate, is suing for the $50,000 as extra compensation which he charges is due him for valuable services given by him to Mrs. Baldwin while in her employ. Though his salary was $5000 per year, he has set forth in his suit that he was responsible for many ideas which increased the Baldwin fortune, and for this service is asking the extra compensation.

J. L. Williams, vice-president of the Bank of America, testified that he introduced Maj. Moore to Mrs. Baldwin after Mrs. Baldwin had urged him to seek a likely candidate to serve as her manager, and that he participated in the negotiations between Mrs. Baldwin and Maj. Moore relative to the position and the salary.

Col. Frank A. Hogan, noted horseman, testified that he introduced Matt Cohen, familiar figure in the horse-show ring, and that Mrs. Baldwin hired Mr. Cohen to care for her thoroughbred horses at a salary of $6000 per year.

William Henley, representing University High School, University of Southern California; subject, "The Constitution."

Don Tyler, representing Franklin High School, Los Angeles; subject, "The Constitution."

Harriet Rogers, representing San Diego High School; subject, "The Constitution."

An interesting feature of the program will be the distribution of prizes by Gov. Richardson. The winner at the grand final will receive $750 and the contestant awarded second place $250. In addition there will be assembled all the winners in the district contests of whom there are more than 100, who will also receive their awards on this occasion. The winner of first honors in each of the district contests will receive $25, while those holding second and third places will receive $15 and $10 respectively. In all a total of $2850 in cash prizes will be distributed.

The auditorium will be handsomely decorated with flags and flowers. The floral decorations will be contributed by Mrs. Sidney Albrick of Porterville, from her own flower garden. Mrs. Albrick extends this courtesy as a token of her appreciation of the honor won by her county, Tulare, as the only county with a 100 per cent representation of its schools in the contest.

LUNCHEON GUESTS

The program will open with musical offerings by the Glee Club of the University of Southern California and the Franklin High School Band of fifty pieces. These organizations hold a high place among the musical bodies of the city, the Glee Club having toured the country in concert and the band having held the championship among the musical organizations of the high schools for a number of years.

The men and women who will act as judges include prominent representatives of many professions. They are: Dr. John Willis Baer, C. I. Phelps, Judge Merle J. Rogers, J. P. Baumgartner, Judge W. H. Ellis, C. C. Chapman, Lyman M. King, Mrs. Grantland S. Long, Jess E. Stephens, E. P. Clarke, Senator Frank P. Flint, Mark L. Herron, Chaplain G. R. Lawrence, Prof. Charles A. Marsh, Dean C. H. Rieber, Dr. Doremus Scudder, Dr. Roy Malcom, Benjamin H. Waite and Mrs. Charles H. Toll.

A luncheon in honor of Gov. Richardson and the six contestants will be given in the ballroom of the Alexandria at noon today. Among the guests of prominence who will be present at this function are Mayor Cryer, Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, Superintendent of Schools of Los Angeles; Mark Keppel, County Superintendent of Schools; Dr. G. F. Bovard, president emeritus of the University of Southern California; Frank P. Flint, former United States Senator from California; Benjamin F. Bledsoe, judge of the United States District Court of Southern California, and representatives from all the schools in Los Angeles and many in surrounding towns.

WARD PLAN IS HELD PASSED

ing mandates of the voters as reasonably as possible. Supposedly, those voters who approved the new charter knew that it contained a provision for representation at large. At least, they ought to have known. Contrariwise, more than two-thirds of those same voters declared for district representation. We can not well disregard the specifically expressed preference of more than two-thirds of the voters, and the only alternative is to assume that in voting for the charter, they considered it in bulk and not with a mind to that particular article which affects representation. On that subject we must hold that they declared themselves separately, and their voice was for fifteen districts.

"As the questions were submitted on the ballot the only way a voter could register a logical preference was to vote yes on the charter, which would place him on record in favor of representation at large, and no on Proposition 2, which would place him on record as opposed to district representation.

FORM UNCERTAIN

"Voters in favor of district representation could not vote for the new charter as a whole without offsetting their yes on proposition No. 2 by another contradictory yes on No. 1. As the event now turns out such voters were in a majority, and it does not seem fair to me that they should be disenfranchised in a matter of such prime importance. Nevertheless, there is a plain contradiction in any opinion that could be given, and the final opinion must be written by the final authority.

"What form our test proceedings will take I do not yet know with certainty, but they probably will be related to certification of the election result by the Council."

The Council will audit the semi-official figures of the City Clerk next Monday. Upon approval by the Council they become official, unless contested in the courts.

Before the new charter can go into effect it first must be approved by the State Legislature next January, when it becomes immediately operative for election purposes. For administrative and other purposes it does not become operative until July, 1925.

HARBOR BONDS WIN AT BEACH

Pacific Coast Steel Company will begin its $5,000,000 plant and dock on its property in the harbor bought about one year ago.

The Union Pacific will begin development of its own terminal as proposed some months ago.

The Dollar Steamship Company, working in conjunction with the Southern Pacific will begin construction of its long Beach terminal. Other steamship companies and manufacturing plants that have been awaiting the action of the city on the harbor development plans will, it is believed, make definite decision as to their location here.

One other large project is the Pacific Coast operating base of the Merritt, Chapman & Scott Wrecking Company, which has proposed to establish a $1,000,000 plant that will include a large fleet of sea-going tugs, wrecking vessels and other equipment, together with warehouses. This is by far the largest marine wrecking company in the world.

Municipal Body Elects Officers for Coming Year

Officers to serve during the coming year were elected by the Municipal League at a meeting last night at the City Club. They are: Franklin D. Howell, president; Harlan G. Palmer, first vice-president; Harry Moller, second vice-president; Alexander MacKeigan, treasurer, and Anthony Pratt, secretary. Joseph Crail and Joseph Lewison were two new members of the executive committee of eleven named.

Talks were made by Chief of Police Vollmer, George H. Dunlop, Prof. A. H. Sutherland and Burdett Moody. Chief Vollmer discussed the city jail problem. Mr. Dunlop spoke on the results of the May election. Prof. Sutherland told of the work of salvaging children in the city schools and Mr. Moody's subject was "The Decalogue."

PROBATION DENIED

Tony Trojanovich, who was convicted of an attack on Leonore Bertrand, whom he had known for seven years, yesterday was denied an application for probation by Judge Reeve. The defendant was sentenced to San Quentin for from one to fifty years, but was granted a stay of execution of sentence for five years.

SHULER LIBEL CASE CLOSED

Counsel Denounce Opposing Ministers in Fierce Arguments; Decision Expected Today

The trial of the suit brought by Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, retired minister of the Protestant Episcopal church, for $50,000 damages against Rev. Robert P. Shuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, South, came to a close late yesterday in Judge E. P. McDaniel's court.

The court said it would reserve its decision until this morning but intimated it had already reached a conclusion from the mass of evidence submitted.

The case was submitted to the court with the presentation of arguments by opposing counsel.

CLIMAX IN CASE

Counsel for Mr. Richmond reached the climax of his resume of the case when he likened the trial of Mr. Richmond to the trial of Jesus Christ. Like Christ, Cooper declared, Mr. Richmond had been subjected to the condemnation of the spectators who jammed the courtroom at every session of the trial.

The attorney then pictured Mr. Shuler as the "David standing behind the Ku Klux Klan and using his magazine as an instrument for throwing vitriol at Mr. Richmond, who dared to lead the American constitutionalists in opposition to the teachings of the Klan. He asked the court to award Mr. Richmond damages of $2000 a year for the remainder of his natural life. Mr. Richmond is 53 years of age and in apparent good health.

HEATED REJOINER

Ben Hunter, counsel for Mr. Shuler, retaliated with a heated denunciation of Mr. Richmond. He stated all that Mr. Shuler had said about the plaintiff was true.

He branded the plaintiff as "either a hypocrite or a blackmailer. He labeled as "a cheap piece of advertising" the act of Mr. Richmond in reciting from the witness stand the Apostles' Creed and denounced the plaintiff for testimony he gave relative to the Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Tennessee.

Mr. Richmond's suit was based on the allegation that Mr. Shuler had defamed him through an article published in "Bob Shuler's Magazine" in January, 1923. Mr. Shuler was alleged to have made the statement that Mr. Richmond had been "kicked out" of the Protestant Episcopal church.

"LOVE DEN" TO FACE SCRUTINY

mation furnished by the District Attorney's office en route, it is said, to Portland, Or., to join Brainard and a friend. Ben A. Hawkins, of 434 Victor street, Miss Seidel is held in the County Jail as a witness in the case.

TELLS OF "DEN"

According to the story told by Mrs. Brainard to the District Attorney's office, her husband and Hawkins maintained a "love den" at the Victor-street house. There, she said, they held numerous parties with girls her husband had lured. The girls, she said, were of good family, ranging from 17 to 21.

Brainard and Hawkins are declared to have deserted their respective wives on April 15, last, to go on a proposed trip to Portland, Or. Brainard is said to have returned here last Monday and is said to have made an effort to see Miss Seidel, who was then in custody. Tuesday night, it is said, Brainard went to see his wife, who is staying with her mother, Mrs. L. McCreen, 152 East Seventy-fifth street, Wednesday morning, it is said, he returned to see his wife and at 5:30 a.m. they left in an automobile.

The investigation for the District-Attorney's office is being conducted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Trippell, who swore out the warrant for Brainard's arrest. Mr. Trippell yesterday requestioned the Seidel girl and is said to have obtained additional details regarding her relations with Brainard.

No complaint has been issued against Hawkins, but he is being sought as a material witness. Brainard has not been connected with the city since last October, when he resigned.

CLEARED IN SLAYING TO AID MOTHER

Harry Gertzen Found Not Guilty in Killing Father to Save Other Parent

After eighteen minutes deliberation a jury in Judge Reeve's court yesterday found Harry Gertzen not guilty of manslaughter in the slaying of his father. It was contended by defense attorneys, George Shreve and M. G. Phillips, that Gertzen shot his father, Herman Gertzen, in defense of his mother, Mrs. Yetta Gertzen.

They adduced testimony to show that the father had beaten his wife many times before and was about to strike her when the son shot him. The case was prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Orme, who contended that the son had brooded for some time over the treatment given his mother by his father.

While the jury was deliberating the mother sat in the courtroom gently patting the hand of her son and when the verdict was returned she embraced him. The youth, who is 19 years of age, was released within a few minutes.

The only witness heard yesterday was Louis Schultz, a barber and employer of Gertzen. He said Gertzen weighed 170 pounds and was a man of violent temper. During the day's hearing, Mrs. Gertzen became somewhat hysterical and had to leave the courtroom. She caused no disturbance however.

Mrs. Gertzen was an earlier defense witness in the case. She testified she had seen the flash of the pistol but had heard no report.

"From where did the flash come?" she was asked.

"It came from God," she replied, dramatically.

The defendant and his sister, Cecile, also testified. All three declared Herman Gertzen was attacking his wife when the son fired.

Conviction of Slayer Ruled Out on Appeal

Because witnesses were not permitted to testify in Superior Court to a dying statement said to have been made by Edward Farmer at the Receiving Hospital September 18, 1923, Louis Costa, who shot and killed Farmer, was granted a new trial yesterday by the Second District Court of Appeal, Division One.

A jury in Superior Judge Hardy's court found Costa guilty of manslaughter. This judgment was also reversed by the Appellate Court.

According to witnesses the fight between Costa and Farmer originated several days preceding the fatal shooting. On the night of September 17, Costa testified, he was attacked by Farmer on Sixteenth street near Georgia. He attempted to avoid his assailant, he declared, but when Farmer reached for his hip pocket Costa said he shot.

Before Farmer died the following morning three witnesses are alleged to have been present when a dying statement was made. When these witnesses were produced in court in behalf of Costa the court prohibited their testimony.

OWN SONGS BY CARRIE J. BOND

Accompanies Gantvoort as He Sings Melodies

School Musicians to Give Elaborate Program

The true meaning of music and music week slipped into the luncheon yesterday by the Optimist Club at the Biltmore, for Carrie Jacobs Bond sat at the piano and played her own compositions while Carl Gantvoort, the widely known baritone, sang them; Hallett Gilberte presented Alice Forsythe Mosher in his compositions and Sol Cohen played on his violin a group of his melodies.

The choicest of songs were given, all of which are favorites with Los Angeles audiences, where both the composers and the singers are well known. When Carrie Jacobs Bond gave her latest song, "In a Meadow," which touched feelingly on tender memories of the past, she was greeted with an ovation, and the piano was banked with flowers. She accompanied Carl Gantvoort as he sang "Compensation" and "Homeland."

ORGAN MUSIC TODAY

Alice Forsythe Mosher, a favorite singer of the Optimist Club, sang three songs written by Mr. Gilberte, who accompanied her. She also sang "Gethsemane," by Sol Cohen, while Mr. Cohen played a violin obbligato. From among his compositions Mr. Cohen played "Hobgoblin" and "Polonaise." An interesting ten-minute talk was given by A. J. Gantvoort on "How to Listen to Music."

JUVENILE PROGRAM

The Los Angeles school department, through Superintendent Susan M. Dorsey and Miss Jennie L. Jones, music supervisor, will offer today at the Philharmonic Auditorium a "demonstration concert," with 225 picked juvenile musicians from the great elementary school combined orchestra of more than 2400 players, to which every taxpayer in Los Angeles is invited, admission free. The program will start at 2 p.m., and will provide three hours of music pageantry and concert presentation, said by the supervisors to be the acme of school music development. Novelties will be offerings by the great battery of violins, horns, saxophones and drums. Ben F. Pearson, general chairman of Music Week, says this is one of the biggest events of the present festival.

Mme. Theodora Wisniewska, coloratura soprano; Stanislav Michniewicz, Polish pianist; Bogdan Gilienicz, baritone, and the "Persian Quintet" will present a "grand Polish program" at 8 p.m. today in the Central Intermediate School, North Hill street. The quintet, all native Persians, will render a special selection from "In a Persian Garden," tabloid opera. Admission is free.

"TENANTS" TO RECEIVE

This afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock the professional studio "tenants" of the Music-Arts Building, 233 South Broadway, will give a long program, said to be "drop-in-style," in the auditorium of the building. The public is invited.

The "final word" of Music Week comes tomorrow and Sunday afternoons with the Southern California band contests at the Coliseum under auspices of the Civic Music and Art Association. Admission to these tests will be free and in addition there will be military and fancy band drills.

Arrangements for the contests were completed yesterday by a committee composed of E. B. DeGroot, Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of Los Angeles, chairman; S. R. Donaldson, secretary; F. Carothers, G. A. Isbell, Dr. E. M. Hiner, H. R. Day, Charles B. Moore and W. A. Dunn.

The program tomorrow afternoon will comprise the sections devoted to high-school bands, boys' bands other than high school, university and college bands and to the strictly military-band drills.

Contesting bands will be assembled at the north end of the stadium and in turn will march through the arena to the south end and play from a platform. The public will occupy this south end of the Coliseum. The bands will be allowed to play their own selections by way of "tuning up," but the awards, consisting of cash and trophies, will be made on the basis of required selections named by the committee. The drill contests will be under United States Army regulations.

TODAY'S PROGRAM

Chairman DeGroot has announced the following judges: Herbert Clarke, director Long Beach Municipal Band; Bruno Ussher, musical critic and writer; A. D. Hunter, band and orchestral instructor, and Henry D. Schoenfeld, director Women's Symphony Orchestra. Decisions will be announced at the end of each section.

The program for today is the most extensive of any day in Music Week. It covers the entire city, as follows:

OFFICIAL SHOWS HIS POLICEMAN TRAINING

DEP. DIST.-ATTY. MACKAY IS QUICK TO SEE CHANCE TO ARREST CASH

Dept. Dist.-Atty. Mackay, former police sergeant, had not forgotten police work, it was learned yesterday when the story of the arrest of H. C. Cash, accused of selling a piano he did not own, was disclosed. Mackay knew Mrs. Cash by sight, and when he saw her Monday on North Broadway conversing with a man he got out of his automobile and followed them. Stepping up near them, Mackay said he called out, "Oh, Mr. Cash," and the man turned and said "Hello." He then arrested him.

Mrs. Mildred Mitchell, daughter of Cash, who first was accused of the theft of the piano because she had cashed the check that paid for it, was released yesterday on her own recognizance. She made a statement placing the blame on her father.

PROTECTION OF LOCAL CEMENT TRADE ASKED

Protection of the local cement now being shipped into Los Angeles Harbor duty free, was asked in telegrams dispatched last night by the Chamber of Commerce to President Coolidge, the Federal Trade Commission and California representatives in Congress. That an import duty be placed against these foreign cements which will equalize the difference in production cost between foreign countries now shipping in this cement duty free and production costs in the United States, was asked in the telegrams.

SECRETARIES WILL PLAN CONVENTION

Arrangements for the annual convention of the California Association of Commercial Secretaries will be completed at a meeting of the board of directors of the organization in San Francisco tomorrow. This announcement was made yesterday by Charles P. Bayer, manager of the organization service department of the Chamber of Commerce, who will leave for the Bay City today on the steamer Yale, accompanied by A. E. Isham, secretary of the Redlands Chamber of Commerce, and Earl Porter, secretary of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce. The date of the annual convention of secretaries, which is scheduled to be held in Eureka, will be announced at the completion of the San Francisco meeting.

Jury Opens Quiz Into Poker Game Said to be 'Fixed'

Investigation of an asserted bunko tip-off poker game in a downtown hotel, in which Louis R. Cranwell, broker, lost $3100 in less than an hour, was begun yesterday by the grand jury and will continue Tuesday.

The only witness heard yesterday was Charles Walters, one of the prisoners. William A. Davis, said to be a nephew of the late Poker Davis, is the other prisoner.

Investigators Riemer and Ramsey of the District Attorney's staff declare the two prisoners attempted to bribe them with $500 after the arrest was made.

NONESSENTIALS

The mere fact that a man cannot sing does not compel him to take lessons on the saxophone.

GOING 'ROUND

An expert says that Americans wasted over 1,500,000,000 gallons of gasoline last year. Is that what they mean by detouring?

LOST MOTION

The law of supply and demand is one thing, but the man in the street says that there is a greater supply of law than there is any demand for.

AMERICA ON WHEELS

The automobiles in daily service are worth more than twice as much as all the live stock in America of every kind and shape. That is a miraculous showing for a span of hardly twenty years.

REDUCING THE FLYERS

The disarmament propagandists will have a complicated problem when they go up in the air. Clipping the wings of the flyers is not to be accomplished without vast objection on the part of many governments.

PERILS OF THE CITY

A child specialist says that it is dangerous to wheel a baby through city streets until it is eight months old. He might say that it is dangerous to wheel anything through the city streets. There are busier things than germs.

LOOKING BETTER

German vaudeville performers have again made their appearance in London music halls. If the British can once more laugh at German jokes and tap their feet to German music the European skies are clearing.

THE RECORD-BREAKER

In spite of his bulk, it is Babe Ruth's greatest passion to lead the league in base-stealing. He has a couple of home-run records now, but they seem trivial in the face of his new frenzy. Well, it's a fine thing for a ball player to be ambitious. The Babe even tried to make his mark in the movies.

MAKE IT UNANIMOUS

Within the Los Angeles domain the Coolidge administration commands the support and confidence of overwhelming numbers. There was never any doubt—no moment when allegiance wavered. The President represents governmental economy and the square deal and these principles commend him at once to the best citizenship. The country is sane and will keep Coolidge.

TRAILING TO VICTORY

Gov. Albert E. Smith prefers to be considered as a dark horse before the Democratic stables. He is trying to keep away from Tammany and the bosses and he has made no alliances with Brennan or Taggart. He knows the perils that befall a candidate who has the reputation of being boss-picked and he doesn't want his votes on the first ballot. It is the last that counts and the leaders at the outset may be worn out in the running if it be long and hard.

AMONG THE GOLD

According to the British viewpoint, our gold should be giving us something to worry about. We have about $4,000,000,000 of it and we are not getting interest on it. We are mere hoarders of the yellow metal. We have practical control of the world's supply and, according to foreign opinions, are having no notable compensation beyond the opportunity to gloat. If the European nations should get together and make tin the basis of exchange it would be a joke on Uncle Sam.

JUST A FEW WORDS

It is given on authority that the wireless activities of the world have added over 5000 words to the English dictionary. Most of these are of Latin or Greek derivation and explain themselves as they go along, but they are a part and parcel of the new radio life. In one way or another the World War also created or evolved some 6000 fresh words for human consumption. The dictionary builders would have to work nights and Sundays if they kept abreast of the flow of new words and phrases that run over the land.

JUST AS EASY

One can learn to play the piano or build a bridge by taking twenty lessons by mail. If one seeks a permanent wave or a job as designer a short course in a school of correspondence will suffice. One can learn French or how to behave at a banquet by merely giving attention to a few practical lessons administered by mail. The graces of a Chesterfield or the genius of an Edison are at the end of any postal route. One can get everything but an operation for appendicitis through a mail-order house and there is instruction to be had by correspondence on every conceivable subject under the sun. One can become a beauty specialist or a Unitarian preacher by taking a dozen lessons by long distance. There is training for the Presidency or the dance hall—anything you want. It is up to the individual to decide. The rest is easy.

MONARCHIST OR SOCIALIST

Germany has come to a new parting of the ways. She has toiled during the last six years from one crossroads to another; and her present condition would seem to indicate that she has invariably misread the signs and taken the road that leads not to prosperity, but to adversity. At present she has come to the crossroads where the trail to the right leads to limited monarchy and that to the left leads to Radical-Socialism. She does not seem aware that the straight road of representative republicanism is not blocked.

In the German elections last week there were more than twenty party groups on the national ballot. They ranged in principle from a limited monarchy to Communism. Not only did no party receive a majority, no three parties combined received enough votes to form a government. The new Reichstag will be controlled by a coalition of coalitions.

The cause of the lack of unity in the Reichstag is not far to seek. It is the effect of lack of unity in the country. When a people are so divided against themselves in a republic the fractional division is certain to appear in the Parliament. The German people have been accustomed to a government of men, not of laws. They do not divide on principles, which are not clearly defined there, but on groups of individuals.

This week's cables report an attempt to form a block in which the monarchist sentiment will predominate. Its object is to repeal the clauses in the constitution making the office of chief executive elective, and to insert others which will provide for the selection of a constitutional monarch, with life tenure and, possibly, hereditary succession.

There is active propaganda for the restoration of the monarchy. The Nationalist party, the People's party, the Fascisti party and the Bavarian People's party have been holding secret conferences. If they can bring the Catholic party into their group they will be able to organize the government. The Catholic party is one of the important groups in the Reichstag. It is not monarchist; but its members are said to incline to a constitutional monarchy rather than to Socialism.

So the new parting of the ways is the choice between a monarchist government and a Socialist government. During the last five years the Socialists have been in control; and the results speak for themselves in a tone that is not to be misunderstood. Monarchism appeals to the masses stronger than Socialism.

It is to be regretted that Germany has not been able to adapt itself to representative republicanism. In the time of the Kaisers there were but two parties, monarchist and Socialist. When the monarchy fell the Socialists seized the reins of government. Socialism has failed and the people seem to feel that the only alternative is to return to a constitutional monarchy.

BACK TO THE SAFETY POINT

Limitation of Federal usurpation of power originally vested in the sovereign States is one of the issues which will play an important part in the Republican platform this year. It is an issue around which Presidential campaigns were waged 100 years ago. It is ever old and ever young.

In a recent address the President called attention to the growing tendency of the Federal government to do those things which, in his opinion, should be done by the States themselves. During Democratic administrations before the Civil War the issue of States' rights was carried to the point where the hands of the Federal government were tied, when the confusion was so great that Federal unity was threatened.

Since the Civil War the tendency has been toward greater powers for the Federal government and more limited powers for the States. It is now held by many students of political economy that the increasing power of the government at Washington is responsible for the present high Federal taxes.

This, of course, is true only in a limited measure; for the annual interest and sinking-fund payments on the war bonds are greater than the total cost of the Federal government prior to 1915. But those payments represent less than one-third of the total government expense.

When the issue of States' rights is raised the Democrats leap to their feet and shout that their party is the only one that has the right to defend the States against the encroachments of the Federal government. They base their claim on what happened eighty years ago, before there was a Republican party in existence.

The President does not agree with them. He regards certain questions as national issues, questions on which there should properly be no party division. One of these is American participation in the International Court of Justice; another is that of economy and efficiency in Federal administration; and a third is that of a clearer definition of the sometimes clashing rights and duties of State and Federal government.

The President makes a distinction between rights and privileges. All rights entail duties. He holds that it is not the duty, not the province of the Federal government to do for the States things that it is the duty of the States to do for themselves.

Although the Democrats claim to be the exponents of States' rights, it has been under Democratic administrations that the tendency toward Federal paternalism has been most marked. The Democrats are notably reckless spenders of the money of the people. They are always strong for Federal aid; and they confer new powers on the national government in order that they can find new avenues for Federal expense.

During the last century the pendulum has swung from the extreme left, where the States possessed many rights and duties and the government few, to the extreme right, where the Federal government has many rights and duties and the States few. There is a golden mean, which may be designated the safety point. Discussion over a limitation of Federal power will take the form of a sane endeavor to get back to that safety point.

THE NORTH LANDS

The Canadians have definitely abandoned any claims they may have had to Wrangel Island and, although the British flag flew over it for some years, there is no particular desire to keep it there. The island has an area of some 1500 square miles and there is a showing of animal life. Those who would care to hunt the walrus or the polar bear may find sport on Wrangel Island. It may also provide an air station for trans-polar flights. We may safely add it to Alaska Territory.

HASTEN STREET WORK

The Los Angeles City Council is serving the people well in taking action to expedite street improvement. The Council has asked its Finance and Public Works committees to draft a program for hastening street work and to present it at the earliest possible date.

With 500 requests for street improvements pending and the rapidly growing demands of a larger population with miles of new subdivision the situation has become urgent and was emphasized recently at a conference held by the Automobile Club of Southern California, Chamber of Commerce, Los Angeles Traffic Commission and various city officials.

The Council declares that in order to facilitate and hasten the street work the City Engineer's force must be augmented and a considerable sum of money appropriated. This it is ready to do upon the presentation of a comprehensive program.

This move by the Council will not only benefit the city by improving its streets, but will do much to relieve traffic congestion. It will also give employment to a large number of men. Every indication points to continued rapid growth of Los Angeles and hastening the necessary street work is a wise, forward step.

OUR POSTAL SERVICE

Should Congress sanction the move, the United States postoffice will this summer inaugurate an air-mail service between New York and San Francisco to cover the distance in twenty-eight hours. This will mark the latest notch made in the letter-carrying activities of America that started 285 years ago.

The establishing of a regular twenty-eight-hour mail service between the Pacific and the Atlantic coasts will be an event of tremendous business and social import to all dwellers on the western side of the Sierra Nevadas. This connecting of San Francisco and New York by direct mail airplane is but a pioneer move by the Postoffice Department which, if successful, will no doubt be followed by other mail air lines from Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle to the leading cities on the Atlantic seaboard.

So rapid, indeed, is the present advance of science in all modern fields of human progress that the time may be nearer than seems possible at present when the bulk of American mail will be carried by air in preference to rail or steamship.

Such a consummation—twenty-eight hours across the continent for mail and express packages—would take another large hitch in the already rapidly contracting circumference of our man-conquered globe. It would give business on the Pacific Coast an advantage in world markets whose effect on the more rapid populating of California it would be hard to exaggerate.

Los Angeles, under a perfected air-mail communication with the various world metropolises, would be in a unique position to grow and expand and develop, denied past industrial centers that have pushed forward into first places.

Because communication is the first step in civilization and the swifter and easier the means of communication the swifter and easier the growth of cities and country-side and industry and new colonies and general human enlightenment.

Civilization owes a debt to the Postal Service of America that can never be paid in 2-cent stamps. Should the Postoffice Department obtain the sanction of Congress to the establishment of a twenty-eight-hour aerial mail between San Francisco and New York and should the department demonstrate its ability to make a complete success of the innovation California should erect a monument to the achievement; for it will rank with the completion of the first transcontinental railroad or the laying of the first Atlantic cable.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Boring Everywhere

Ramsay MacDonald, Premier of England, has had his first warning. His government was defeated on a measure introduced by the Red wing of his party. Mr. MacDonald had to sponsor the bill in order to maintain peace within the ranks of labor. That looks like a bad omen. It matters little that the Premier has decided not to resign. Nobody, with the exception of the few die-hard Tories, would want to see him relinquish the Premiership without having had a fair trial. MacDonald's real enemies are the Reds. They are boring from within and boring with a vengeance. The object is obvious. They want to prove to the workers of Britain that labor cannot proceed along constitutional lines by making MacDonald fail. The disciples of Lenin will be MacDonald's downfall and not the Liberals or Conservatives.

Love Laughs at Mussolini

There is trouble in the European royal marriage market. Leopold, Crown Prince of Belgium, and his sister, Princess Jose Marie, are scheduled to marry Princess Mafalda and Crown Prince Umberto of Italy next fall. But the Italian Princess has been able to postpone the announcement of the betrothal for several months. She does not want to go to Belgium and she does not love Leopold. She has even threatened to commit suicide. The simple reason is she has given her heart to Prince Nicola of Rumania, who is serving as a midshipman in the British navy. But the State Department of Signor Mussolini at Rome cannot favor such an alliance. Rumania is in bad standing, diplomatically speaking. That is why Mafalda must make a sacrifice. The old-fashioned idea of royal princes and princesses being made mere pawns in the international game of diplomacy should go by the board. Here is hoping Mafalda and Nicola will find a way.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE EASY ONES

Another fake has gone to smash, a gold-brick game is slain; and suckers clamor for their cash and clamor all in vain. The fakers have been locked in jail and justice comes to bat, but those who lost their hard-earned kale no comfort find in that. The fakers cried to every hick, "We have a wondrous scheme, and we will make you rich so quick you'll think you're in a dream!" The village banker wrung his hands until he sprained his wrist and argued with the easy bands and begged them to desist. "Oh, fall not for the fakers' game," the weeping banker cried; "for every gilded scheme they name is sure to be a snide." The suckers laughed his words to scorn and bade him talk no more; for when men suffer to be shorn all wisdom seems a bore. And gayly to the fakers' den they bore the bright doubloon, the piece of eight, the mark, the yen, the groat and picayune. And all these coins were earned in sweat, by toil that chafed the soul, and many suckers went in debt to swell the fakers' roll. One day the morning papers told a story of despair, and suckers clamored for their gold that wasn't anywhere. We hear the suckers' moans and yells, their shrieks for vanished kale; the fakers are in prison cells, but what does that avail?

DISILLUSIONED

The contrast between Mr. MacDonald out of office and Mr. MacDonald in office has reassured many who fail to realize to what extent his new moderation is due to his circumstances. We cannot be astonished that it has correspondingly shocked those of his followers who imagined that assumption of office was equivalent to accession to power. To these people, fanatically genuine, moderation wears the aspect of mere betrayal.—[London Evening Standard.

FLYING CHIPS

BY ALMA WHITAKER

A Long Beach man was "denounced by the District Attorney in scathing terms" and assured that he would be prosecuted to the full extent of the law when he confessed that he had persuaded his young and pretty wife to take the blame for the reckless driving of an automobile which resulted in the death of a man.

Both he and his wife had come to the extraordinary conclusion that the courts would be more lenient to her, especially if she carried the baby in her arms.

Strange illusion. How could they possibly have arrived at any such presumption? Such an unwarranted insult to our courts.

And yet . . . Well, something must have happened at some time or another to create such an impression.

I met a charming cultured woman of unimpeachable standing in highbrow circles recently who admitted that she didn't like music, was bored listening to it and, if she had to listen to it at all, preferred the tuneful jingly stuff that is considered hopelessly lowbrow.

But she made this confession in the strictest confidence, fearful lest she should be overheard in the awful admission. She trembled for her standing if her shame should become known. Especially with Music Week in the offing. It simply isn't decent not to like highbrow music in Los Angeles these days.

I am a bit epicurean on the subject myself. I like my music in small doses on personally selected occasions. Music at the wrong time in the wrong place on the wrong occasion can be most tiresome. And, accompanied by Chamber of Commerce speeches, can be really distressing.

THE MYSTERY OF LIGHT

BY WILLIAM H. KNIGHT

The very illuminating article regarding the Pasadena Institute of Technology and the remarkable work of Dr. Millikan and his able assistants which was published in The Times Sunday issue of April 27 has provoked much earnest discussion among scientific men here and abroad. It has profoundly interested men of science in the three departments of astronomical, chemical and physical investigation.

While there was an unfortunate expression in the headlines, which assumed that the result of the investigations would revolutionize science, yet in the body of the article the deductions from the skillful work of the institute were clearly stated, showing a decided advance on theories hitherto held regarding the nature of light. Science is basic and impregnable and is never at fault, though new researches and discoveries may modify our conceptions of the marvelous processes of nature in its physical, chemical and biological manifestations.

What were the new revelations of the Technical Institute presented in the able article of Mr. Rochlen? For they are well worth summarizing. In the first place Dr. Millikan's researches show that rays of light are material and the matter of which they are composed is subject to the laws that govern all forms of matter. These material rays of light are material—shot directly from the luminous body—and are not produced by waves in a hypothetical ether.

Sir Isaac Newton, prior to the ingenious conception of etheric waves, believed that light consists of corpuscles emanating from the luminous object, but he expressed no theory of the nature of those corpuscles. The etheric wave conception has been assented to for a considerable time because it seemed to explain some of the phenomena attendant upon the production of light.

Einstein, regarding the wave theory of light as inadequate, some years ago expressed the belief that rays of light were material and suggested that a demonstration of his views could be made on the occasion of a total eclipse of the sun, when it would be found that the rays from a distant star passing close to the sun would be bent out of a straight course by the powerful attraction of that body.

In the year 1919 a lunar shadow crossed the Atlantic Ocean from Brazil to Africa. Two eclipse expeditions were sent from England to photograph the stars near the sun at those stations during the eclipse and six months later photographed the same stars when the sun was below the horizon. It was found that a displacement of the image of those stars occurred exactly in accordance with Einstein's prediction. Three years later the Lick Observatory, headed by Director Campbell, made an expedition to Northwestern Australia to make another test of Einstein's theory, with like results.

It remained for Dr. Millikan, with his splendidly equipped laboratory and fine corps of assistants, to solve the baffling problem. The most impressive headgear yet designed for masculinity is the haughty turban, adorned with a precious jewel. And in the countries where that style still obtains women are still primarily interested in men petters. Oh, well, I suppose we can't have it both ways.

A Frenchman is recorded as having won a prize for eating five legs of mutton, five bowls of soup, three pots of tea and four pounds of sweet biscuits—at one sitting. Such extravagance. But France evidently believes that "the game will pay."

England reports a serious shortage of clergy in the established Episcopalian Church. This is when the system of recruiting the clergy chiefly from the younger sons of noble families "assures at least one resident gentleman in every parish." And they used to have large families out of which one and two sons were generally trained for the ministry. But many of these aristocratic "younger sons" now want to make money and even the ministers don't have families any more.

I can see where the Episcopal Church will have to open its portals to women preachers before long.

Dr. Van de Leeuw, an erudite Hollander in our midst, is earnestly advocating that all politicians should pass an examination in world history and forms of government before being eligible to election for office.

And then if voters have to pass a similar test we really would stand a chance of getting an enlightened government. Just a matter of luck, though, to have some of the like that crop up directly they are admitted into politics!

TRIANGLE WATER HEATER
AUTOMATIC

Hot water is no longer a luxury. Modern life demands it. Why not have it in the modern way—the Triangle way—ready and waiting for any use.

The Triangle Automatic Water Heater (residence size) provides hot water constantly in any quantity — a cupful or a tubful—without a moment of delay. It is hotel system for the home, yet more economical than other types. Every foot of gas heats water.

The pilot, a Bunsen burner, maintains tank temperature at little cost. The big burner flames only when unusual amounts are drawn and quickly restores tank temperature. The copper ball heating element is especially efficient.

Your plumber will gladly tell you more about the Triangle.

MARINE EXPERT BOOSTS HARBOR

Westinghouse Engineer Sees Great Future at Port

Man-Made Anchorage Adapted for Development

Electric-Motor Power to Aid American Shipping

Los Angeles Harbor offers every possibility for the development of a great world port, in the opinion of Walter E. Thau, engineer in charge of the marine department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company of Pittsburg.

Mr. Thau, who is at the Biltmore, is accompanied by G. H. Froebel, manager of the Westinghouse marine department, and the two viewed the harbor works yesterday in connection with a survey of conditions here pertaining to the business of their firm on the Pacific Coast.

"We were particularly impressed with the amount of shipping already handled by the port," said Mr. Thau. "While the facilities at present are inadequate to the demands, the plans for enlargement now under way will remedy this situation, and in time I expect to see this port one of the most important in America. One advantage of a man-made anchorage, such as your harbor, is that it can be developed to meet the needs of the place where it is situated. Some of the most important harbors in the world are of this type."

The two Westinghouse representatives spoke of the growing movement in marine construction toward electrification of vessels, stating that, with the many advantages of this type of motive power, it will not be many years before the majority of boats will be electrically equipped.

Jewish Relief Body to Have Coast Parley

Important issues face the first Pacific Coast convention of the Jewish Consumptive Relief Association, its auxiliaries and affiliated organizations, which opens today with the arrival here of delegates from San Francisco, Fresno, Stockton, Petaluma, Santa Barbara, Santa Monica, Venice, Ocean Park and other cities in the State.

Tonight a dinner will be given the visiting guests by the Bay Cities Auxiliary of the J.C.R.A. at Venice. On Saturday night there will be a dinner and concert at the sanatorium at Duarte.

On Sunday afternoon the final session of the convention will take place in Blanchard Hall, 233 South Broadway. The report of the executive secretary, S. Lubarski-Debalta, will be read and discussed, and nine new members to the board of directors will be elected. About 300 delegates, members and friends will attend this meeting.

DENIES CONDITION OF MRS. WILLIS CRITICAL

JAIL MATRON SAYS MURDER SUSPECT NOT IN ANY IMMEDIATE DANGER

Mrs. Margaret B. Willis, accused of the murder of Dr. Benjamin Baldwin, is not in any immediate danger of death, according to County Jail authorities. Mrs. Willis for several years, it was stated by Matron Vada C. Sullivan, has been suffering from leakage of the heart. Although the woman has had occasional attacks while in the County Jail, her condition was not considered by Jailer Croushorn as sufficiently critical to have her removed to General Hospital.

Mrs. Willis is accused of having shot and killed Dr. Baldwin, concealed his body for two days in a trunk and then hurled it over a cliff.

Instead of being in a state of coma, as reported, Mrs. Willis yesterday talked to several visitors and appeared in good health, it is said.

BEAUTY TREATMENT DAMAGE SUIT LOST

DOCTOR GETS DECISION IN $25,000 ACTION OVER SCAR ON CHIN

Mrs. Marie Hopkins, 70 years of age, lost a suit that grew out of unsuccessful beauty treatments when Judge Stevens of Superior Court yesterday decided in favor of the defendants, Bessie L. Barber and Dr. Foster Hull.

Mrs. Hopkins wanted $25,000 damages because an operation on her chin was recalled to memory by an unsightly scar. She declared Dr. Hull, who performed the operation, had "cut it too short."

Both Miss Barber, beauty specialist, and Dr. Hull declared they had warned Mrs. Hopkins the operation would probably not be successful. Dr. Hull said he told the woman she had had a goiter and that because of this he could not operate without causing a scar. She insisted despite this advice, he said.

"I might want to get married some time," he said Mrs. Hopkins said.

Judge Valentine made no comment in announcing his decision.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Among the many affairs which are interesting Los Angeles circles today is the luncheon which will be given at the Biltmore this afternoon by the Women's Division of the Salvation Army, which will open the coming campaign for the Army. The Salvation Army board includes Henry W. O'Melveny, William May Garland, Harry Chandler, Charles H. Toll, Frank Ryan and Charles Hutson and associated with them are Mrs. Roy Jones, Mrs. Alexander B. Barret, Mrs. Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith, Miss Grace Stoermer, Mrs. Force Parker and Mrs. James W. Montgomery who form the Women's Division chairmen, and executive committee. The divisional chairmen who will resume the responsibility of enlisting the volunteer workers and who in turn have been appointed captains are Mrs. J. Wolcott Rhodes, Mrs. Richard H. Lacy, Mrs. Robert L. Burns, Miss Elizabeth Spence, Mrs. Daniel Sully, Mrs. Adele H. White, Mrs. Paul D. Robinson, Miss Jane C. Rumphreys, Dr. Ines Smith, Dr. Lillian Grandmason, Mrs. L. E. Hirt, Mrs. George Rees, Miss Olive Moore, Mrs. Henry Clark and Mr. Leeland Reeder. The opening campaign dinner will be held at the Biltmore Monday evening at which the entire campaign organization will be in attendance.

Wedding Date

Miss Julia Getz, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Getz of Sunset Boulevard, has chosen Friday, May 16, as the date for her marriage to L. Douglas Stahl. The ceremony will take place in St. Thomas's Church. Miss Getz was graduated from Mills College and Pomona College while Mr. Stahl has his Alma Mater with the University of Southern California Law College. Tomorrow row afternoon Mrs. Maurice Sparling of Genesee street will entertain with a bridge tea honoring this charming young bride-elect.

Church Wedding

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Techintin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Techintin and Miles Dewey Allen will be one of the events of tomorrow taking place at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Angels, Rev. Frank Roudenbush officiating. Miss Jean Monfort will be the maid of honor, Mrs. Richard Hudson, matron of honor and Miss Vivian Cox bridesmaid. William Worden will be best man and the ushers will be Eugene Pearson Ramsay and Gerald Sanford.

Ward-Carr

The marriage of Miss Katherine Ward, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley C. Ward, to Richard Bruce Carr, Jr., of Berkeley will be solemnized today at high noon, the ceremony being read at the home of the bride's parents, Archbishop John J. Cantwell officiating, assisted by Msgr. Cawley. The bride will be given in marriage by her father. Miss Beatrice Ward will assist as maid of honor and Mr. Carr will be served by Harold Pischel of San Francisco who comes down to be best man. Little Betty Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stephens, and Tommie Chandler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo St. Clair Chandler, will be the ribbon bearers. Among the out-of-town guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bruce Carr, Miss Helen Carr, Miss Margaret Carr and David Carr of Berkeley, Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Terry and Miss Elizabeth Terry, also of the northern city, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Fisher (Betty Burnett) of San Francisco, Dr. Robertson Ward and William Eldridge Ward, brothers of the bride, the latter being in his second year at University of California. Mr. Carr will take his bride for an extended wedding trip and after their return they will make their home temporarily in Pasadena, eventually coming to Los Angeles. They will return in time for the wedding of Dr. Robertson Ward to Miss Elizabeth Terry, which will take place in Berkeley June 3.

Woodbridge-Garretson

One of the beautifully arranged weddings of the week was that of Tuesday, when at 10 o'clock in the morning Miss Mary Elizabeth Woodbridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woodbridge, plighted her troth to John Truman Garretson, the ceremony taking place in Trinity Church, Rev. Allan Randall officiating in the presence of relatives and close friends. The church was beautiful in its simplicity of the decorations, roses and ferns being combined with tulle and greenery. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming gown of white satin with veil of tulle held in place by sprays of orange blossoms and she carried an arm shower of lilies of the valley and bride roses. Her only ornament was a necklace of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Mrs. Frederick Doolittle of Glendale assisted as matron of honor wearing a gown of gray chiffon and lace with hat to match and she carried an arm bouquet of sweet peas. Miss Dorothy Glenn, Miss Fredericks Browne and Mrs. Wrae Durstin (Ruth Redinger) were the bride's other attendants. They wore gowns of peach, yellow and orchid chiffon respectively and carried bouquets of pastel shades of sweet peas. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents in North Berendo street following the ceremony, relatives and close friends only being bidden. Mr. and Mrs. Garretson are away on their honeymoon and after their return on the 15th inst. they will be at home at 3316 Kerckhoff street, Point Firmin. Mr. Garretson is the son of Rev. and Mrs. John Garretson of Athol, Kan. The bride who was graduated from Hollywood High, also attended the University of California, Southern Branch and Mr. Garretson served for four years during the World War with the United States Marines.

At the Capital

Among the Angelenos who are enjoying a visit at Washington, D. C., are Mrs. Mary M. Goodwin and Miss M. T. Etchmendy, who are sojourning at the Grace Dodge Hotel.

To Tour Europe

Planning a delightful tour abroad, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Seeley and family, Mrs. Henry Sharpe Cheney and her daughter, Miss Helen Seeley, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Kiger, Judge and Mrs. Robert M. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Freiberg, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Haddock and Miss Haddock, are leaving shortly for an extended tour through Europe. Several of the party will join the S.S. Aresdian cruise to the Norwegian fjords and midnight sun. They will all visit the British exposition in London and the Olympic Games in Paris will be one of the interesting features of the trip. Later they will tour through France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy, Scotland and England.

Luncheon Party

Grand Opera

One of the enjoyable affairs of yesterday was the luncheon given by the women's committee of the Los Angeles Opera Association at the Biltmore Hotel to further the progress of the campaign, which will provide Los Angeles with five brilliant operatic performances next October. The progress of the campaign was outlined by Mrs. William Lee Woolett, vice-chairman of the committee; John G. Mott, A. L. Guda, Alessandro Pavani, Dr. Slavatore Mosca, Miss Antoinette Sabel, Mario Jamieson, James Tabor Pugsley and George Major. The members of the committee who assisted include Mrs. Dean Pratt, Mrs. George Major, Mrs. Benjamin Bledsoe, Mrs. John C. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Edward A. Dickson, Mrs. Phil Verbeck, Miss Louise Gully, Mrs. Walter V. Goodfellow, Mrs. Virginia Goodsell Byrne, Mrs. Lillian Clarke, Mrs. Frank Pugsley, Mrs. James Tabor, Mrs. Alexander Bevani and Mrs. Rose Grauman.

Musicale

Mrs. E. J. Brent of Adams Square has issued invitations for a musicale Tuesday evening complimenting Sol Cohen, who is leaving in the near future for a years' trip to Europe.

Afternoon Affair

Mrs. John A. Montgomery entertained Saturday afternoon at a delightful affair at her home on Harold Way, honoring her sister, Miss Fanny Carlton, who is to be a missionary to Peru for three years, and is at home on vacation. The guests were members of the missionary society of Hollywood Christian Church. Miss Carlton passed most of her life in Riverside and has a host of friends throughout Southern California. Miss Rosalie Phillips rendered several pleasing solos and Miss Carlton sang in both English and Spanish, and gave a most interesting talk on her work in Porto Rico. Those included were Mrs. W. S. Hertzog, Mrs. Orville Harding, Mrs. Theodore Wirsching, Mrs. Harry Hall, Mrs. W. J. Morley, Mrs. Harry Hall, Mrs. William Mrs. F. S. Weaver, Mrs. Elizabeth Culver, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. J. F. Mrs. Jennie Clark, Mrs. Mrs. W. S. Grimm, Mrs. Webb, Miss Grace Pope and Rosalie Phillips.

BEANS are good, wholesome, nourishing food, but Nature forgot to give them a tempting flavor. Baking adds the flavor, and no other method of cooking will. Boiling or steaming leaves them dull and uninteresting.

Heinz Beans are baked, oven-baked, and that is why the label reads HEINZ Baked Beans.

There are four kinds of HEINZ BAKED BEANS,

AGENTS FOR ALIEN MUST FILE RETURN

PAYMENT OF INCOME TAX FOR CLIENT HELD OBLIGATORY

Responsible representatives of nonresident aliens, such as banks and trust companies, must file income-tax returns and pay the tax for their clients or become liable to heavy penalties for failure to do so, according to instructions received by the Collector of Internal Revenue. A ruling of the Internal Revenue Commissioner states that a bank or trust company is the "responsible representative" of a client when the client is a nonresident alien and has authorized the bank or trust company to collect the income accruing on stock or bonds deposited with the company.

The obligation to file returns and to pay tax for another devolves upon the "responsible representative" whether that be a bank, trust company, or individual, the revenue commissioner holds.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

Mrs. W.—You say brother has weeping eczema on the face and that he uses a great deal of condensed milk. It may be possible that too much condensed milk does it. Condensed milk makes fat babies, but at the same time they are undernourished because they do not get sufficient protein or vitamins. Fat babies are particularly prone to eczema.

Mrs. W. A.—It may be possible that the disorder you think is dementia praecox in the girl of 15, is all due to her extreme malnourishment. We had some articles on the Malnourished Child a while back. They are now compiled, with other articles on child feeding, in book form. We have a list of other books on Infant and Child Feeding which you may have by sending the necessary self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

The undernourished child is to have twice or sometimes three times as much food as the normal child, and that means some food! One long rest period of an hour, at least, each day, lying down in a darkened room, and long hours of sleep must be the rule.

The causes of malnourishment are insufficient or incorrect diet, physical defects (especially obstructive adenoids and tonsils,) irritating and unpleasant home atmosphere, insufficient sleep, over-fatigue, faulty health habits, etc.

The foundation diet for each child for each day, is as follows: Protective Foods—three glasses of milk a day, at least; one full cupful of vegetables, especially the green leaf vegetables, part of them raw; one full cupful of fruit, part fresh, if possible. Energy Foods—cereals, including whole-grain breads; fats, in the form of butter, cream, egg yolks and nuts.

The malnourished child must have more of all of these foods than the normal child. You will have to have a knowledge of calories, or food values, so that you can compute approximately how much your child is getting. Take her out of school, and take her as soon as possible to a mental specialist. Can't you take her to the country some place, where she can be out of doors all the time?

"Dear Doctor: I think you are a real human radio, broadcasting every day messages meaning so much to all of us. We all thank you for the wonderful things you talk of.

"Now I have a very real problem—my girl of six years old is greatly troubled with pin worms. I treated her with quassia chips. I also had her examined by a doctor, and he prescribed a treatment of pills. The results were good, but still they come, come as bad as ever. Thanking you for all your wonderful advice, meaning so much to the small pay check. Gratefully yours.—A Mother."

Once is not enough to give an injection, Mother. You have to give injections every day until the worms disappear. A good cathartic, preferably castor oil, is all right to give in the beginning. The injection can be made of two ounces of quassia chips boiled in a quart of water for twenty minutes, adding sufficient water to keep it a full quart. Inject a cupful of this warm mixture and, after it is expelled, use another cupful.

The chief reason that pin worms—the most common worms of childhood— are so difficult to get rid of is because, with children particularly, there is not absolute cleanliness. When they go to the toilet, they do not always wash their hands afterward, and in wiping or scratching themselves they contaminate their hands with the worm eggs—hundreds of them. (The eggs are microscopic and cannot be seen without the aid of a microscope.) These eggs are then often conveyed to the mouth directly or on the foods which they handle. They are swallowed and a new hatch comes on. The mothers and others who take care of wormy children get them, too if care is not taken.

To prevent round worms, see that all fruit and vegetables eaten raw are thoroughly washed and that foods are not handled by persons affected, unless they are scrupulously clean.

PROBLEM IN PURCHASING LINE ABROAD

BY OLIVE GRAY

"In buying merchandise abroad," said Mrs. Caruthers Dorsey, foreign buyer for Bullock's, "it is important that one bear in mind the distinctive needs of California, since our climate and our social customs are unique, a law unto themselves."

"Nowhere," continued Mrs. Dorsey, "is the demand for high-class sportswear so insistent, so broad and yet, even so, one must do considerable guessing, as to just how a new fad or fashion will be received. Climatic conditions, the tastes of the foreign clientele which so often is far removed from that of Americans—many elements enter in. 'Don flannels when you purchase top garments in London,' is the advice given by one manager in our store; and the advice is apropos, since here we seldom require the warmth in wraps needed in the British Isles."

Mrs. Dorsey has recently returned from a round of the various headquarters maintained in Europe and England, Bullock's having offices in London, in Paris, in Brussels, Berlin and Vienna. This arrangement enables the house to eliminate middle profits and also to keep in continuous close touch with foreign modes and fabrics. Offices are also maintained in the larger cities of the United States, of course. The fact of bona fide headquarters in foreign cities, also lends prestige to the house, conferring an entre to exclusive ateliers and manufactories not otherwise possible.

Speaking of modes, Mrs. Dorsey states that knitted garments, suits, sweaters, dresses, for sport wear, travel and general utility are constantly gaining in favor and also gaining in quality of weave in line and beauty of coloring, the Swiss particularly having devoted much attention to perfecting this product. Silk, wool and glos or fiber, all are equally good and many of the new developments in garments along these lines are fascinating as well as practical.

Three Mexicans Nabbed in Auto Truck Robberies

With the arrest early yesterday morning of three Mexicans giving the names of Porterio Blanco, Raphael Gallego and Jesus Reyes, Officers Sullivan and McBride of the Hollenbeck Heights Police Station stated they believe they have rounded up the trio responsible for numerous large thefts from auto trucks in the wholesale business district.

The arrest was made at the Pickwick Stage station at Fifth and Los Angeles streets. The trio, according to the officers, had purchased tickets and were headed for Mexico.

Out of more than a score of suspected thefts the officers stated the trio confessed to the following two: the theft of ten auto tires from the United States Rubber Company truck at Second street and Central avenue on the 2nd inst. and the theft of $100 worth of cigars from a truck at Avenue Nineteen and North Broadway on the 1st inst. All three were booked at the City Jail on suspicion of grand larceny.

TWO SEEK AND FIND ETERNITY

Man and Woman End Lives, Hanging, Poison

Latter, an Author, Feared to Undergo Operation

No Cause Determined for H. Sperber's Act

A man and a woman sought and found death yesterday, the man impelled by unknown motives and the woman by racking pain and fear.

The woman, Mrs. May Curtiss, 40 years of age, 1023 Waterloo street, ended her life by swallowing what police believe was cyanide in capsule form. She was an author and a member of a family of artists and writers.

The man, H. Sperber, 48, hanged himself in his room at 506 Temple street. He had attached one end of the rope to a clothes hook in a closet door, tied the other end about his neck in the form of a noose, and then leaped from a chair into eternity. He left a note written in Yiddish and addressed to Rabbi S. M. Neches. The note gave no inkling of the motive which prompted the act. It simply requested Rabbi Neches to take charge of his belongings and distribute them properly among his relatives.

WOMAN IN AGONY

Mrs. Curtiss was found in the bedroom of her artistically furnished home. She was in agony. Her screams had attracted Mrs. Charles Keaton of 1025 Waterloo street, a neighbor. Mrs. Keaton called the police and Detective Lieutenants Lansing, Dryden and Erickson responded. They found the woman dying, but in full possession of her faculties.

She begged not to be taken to a hospital. She explained that she was to have undergone an operation yesterday, but that fear of the knife gripped her. She asked that her family physician, Dr. A. S. Lobinger, be summoned. He arrived within a few minutes, but a little later Mrs. Curtis was dead.

She had left a note on the table addressed to her husband, Charles Curtiss, employed by the Pacific Fruit Express Company. The note read:

"My dear, dear Charlie: I cannot endure this pain any longer. Try and forget, dear, and get well and strong. Lovingly—Wifey.

P. S. Oh, I'm so sorry I couldn't finish my book. Be kind to mother."

HUSBAND COLLAPSES

Mr. Curtis arrived home a few minutes later. He collapsed when informed of his wife's death and now is under the care of physicians. He was unable to make any statement.

The body of Mrs. Curtiss was removed to the Mark A. Pierce mortuary and an autopsy will be performed to determine definitely the cause of death.

Spencer's body was taken to the J. H. Reiderman mortuary. He came to this city about a week ago from San Francisco, where he was employed as a tailor.

JEWELRY THEFTS CONTINUE

Narcotics Included in Plunder Taken During Early Morning Hours Here and There in City

Burglars and hold-up men added more than $5000 worth of jewelry, clothing and merchandise to their hidden coffers early yesterday morning, bringing the total valuation of goods stolen in the last two days to more than $15,000, according to reports filed at Central Police Station. In the majority of the burglaries valuable diamond jewelry appeared to be the chief object of the marauders.

Thieves entering the residence of Mrs. R. W. Burgan at 2053 Browning Boulevard, by cutting out the screen on a rear bedroom window, obtained a large collection of jewelry valued at $1875. Included in the loot were several valuable diamond rings.

CLOTHING TAKEN

Mrs. E. Brosterhouse reported to the University Police Station that her home at 1473 West Forty-fifth street was broken into in a similar way and $600 worth of jewelry, clothing and silverware stolen.

Breaking into the residence of C. Nick at 1500½ South New Hampshire avenue by pushing back the bolt on the front door with a slender knife, burglars looted the place of $600 worth of jewelry. Here the thieves obtained two diamond rings.

Narcotics, including morphine and heroin, five gallons of alcohol, a revolver, fountain pens, safety razors and face powders valued at $316 comprised the loot taken from the drug store at Ryel I. Dubin at 2766 West Ninth street. Entrance to the store was effected through the front-door transom.

David A. Schoen reported that, in addition to the loss of $6000 worth of diamond rings and $600 worth of clothing, the thieves who broke into his residence at 681 Shatto Place early Thursday morning obtained nearly $1000 worth of furs.

STREET ATTACK

Steve Boribus of 353 Second street, San Pedro, reported that at New High and Republic streets five thugs leaped upon him and, after beating him into unconsciousness, robbed him of his watch and $19 in cash.

The lock on the rear door of the residence of W. Barret at 520 North Evergreen street was picked and $400 in jewelry and clothing taken.

Jewelry and clothing valued at $300 was stolen from the home of G. W. Seivert at 1427 Acacia street. Entrance was effected through the front door.

HART SUIT UP NEXT APRIL

Long Delay in Disposal of Action by Film Star's Wife Caused by Congested Calendar

Trial of the suit brought by Winifred Westover Hart against William S. Hart, motion-picture actor, to have set aside certain provisions of a trust agreement entered into by the couple shortly after their separation in May, 1922, has been set by Judge York for April 16, 1925, in Department Six of Superior Court.

The long delay in the disposal of the issues in the case was occasioned by the congested condition of the Superior Court calendar, all cases being set in advance one year except on affirmative showing that an earlier date is necessary.

Mrs. Hart instituted her action under the provisions of the Declaratory Relief Act, asserting that the agreement existing between her and her actor-husband prevented her from earning her own livelihood. Under the terms of the agreement, Mrs. Hart is said to receive the benefit of two trust funds, one for $103,000 and the other for $100,000. The latter fund was created by Hart for the benefit of his infant son, William S. Hart, Jr., born after he and his wife separated.

The two provisions of the contract to which Mrs. Hart objected were those that prevented her from reappearing in motion pictures and from using the name of Mrs. William S. Hart or any of its derivatives in a professional capacity. It was provided that should she divorce Hart the trust and agreement would automatically end and she would be given the $103,000 held in her trust.

She contended the agreement was drawn in an attempt to force her to get a divorce and asserted she had been offered $500 a week to re-enter motion-picture work.

In an answer to the complaint, Hart entered a general denial of his wife's allegations and asked the court to dismiss the action.

Attorneys Charles W. Fourl and Ingle Carpenter represent Mrs. Hart, while the defense was prepared by the law firm of Scarborough & Bowen.

TWO HELD ON CHARGES OF STRIPPING DEEDS IN TITLE COMPANY

Morrie Koslove and Joe Learner, charged with the theft of internal revenue stamps, will be given a hearing the 15th inst., before United States Commissioner Long. Koslove is held in the County Jail under $5000 bond. Learner was released under $2000 bond.

The two were arrested on information from internal revenue officers. It is asserted that Learner, an employee of a local title company, would remove canceled stamps from old deeds on file with the company and would place the stamps on new deeds in order that he could appropriate new stamps purchased for the new deeds. It is asserted that the new stamps were disposed through Koslove acting as outside man.

At a preliminary hearing before the commissioner yesterday, counsel for the government requested a continuance pending further investigations.

QUEST FOR COOKIES LEAD TO JAIL CELL

YOUTH CONFESSES TAKING SMALL ARTICLES IN SEVERAL THEFTS

An attempt to emulate the skylight burglars landed Shuber V. Cressman, a juvenile, of 416 North Harvard Boulevard, in the City Jail on suspicion of burglary. The arrest of the youth was made by Detective Lieutenants Kearin and Haek of the Hollywood Police Station.

According to the detectives, the boy confessed breaking into the following establishments, taking nothing more than a few cookies, theater tickets and other small articles of merchandise:

The youth was given into the custody of the juvenile authorities.

BUNKO SUSPECT HELD

Man is Arrested for Asserted Sale of Nonexistent Jobs

Temporary business depressions meant affluence to Louis Silvers, according to police. It was only in flush times that his business slumped, they say. Silvers, who is held at the City Jail, operated as the dispenser of nonexistent jobs, according to police. When jobs were scarce his field was widened. When they were plentiful pickings were lean, police say. It is charged that Silvers defrauded more than a dozen men seeking work by promising them jobs and then forcing the candidates to give him considerable sums as a guarantee that they would report for work.

In this manner, it is asserted, he obtained a diamond ring valued at $500 from A. Barco of 3105 South Hoover street as assurance that he would show up for work in a bakery which does not exist.

HOLMES CONCEAL-A-WAY BEDS

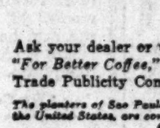
"Coffee is a Safe and Desirable Beverage"

Three years' Scientific Coffee Research, made by Professor SAMUEL C. PRESCOTT at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, establishes that Coffee is a good and wholesome beverage for the overwhelming majority of adults

"I WILL say that neither in the dispassionate study of the vast literature on the subject, much of which is medical literature, nor as a result of our long-continued studies, have we been forced, as scientific men, to any conviction that well-made Coffee is harmful to the great mass of consumers and, as such, dangerous to public health and welfare. On the contrary, the more deeply we have gone into this matter, the more we have read, the more we have looked up this literature in different languages, the more firmly fixed has become the belief (in fact, I might say it is a belief so strong that it is a conviction) that for the overwhelming majority of adults Coffee is a safe and desirable beverage."

This strong indorsement of Coffee is one of the conclusions reached by Professor Prescott after the most thorough investigation of Coffee ever made. His research was scientific and exhaustive, and his findings, therefore, establish the fact that Coffee is a safe and desirable beverage for the overwhelming majority of adults.

For Better Coffee Every Day, Follow These Rules



1—See that the Coffee is not ground too coarse.
2—Allow at least a tablespoonful of ground Coffee to a cup of water.
3—Be sure the water boils. Then pour it over the freshly ground Coffee.
4—Serve at once.
6—Scour the Coffee pot.

Ask your dealer or write direct to us for a copy of the NEW booklet, "For Better Coffee," which explains these rules in detail. Joint Coffee Trade Publicity Committee, 64 Water Street, New York.

The planters of Sao Paulo, Brazil, who produce more than half of all the Coffee used in the United States, are conducting this educational work in co-operation with the leading Coffee merchants of the United States.

A Simple Truth That Is Changing the Complexion of the World

You probably have read the story of the man who searched the wide world over for a precious jewel, only to discover that it was under his own doorstep all the time.

And that is much the same story of the search for beauty. For ages beauty specialists have sought some mysterious magic charm when all the time they stood at the very threshold of the simple truth—

That natural beauty is a matter of fine pores, and that course enlarged pores kill beauty.

It is simple, isn't it? And now women the world over are profiting by it. Overnight the beautiful women of France have enthusiastically adopted this fine-pore way to beauty as shown by their instant acclaim of Vivaudou's Astringent Cream which beautifies the skin by restoring the pores to their early childhood fineness.

A Free Sample Awaits You

In time, coarse pores become still coarser because they allow dirt and other foreign substances to enter to distend them still further. Or else if drastic massaging is used to clear the pores the skin is left in an unsightly pitted condition.

Naturally-fine pores cannot collect dirt. Naturally-fine pores mean a softer, smoother, silkier skin. Naturally-fine pores are more easily kept clean. Naturally-fine pores mean a firmer skin.

The Way Is Easy

The way to naturally-fine pores is through the use of Vivaudou's Astringent Cream which restores the skin's early childhood tone by freeing it from sagging folds, roughness, crow's-feet, and unsightly blackheads which coarse pores invite.

Prove all this for yourself without cost. Accept with Vivaudou's compliments the free sample which awaits you at any of the stores mentioned at the foot of this announcement. With it you will also receive a free booklet on creams and their uses, a book that will help you keep your complexion young.

Note This Also

Observe also what a perfect powder base Vivaudou Astringent Cream makes. By gently contracting the pores to their natural fineness it prevents the powder from working into them and the fine oils of the skin from escaping too freely to mingle with the powder.

Thus your powder will rest more smoothly on the face, and without flaking off in patches. And it stays on longer without the need of frequent applications.

Do Not Delay

Three other Vivaudou Creams are Vivaudou's Solidified Cream of Almonds, Vivaudou's Tissue Cream and Mavis Cold Cream. These with Vivaudou's Astringent Cream afford the exact combination for any particular skin requirement. You should always have them handy.

Federal Suit Answer Cites $10,000,000 Invested

Dismissal of Naval Lease Case Petitioned

Reimbursement is Asked of All Expenditures

Expenditures of approximately $10,000,000 have been made or provided for by the Pan-American Petroleum Company and the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company in the construction of refinery facilities, pipe lines, storage, docking and other facilities in the vicinity of Los Angeles in connection with leases and contracts for the handling of oil from the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 1. These expenditures are disclosed in an answer the two companies filed yesterday to the government's bill of complaint in the receivership proceedings brought before Judge Paul J. McCormick in the United States District Court.

The government's action resulted from the Teapot Dome disclosures. It is charged that Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior, and Edward C. Finney, acting Secretary of the Interior, transferred to Edward L. Doheny, chief executive officer of each of the defendant companies, rights and interests in Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 1 in the course of a conspiracy to defraud the United States. The leases and contracts provide that in exchange for royalty crude oil from the naval reserve the Pan-American companies shall provide fuel oil and storage facilities for the government at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

In their answer the defendant companies aver all money advanced by them to produce and handle petroleum from the lease and to comply with requirements as to construction work and deliveries at Pearl Harbor was paid in good faith.

DISMISSAL ASKED

It is asked that the government's action be dismissed, and in event that is not done that the defendants be permitted to enjoy the benefits created by the leases and contracts until the government shall have reimbursed the defendants for all expenditures made prior and subsequent to the commencement of the receivership proceedings.

In their answer the defendants further aver that before the court action was begun the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company completed the construction of storage facilities at Pearl Harbor and delivered into these storage facilities 1,453,275 barrels of fuel oil.

This work, it is asserted, was paid for by the defendants with the result that the government was enriched in the sum of approximately $5,472,000. Prior to the commencement of the receivership action, the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company had received only $3,856,400 in payment of the Pearl Harbor work and the amount due from the government is approximately $1,616,200, the answer states.

DENY FALL CHARGES

Furthermore, the defendants say, they expended large sums of money in the exploration and development of the Elk Hills reserve in addition to $10,000,000 spent in the vicinity of Los Angeles. The defendants say the government "is, in justice, and in equity, bound to reimburse to these defendants" all amounts advanced and for all losses sustained as a result of the contracts and court action.

The defendants deny that on or about November 30, 1921, Doheny paid Fall a reward promised him of $100,000. It is contended that this money passed from Doheny to Fall merely as a loan and that it was not "paid" in the legal sense of the word.

The answer was prepared and filed by the following lawyers: Frederick R. Kellogg, Frank J. Hogan, Charles Wellborn, Olin Wellborn, Dean Emery, Joseph J. Cotter and Harold Walker.

GIRL ROBBER IS STOICAL

Annie Tabor, Los Angeles edition of the "flapper bandit," whose asserted career in crime ended disastrously early yesterday morning, seemed undisturbed last night, despite the fact that she was told that police intend to file charges of robbery against her, and that her husband, Earl Tabor, shot in the neck by a militant victim, is wounded seriously.

Mrs. Tabor's hair is closely clipped, to the point of revealing her ears. The police suspect that she might have dressed in male clothing for the purpose of supporting her husband in robberies.

"We thought we could get away with it," she said. "We thought it would be easy. Anyhow, we had to do something, because we had no money left."

She appeared indifferent as to her fate and that of her husband. Yesterday she telegraphed for money to a relative of her husband's. She said that they were married last March, over the objections of her family. She came from Buffalo, N. Y., where she said she had been a dancer.

With the use of flapper slang she made a statement yesterday to Detectives Davis and Knotts of University Division, freely confessing her part in a series of robberies, which culminated in an attempt to hold up C. Roth, automobile dealer of 1919 South Main street.

Roth was seated in an automobile with a young woman when Tabor is declared to have held him up at the point of a gun. Roth snatched the gun and succeeded in shooting Tabor. Meanwhile Mrs. Tabor sat nearby in a car which she confessed was stolen.

Mrs. Tabor confessed that her husband robbed N. Buffington, 2218 South Union avenue, of $3 and a check in Lafayette Park, and committed another robbery in Echo Park. She denied that she had taken part in any previous robberies.

Tabor, on his cot in the prison ward at the General Hospital, confessed the robberies. It is expected that he will recover. Detectives Knotts and Davis, after searching the apartment at Jefferson and Main streets, where the couple lived, stated that they believed Tabor had been robbing pedestrians for the past month, and that they will continue the investigation.

DEATH CASE JURY HARD TO SELECT

Trial of Three Charged With Policeman's Murder Proceeds Slowly

Task of selecting a jury to hear the testimony in the case of Ed Montijo, Tom Bailey and Louis Perry, charged with murder and attempted robbery, consumed both sessions in Judge Keetch's court yesterday, and when adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock there was still little prospect that a jury would be sworn in before late today or Monday morning.

The youths are accused of the murder of Patrolman Glen E. Bond during an attempted hold-up of the Merchants' National Bank agency at Seventh and Hoover streets February 20 last.

The issue of capital punishment featured the examination of prospective jurors yesterday, several veniremen who expressed opposition to the extreme penalty being excused by the State, represented by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Howell, Richardson, Helms and Dennison. The prosecution is planning to ask for the extreme penalty under the State law, which holds an accomplice in a murder equally guilty with the person who actually committed the crime.

Salvation Army Points to Need of Social Work

Changing economic conditions in Los Angeles are the subject of a letter addressed to all civic organizations of the city by A. S. Butterworth, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Salvation Army 1924 budget campaign for $177,000.

"Los Angeles is going through a change in its social life which is bringing on problems this community heretofore has not been asked to face," says the letter. "These problems are of a social nature, and take into consideration the great laboring classes and industrial employees.

"A campaign for funds to carry on the Army's work will be conducted May 14 to 21. To present these problems to your members the Salvation Army and its sponsors ask the privilege of your platform previous to or during the week mentioned. Our speakers will not ask for funds directly at the meeting, but will leave members in the frame of mind to consider this problem.

"We are prepared to supply a complete program if you desire, or a speaker who can talk from five to twenty minutes on this subject."

PARDON FOR ACCUSED

Papers Arrive for Man Sentenced in Arcadia Bank Robbery

Salvador Mendival, one of three men believed to have been accused wrongfully of the Arcadia bank robbery, can have his pardon papers by applying at the District-Attorney's office.

The papers came to Dist.-Atty Keyes yesterday from Sacramento, with a letter saying they had arrived at San Quentin after Mendival had been released. The District Attorney was asked to find him and give them to him. Some one at the prison marked the envelope "Removed, left no address" before returning it to Gov. Richardson.

FETE FOR ECHO PARK

Coronation of Queen Will Launch Evening of Dance

A festival and ballet in which more than 200 children will participate will be presented tomorrow at the Echo Park Playground. The program will start with a coronation procession which will end in the crowning of the queen of the day. Court dances, Irish jigs, Hungarian and group folk dancing will follow. The ballet, entitled "The Triumph of the Sun," will conclude the festival. The ballet will be directed by Miss Hortense Williams of the playground.

REPORTS PURSE SNATCHING

Mrs. Vicey McMahon of 1189 East Fiftieth street reported to police yesterday that her purse was snatched from her hand while she was waiting for a street car at Washington street and Central avenue. A few minutes later J. V. Small was arrested by University police and lodged in jail as the purse snatcher.

ANCIENT DEBT ASKED IN SUIT

San Bernardino Man Seeks $8000 from Estate

Avers Dead Brother Was to Pay Him for Work

Executrix Named in Action to Get Settlement

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, May 8.—Queer litigation by which Andrew J. Nelson of St. Louis seeks to collect an $8000 debt, forty-eight years old, from the estate of his late brother, Arthur P. Nelson of Redlands, was filed in the Superior Court today against Louise M. Nelson, executrix of the brother's will.

In the complaint against his sister-in-law, Nelson avers that he performed farming work for his brother between 1868 and 1876 in Illinois and Kansas, and cared for the late Arthur P. Nelson's mother for years before her death in 1894.

Nelson adds that a claim for $8000 was refused payment by Mrs. Louise M. Nelson, the executrix, but introduces a letter written by the late Arthur P. Nelson purporting to acknowledge the indebtedness. Not only in writing, but orally the late brother admitted that he was indebted to Andrew J. Nelson and promised to provide for payment in his will, it is asserted in the litigation. He names $8000 as reasonable and fair compensation for his work forty-eight years ago, and asks the court to award him that amount from the estate.

The late Arthur P. Nelson was widely known in Redlands, where he died October 29, 1923. The widow, Louise M. Nelson, was appointed executrix of his will a few weeks later.

Midnight Ride Features Bank Theft Inquiry

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, May 8.—A mysterious midnight ride taken by Detective John Fyles, Deputy Sheriff Phil Pickert and Eleanore Walling, pretty girl bank bandit suspect, in Detective Fyle's high-powered, radio-equipped touring car, furnished a new development in the Taft State Bank robbery investigation today. The errand is clothed in mystery by the refusal of the officers to make any statement. It is rumored that the girl has made a new confession and that she led the officers to another money cache last night. The officers, however, refuse either to verify or contradict the rumor.

"There is nothing doing yet," said Deputy Pickert.

Last night's development followed an afternoon and evening of severe grilling with the deputy, the detective and the young bandit suspect locked in Sheriff Walser's private office.

FLOOD BOND VICTORY PLEASES AT AZUSA

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

AZUSA, May 8.—With the carrying of the flood control bonds, which provide for the construction of a huge dam nine miles above Azusa in the San Gabriel Canyon, Azusa citizens are planning for a period of unprecedented activity. At Azusa the bonds carried by an almost unanimous vote, 957 for to 10 against. Previous to the election the Chamber of Commerce, under the leadership of Secretary Huffman, had worked tirelessly to put over the vote for the bonds. The parade that left Azusa last Friday and marched through the surrounding country, even to the beach, with propaganda for the bonds, is felt to be responsible for much of the victory. At Azusa a 99 per cent vote of the registration was polled.

ARCADIA PLANS FOR THREE-DAY FESTIVAL

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ARCADIA, May 8.—A three-day fiesta is to be given the 22nd, 23rd and 24th insts. in Arcadia under the auspices of the Exposition Club to raise funds to wipe out the debt of $7000 incurred during the fair held by the city at Rose field last November. The carnival will be at the Santa Anita clubhouse and in the grounds. Mercantile exhibits of Arcadian merchants and of surrounding towns, an open-air dance in the empty swimming pool of the club grounds and music and entertainment of all sorts will be provided for the fiesta. R. H. Schwartzkopf is general chairman of the carnival and Al Milton will have charge of the entertainment features.

KNIGHTS OF GRIP BEGIN CONVENTION

Commercial Travelers and Families Greeted at Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 8.—Delegates from thirteen councils of California began to arrive in Long Beach today to attend the twenty-sixth State convention of the United Commercial Travelers of America. The list of delegates, together with members of their families, will total close to 2000, it was said at registration headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce this morning.

The first day is being given over to registration of delegates and visitors and sight-seeing. At 8 o'clock tonight the delegates and their friends gathered at the Hotel Schuyler for a trip through the Pike and Silver Spray pier in the local amusement zone.

The grand council will formally convene tomorrow morning in the auditorium at the Chamber of Commerce and an address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Buffum. A trip to Catalina Island is planned for Saturday. Election of officers for the grand council and the naming of seventy-five delegates to the supreme council meeting at Columbus, (O.,) on June 24 will be the feature of the Friday afternoon program.

LONG BEACH SUBURB SEEKS ANNEXATION

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 8.—Still another annexation election for Long Beach loomed here today with the announcement that residents of Jackson Park, that mile and a half square section just south of the newly incorporated city of Signal Hill, are seeking to become a part of this city. Sentiment in the territory, most of which lies north and east of the Pacific Electric's Newport line, strongly favors annexation, reports today showed. The territory, dubbed by Long Beach folks as "no man's land" since Signal Hill voted to become a city, would add about 2000 persons to the population of Long Beach.

FUNERAL CONDUCTED FOR CHARLES POGUE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, May 8. — Funeral services were conducted this afternoon for Charles Pogue, whose death at his Orange Grove avenue home followed an attack of pneumonia. Deceased, who is survived by a widow, had been a resident of California a third of a century. He was 64 years of age.

BOY BREADWINNER KILLED

Support of Parents and Eight Brothers and Sisters Dies as Train Hits Truck

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA ANA, May 8.—Fate, or whatever it is that gives so much to some and so little to others, yesterday closed its sinister account with Harold Davidson, 18 years of age, of Garden Grove.

Most youths at Harold's age have little responsibility. Harold had to work hard all day as a truck driver, and some times at night, too, to support his parents and eight younger brothers and sisters. Work was nothing new for Harold. He had done that all his life. But since his father's loss of employment his burden had become heavier.

Yesterday, bright and early, he finished breakfast and with a cheery remark for his father, cranked up his car. Down the road he sped.

Then fate stepped in. At the Pacific Electric crossing near Garden Grove there is what is known as a blind crossing. That is, motorists and trainmen alike, cannot see the other.

HIT ON CROSSING

Harold had driven by there countless times but yesterday as he drove on to the crossing the train and the automobile met. When trainmen picked the body from the wreckage Harold was dead.

The father, Ed Davidson, was told of his son's death. In a clear voice he told of the responsibilities his son had borne, his voice choking with emotion but his eyes bright with pride.

"I don't know how we'll get along without him," the father concluded.

"REVENGE BANDIT" GUILTY

Marvin Smiley Admits Robbing and Shooting Mentone Storekeeper; Tries to Defend His Pal

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, May 8.—Apparently defending his pal, M. O. Wells, jointly accused with him of robbing and shooting T. H. Lehrman, a Mentone storekeeper, on February 23, last, Marvin Smiley, "the Revenge bandit," pleaded guilty before Superior Judge Jesse Olney today.

Smiley withdrew his former plea of not guilty while Wells maintained his innocence. Smiley will be sentenced tomorrow morning on conviction of highway robbery which carries a penalty of from one year to life in San Quentin.

Smiley, paroled from the penitentiary less than a year ago after serving a sentence for robbing the same store at Mentone, will appear as a defense witness for Wells, a San Bernardino youth, who will go on trial before a jury in Superior Judge Benjamin F. Warmer's court the 22nd inst.

In his plea of guilty Smiley assumed full responsibility for the shooting of Lehrman. Wells and Smiley were captured in the sand hills south of Yucaipa by Police Officer A. T. Gabrielson an hour after the hold-up. They were taken before Lehrman as he lay in a Redlands hospital and identified as the bandits who shot him without warning.

In a statement to the officers Smiley admitted he shot Lehrman but declared that his gun fired accidentally. Wells, at that time, did not deny implication in the crime, saying it was his "first job."

Lehrman was shot before he had an opportunity to obey the commands of the youthful bandits to hold up his hands as they entered his store. The bullet penetrated his lung and inflicted a wound from which he has not yet fully recovered.

BURBANK MAN GETS VALUABLE PROPERTY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, May 8.—E. L. Dunn of Valencia avenue started today for Albany, N. Y., where he will take possession of a seven-story business block in the heart of the city. He gained title to the block through the unusual provisions of the will of his great great grandfather, who owned the land a long time ago. The property came to him because he happens to be the youngest son of the youngest son of the youngest son of the maker of the will a century ago. Attorneys representing the estate sent Dunn a check of $1000 to meet his expense connected with the trip.

MAN ENDS LIFE WITH GAS HOSE IN MOUTH

PASADENA, May 8.—Gerald F. Burns, By a "Times" Staff Correspondent 24 years of age, believed to be a former officer in the Navy, was found dead in his bed today at the hotel in which he was staying. A gas hose was found in his mouth and the jet was turned on full force, indicating, the officers declare, that the man took his own life. According to the police who investigated, the young man took his life early yesterday morning. Burns's body was removed to the Ives and Warren undertaking parlors.

SAN DIEGAN KILLED AS AUTO HITS TRAIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, May 8.—H. L. Cliff, a business man of many years here, was killed, and his wife critically injured when an automobile driven by Cliff crashed into a moving Santa Fe freight train at the Tide street crossing late Wednesday. The man lived for a few minutes after the collision and said he did not see the train. William Minton, a high school student, was killed when the forks of his bicycle collapsed, hurling him headlong into a curb.

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 8.—More than 550 members of the senior class of Polytechnic High School, this city, will be graduated here this year, it was announced today by Principal Burcham, of the local school. Commencement exercises will be held at the First Christian Church on the evening of June 12, it was announced. The principal speaker will be Paul Perigord, dean of the department of social science, California Institute of Technology.

NEW TRUCK IS ADDED TO FIRE EQUIPMENT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ONTARIO, May 8.—Ontario's fire-fighting facilities were considerably augmented today with the addition of a new American La France triple combination fire truck, which the City Council purchased last fall at a cost of $15,500. The truck was driven to Ontario from Los Angeles by Fire Chief William Sanders and Fireman J. S. Scott. A delegation of city officials, members of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce and members of the fire department met the truck at the city's gates and formed a parade into the city.

PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR DENTAL PARLEY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, May 8.—The annual convention of the Southern California Dental Association will be held in Coronado June 24, 25 and 26, and will be attended by approximately 500 dentists from Southern California. In addition to clinics and lectures, a program of entertainment has been arranged by the committee in charge, as well as a golf tournament.

Business sessions of the convention will be held in the ballroom of the Hotel del Coronado, with the exception of one session which will be at the Naval Hospital, near Balboa Park, on June 26. This clinic will cover oral surgery.

NEW MAYOR ELECTED BY INGLEWOOD BOARD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, May 8.—Inglewood has a new Mayor. He is C. M. Miller, real estate man, long identified with the growth of this community. Although S. H. Spafford, chairman of the Board of Trustees, was re-elected at the election of April 14 last, when the board, with the same personnel, reorganized last night, Mr. Spafford, at his own request, was not a nominee, and Mr. Miller was chosen as president of the board for the next two years.

BUSINESS DOCTOR IN ROSY FORECAST

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, May 8.—"Mother and child both doing well," was the report made by a business doctor, J. R. Douglas, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles, and in charge of the research department of that institution, referring to the nation as a mother and Los Angeles as her most promising child. Mr. Douglas, speaking on the business situation here today before the Inglewood Lions Club, explained how the business pulse and temperature of the nation is accurately charted and how these lines run in waves in making the more or less regular cycles through which business runs.

OUTLOOK IN ZELZAH SAID TO BE GOOD

Speakers at Banquet of Merchants Tell of Past and Point to Future

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ZELZAH, May 8.—The story of Zelzah of today and yesteryear was recited in reminiscent vein at the banquet given by the merchants at the Woman's clubhouse, under Chamber of Commerce auspices, by Charles B. Smith and M. Hanson, owners of the original townsite. They also painted in bright colors the picture of the Zelzah of the future.

A. M. Fellows, president of the chamber, was toastmaster, and in a short preliminary talk told of the success that is about to attend the long drawn-out proceedings incidental to obtaining gas for the communities situated in the west end of the valley. He predicted that the coming of gas may be available by midsummer.

Among the speakers was P. F. Fuller, who is promoting the development of a chicken colony near here. He told of the plan to teach the members of the colony the art of raising poultry and showed how the average hen should net its owner a profit of at least $2 per year.

Realtors and subdividers spoke of the increasing inquiry for homesites and of the increasing numbers of sales of residence and business property. Nearly every transfer, they asserted meant the coming of a new family to the community, the erection of a new home or the establishment of a new industry or opening of a business house.

MAY ANNEX CANYON TO SANTA MONICA

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, May 8.—Property owners in the Santa Monica Canyon, according to information this morning, favor a petition asking submission of the annexation question to vote in that district, and it is believed that district may become a part of the city proper in the course of the next few months. The question of annexing the canyon has been discussed upon several occasions but no definite action taken. Water is now furnished residents of the canyon by the city and other service is being given that makes annexation a logical proceeding in the opinion of civic officials. Other territory that will be annexed to the city in the course of the season, it is believed, is the district lying south of Colorado and east of Twenty-sixth street. Property owners are said to be anxious to enter the city so that service of various kinds may be given.

ESTATE OF $15,000 IS LEFT BY ARTIST

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, May 8.—Conway Griffith, widely-known western artist and dean of the artists' colony at Laguna, left an estate valued at $15,000 when he died suddenly at the beach city recently, a petition to probate the will showed when it was presented in Superior Court here today. Property at Laguna and Arch Beach is listed at $7500, while twenty-one paintings in oil and water colors made up the balance. There are five brothers and sisters named as heirs, three of whom, Armand, Georgia and Jennie Griffith, live at Santa Barbara.

RETURNS FROM ARIZONA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, May 8.—Dr. Rena Sample has returned from Yuma, Ariz., where she was called by the sudden death of her brother-in-law, Dr. Leon Jacobs, who was shot by an insane man and who died there several days ago. Mrs. Jacobs is taking his body to Detroit, Mich., for burial. She and her little son are well known here.

SLAYER TELLS OF LONG FEUD

S. O. Hale Describes Quarrel Over Pasturage

Declares Enemy Threatened to Shoot Him

First-Degree Murder Charge Will be Made

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, May 8.—A charge of first-degree murder will be made against Samuel O. Hale, 60 years of age, who yesterday shot and killed L. S. Chapman, 72 years of age. The tragedy terminated a four-year feud between the two men over pasturage for their goat herds. Hale fired six loads of buckshot into his enemy's body, and was apprehended shortly afterwards. An inquest will be conducted tomorrow.

Hale, who yesterday appeared rather unconcerned, was nervous today when the extent of the deed reacted upon him. He said there had been ill feeling between him and Chapman for a long time, and that as a result he feared his neighbor intended to do him harm. He said he recently purchased a revolver with which to defend himself against possible attacks, but that he discarded this weapon for a pumpgun.

"I couldn't shoot straight with a pistol," Hale said, "so when Chapman, several days ago, told me he'd shoot me like a dog if I ever bothered him again; I decided to get a a shotgun. I was afraid of him because he told me he had killed a man in Montana. I intended shooting Chapman when I bought the gun, but kept postponing it, thinking the authorities might intervene. The whole thing worried me and I could hardly sleep Tuesday night. Yesterday, when I encountered Chapman there were further words and I rushed into the house, grabbed the gun and shot him. I felt if I didn't kill him he'd kill me."

Woman Pioneer Dies; Came West Around the Horn

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, May 8.—Mrs. Anna Crittenden, said to be the first white woman to take up residence in San Pedro, died at her home here, 1325 East Anaheim street, this morning at the age of 85 years. Born in Nova Scotia, Mrs. Crittenden sailed from that country in the early days when a trip around the Horn was the only means of reaching the Pacific Coast on sailing vessels. She landed at San Pedro and there set up a boarding house on the site now occupied by the Hellman Bank. At that time the town was occupied chiefly by Mexicans.

From San Pedro the Crittenden family moved to Long Beach twenty years ago. Mrs. Crittenden is survided by two daughters, Mrs. Caroline Sherman of this city and Mrs. Ben Cross of Los Angeles.

BOYS RUN DOWN AND INJURED BY SPEEDER

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, May 8.—Police of this city are searching for the motorist who at a late hour last night knocked down and seriously injured two boys and then sped on without stopping to render assistance. The injured boys are Floyd Berglan, 17 years of age, and James Holder, 15, both of whom reside at 295 Ventura street. Both bones in Holder's right leg were broken and his companion suffered severe cuts and bruises. According to reports made at the police station the two boys were riding on a motorcycle on Sunset avenue when a car approached going at a high rate of speed. A few minutes later a pedestrian picked up the two lads, who were lying in the street unconscious. The speeding car, which they say hurled them into the gutter, failed to stop.

SCHOOL POPULATION AT BURBANK GROWS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, May 8.—Exclusive of the high school, the school population of Burbank is increasing at the rate of 100 a month, according to figures by Superintendent Collins. In September the total enrollment was 1350, as compared with 1850 April 1, last. He predicts that the total by the close of the term will be 2000. The enrollment at the high school is 502. Taking these figures as a basis, the population of the city is estimated by the superintendent as being 15,000.

CHILDREN ARE HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, May 8.—In order to escape striking an automobile which was stalled in the road at Biona and Venice Boulevard a car containing a party of school children struck a telephone post, severely injuring the occupants. The accident occurred early this morning. The injured were rem ed to the St. Catherine's Hospital where they were given medical attention by Drs. Craik and Dazey. Those in the automobile were, Omega, Jennie B. and Andrew Johnson.

GIVES SUCCESS RECIPE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

REDLANDS, May 8.—J. Dabney Day, president of the Citizens' National Bank, in giving the students of the University of Redlands the requirements for business success, said they are six, honesty, courage, courtesy, kindness, self-reliance and friendship. He feels that all of these are important and all are necessary.

THREE HELD IN RAID ON STAG PARTY

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, May 8.—The home of G. W. Guyer, 511 Garfield avenue, a building contractor, was raided by Pasadena police at an early hour this morning and Guyer and two men guests were arrested for participating in a "stag drinking bee" at which liquor flowed freely, according to the officers.

The raid was made following the receipt of a number of complaints by the neighbors, who told the police that all-night drinking parties were frequent affairs at the Guyer home. J. E. Hand and H. Webb were arrested in company with Guyer and charged with disturbing the peace. Guyer was charged with illegal possession of liquor.

VOTES NOT RECEIVED; TABULATION DELAYED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, May 8.—With the ballots from four precincts not yet recorded at the County Clerk's office, the Kern County Board of Supervisors today was forced to delay its official tabulation of votes in the primary election Tuesday. Unofficial tabulation of the Republican votes in the 154 precincts accounted for today gave President Coolidge 3048 votes and Hiram Johnson 1874. The Democratic count for the 154 precincts has not been completed. The unofficial count for 151 precincts gave William McAdoo 2765 and the uninstructed delegation opposing him 569. Two of the precincts from which the ballots have not been received are in Tehachapi and Cummings Valley. County Clerk Frank E. Smith is conducting an investigation in the cause of delay in the arrival of the ballot sacks, as he was advised by election officials in those precincts that the sacks had been forwarded.

CHILD, EAGER TO SEE GIFT, HURT BY AUTO

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HARBOR CITY, May 8.—Childish curiosity to see what his mother had brought him from a shopping trip may cost the life of little Ned Putnam, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Putnam, as a result of being run over by an automobile driven by his mother today. A rear wheel of the car passed over the child's chest causing internal injuries.

The boy attempted to jump on the running board of the car before it was brought to a stop when the car hit a ditch in the road causing him to be thrown under the wheel.

BIDS TO BE RECEIVED FOR LEGION BUILDING

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GARDENA, May 8.—Bids for the construction of the new home of the American Legion will be opened here today and work on the building is to begin within thirty days. When completed, the structure will compare favorably with the finest legion homes in the State, it is said.

RICH RANCHER'S MODEL PRISON

W. F. Crawford is Pleased With Jail Life

Apparently Unconcerned Over Predicament

Held in Connection with Dynamite Killing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, May 8.—W. F. Crawford, wealthy Santa Ynez Valley rancher, held on a murder charge in connection with the killing by dynamite of J. J. McGuire, and Smith, is a model prisoner. He has painted the walls and floor of his suite of cells at his own expense, refuses delicacies brought in by friends and declares prison food is better than that eaten by the average family. Though awaiting trial on a first degree murder charge based on evidence of a positive nature, Crawford apparently is unconcerned over his fate and is enjoying a large amount of business from his cell. His wife visits him rooms near the jail and does so frequently.

Harry Taylor, arrested a year ago and held as an accomplice in the murder, was released from custody on motion of his attorney at the hearing when it was shown that the evidence was insufficient to hold him.

BEGIN PLANS FOR CLOVERFIELD LEASE

Santa Monicans Now Seek Means to Secure Field for City

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, May 8.—J. McKenney, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and former Mayor S. L. Bright have been appointed as a committee to ascertain what can be done to secure the Clover aviation field for the city. Announcement was made a few days ago that with the expiration of the present lease, which has one year and a half to run, the field will be subdivided and sold to private owners.

Civic leaders and those interested in maintaining the field as a government field are making investigations as to whether the lease may be obtained or if the 160 acres comprising the field can be purchased. A meeting with the Board of Supervisors members, it is said, is to be arranged.

It is the consensus of opinion that the entire property should be leased for a long term of years and chased so that a number of golf links may be established.

RESIDENCE IS BURNED

SANTA MONICA, May 8.—The home of Mrs. Irvin Hunt was entered early this morning and several pieces of valuable jewelry and personal articles stolen, according to a report of police. The intruders entrance was gained through open French doors at the rear of the house.

RICH RANCHER MODEL PRISONER

W. F. Crawford is Pleased With Jail Life

Apparently Unconcerned Over Predicament

Held in Connection With Dynamite Killing

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

SANTA BARBARA, May 1.—W. F. Crawford, wealthy Santa Ynez Valley rancher, held on a first-degree murder charge here in connection with the killing by dynamite of J. J. McGuire, aged hermit, is a model prisoner, it was has painted the walls and floors of his suite of cells at his own expense, refuses delicacies brought in by friends and declares the prison food is better than he has eaten by the average family. Though awaiting trial on a first-degree murder charge faces the evidence of a positive nature, Crawford apparently is unconcerned over his fate and threatens a large amount of business even from his cell. His wife has taken rooms near the jail and visits him frequently.

Harry Taylor, arrested a week ago and held as an accomplice in the murder, was released yesterday on motion at his preliminary hearing when it was stated that the evidence was insufficient to hold him.

Santa Monicans Named to Seek Means to Save It for City

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, May 1.—[illegible] McKenney, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and former Mayor S. L. Berkley, have been appointed as a committee to ascertain what can be done to save Clover aviation field for the city.

Announcement was made several days ago that with the expiration of the present lease, which has a year and a half to run, the field will be subdivided and sold by the owner.

Civic leaders and those interested in maintaining the field as a government field are pressing investigations as to whether a new lease may be obtained on the terms governing the field or whether it can be purchased outright. A meeting with the Santa Monica members, owners of the property, is to be arranged.

It is the consensus of opinion that the entire property should be leased for a long term or purchased so that a municipal golf links may be established.

RESIDENCE IS ROBBED

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, May 1.—The home of Mrs. Irwin Hicks was entered early this morning and several pieces of valuable silver and personal articles stolen. According to a report at police headquarters entrance was gained by leaving open French doors at the rear of the house.

STOCK DISEASE ON THE WANE

Easier Rules in Los Angeles County Reported

Local Quarantine Officials Confer Wtih Houck

Case is Found in Animals Near Lynwood

Federal inspectors engaged in the eradication fight against foot-and-mouth disease yesterday reported one more case of infection in a herd of fifty-seven animals at Lynwood, near Huntington Park.

In keeping with the intended plan of the Federal government to ease up on restrictions in unaffected territory and make more drastic the strict quarantine around infected districts, orders were said to have been issued yesterday by Federal and State officials in conference at Sacramento, releasing section of Los Angeles county from quarantine. However, officials in charge of the local offices here denied the receipt of such orders up to a late hour last night.

A committee of local quarantine officials presided over by Dr. L. M. Hurt, Los Angeles county live-stock inspector, was in conference with Dr. U. G. Houck, chief of the Federal forces in eradication work, at Sacramento yesterday. Quarantine regulations affecting Los Angeles county was taken up at this conference, the results of which have not yet been received here. Word was received by the Automobile Club of Southern California yesterday that all the roads of Ventura county have been opened to automobile travel.

RAILROAD BODY CUTS RATES ON LAMBS

In an effort to assist in bringing relief to the live-stock industry of the State, the Railroad Commission announced yesterday that they have issued an emergency order reducing present rates 25 per cent for the transportation of lambs for slaughter from points throughout California to packing plants at Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco and other stations.

The action was taken by the commission on the application of the principal rail carriers of the State and will remain in effect until the 25th inst.

CATTLE DISEASE LOSSES ARE $2,962,122

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, May 8.—Stock losses in California to date from the foot-and-mouth disease total $2,962,122, including $35,000 represented in property and equipment destroyed in the fight against the disease, according to George G. Ratcliff, chairman of the State Board of Control.

The figures compiled by F. W. Levers, chief accountant of the State Department of Agriculture, show that 77,059 head of cattle, swine, sheep and goats have been slaughtered thus far in the campaign against the disease.

Of the stock destroyed, 36,101 were cattle; 18,179 hogs; 22,362 sheep, and 417 goats. Los Angeles county has been the heaviest loser, 15,164 head of stock, appraised at $1,111,753, having been slaughtered.

PREPARATIONS ARE MADE FOR SLAUGHTER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTERVILLE, May 8.—Pits are dug and everything is in readiness for slaughter of infected stock on the Joe Mello and M. V. Miciel ranches west of here. Dr. Butterfield of the Federal office is expected to arrive here this afternoon from Merced, and will probably start appraisal of the condemned animals at once. No other infection of the foot-and-mouth disease is reported in Tulare county.

Fred and Thomas Bailey, local youths, were apprehended yesterday for breaking quarantine at the Mello ranch. Fred Bailey, elder brother, pleaded guilty and was given fifty days in the Tulare County Jail. The other lad, being under 18 years of age, was turned over to the Juvenile Court.

OREGON'S FRUIT EMBARGO IS RETAINED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 8.—Decision not to raise the embargo on California fruits and vegetables from districts not affected by the foot-and-mouth disease was announced here today by the Oregon State Live Stock Board, following a session at which such a proposal was considered. The report of the board was sent to Gov. Walter M. Pierce at Salem tonight.

The decision was contrary to a recommendation made by members of a committee appointed by the Governor, which recently investigated conditions in California. Favorable action on this recommendation would probably have been taken, according to Dr. W. H. Lytle, State veterinarian, had it not been that reports were received today from California of an outbreak of the epizootic in a district not heretofore affected.

HOW TO TREAT A FURNACE

We don't know whether there is anything in this or not; anyway we pass it along. A correspondent writes: "Never swear at your furnace, no matter how much it annoys you. That will only make it sulky and obstinate. I never knew of a furnace which was sworn at that gave satisfaction. It is advisable to take a directly opposite tack. A neighbor of mine always addresses his furnace as "sweetheart" and "darling," and he assures me the plan works to perfection.

"Maybe it doesn't really make the furnace warm up the way it seems to,' he admits frankly. 'Maybe the mere suggestion keeps me from losing my temper and shaking my fire to pieces. But anyway the results are excellent. Try it.'"—[Boston Transcript.

HUGE BALANCE ON CITY BOOKS

More Than $30,000,000 is Drawing Interest

New Bond Issues to Entail Sum of $11,600,000

Ready Market Expected by Treasurer Powell

For the first time in the history of Los Angeles, the city treasurer's books last night showed a cash balance of more than $30,-000,000 on deposit and drawing interest.

Clearances for the first quarter of the calendar year have amounted to more than $40,000,000. "The city," said Treasurer Powell yesterday, "is doing a business comparable with that of a bank of the first magnitude."

On Monday next the City Council will begin to canvass the returns of last Tuesday's special election, as counted by the City Clerk. As soon as the count has been certified correct, new bond issues will be authorized, aggregating $11,600,000.

"I anticipate no difficulty in marketing these bonds," said Treasurer Powell, "at a rate, judging from current quotations and inquiries already made, of 4.75 flat. Three months ago the city sold $11,000,000 worth of bonds at 4.36. Better than 4.75 par hardly could be expected. The market is healthy, with bidding active, considering the season of the year. Things in the bond market, you know, tend to slack off as summer comes."

Outstanding, the city now has a total of $80,375,837.50, bonded indebtedness, according to the auditor's books, and $22,938,000 additional, authorized but not sold, because the money has not yet been needed. Deducting the sinking fund on hand, the net outstanding liability is $72,471,330.

The last statement of liabilities issued by the auditor's office, under date of March 31, last, places the unencumbered capability of the city for nonrevenue-producing bonds at $29,534,512, and for revenue-producing bonds at $166,185,-650, giving a total unobligated credit margin of $195,720,162. This margin will be decreased in the near future by the expenditure the voters authorized Tuesday.

HEARING ON LUMBER RATE PLANNED HERE

CUT FROM LOCAL HARBOR TO OTHER POINTS WILL BE SOUGHT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—A readjustment of the lumber freight rates of the Pacific Coast States to give a more favorable position to Los Angeles Harbor as a point of origin for shipments to the remainder of California will be considered at hearings Monday in Los Angeles and next Thursday at San Francisco, it was announced today by the State Railroad Commission. Because any reduction of lumber freight rates from Los Angeles Harbor to the remainder of the State, which has been asked by the Los Angeles Lumber Products Company of Los Angeles Harbor, would have to be made with a view to the necessity of harmonizing new rates with those in effect from mills outside California to the same California points, the hearing will be conducted jointly by Clyde J. Seavey, president of the California Railroad Commission, and Interstate Commerce Commissioner B. H. Meyer.

Oregon mills will be represented at both hearings by W. C. McCullock of Portland.

PORT NOTES

Los Angeles Harbor was given a thorough inspection yesterday by forty claims agents, representing both the Southern California Ocean Terminal and the Pacific Claims Conference of San Francisco. The visitors devoted the entire day to a tour of the harbor, being accompanied by representatives of all railroads entering the port, and by several municipal officials. Luncheon was taken aboard the liner Yale as guests of R. C. Chandler, manager of the Los Angeles Steamship Company. The port survey professes a meeting to be held at 10 o'clock this morning in the Los Angeles Steamship Company's city offices in the Central Building, at which representatives of both claims organizations and all local railroads will be present.

Capt. William Banning, vice-president of the Wilmington Transportation Company, left by train yesterday for New York, where he will board the liner Majestic for a four months' tour of Europe. He was accompanied by his nephew, William F. Banning, and wife and Mrs. J. B. Banning.

Tentative plans for a high-powered boat for use of Capt. R. S. Sandberg, port traffic manager, were submitted to the Harbor Commission yesterday and the harbor engineer has been directed to prepare specifications for bids for the craft. Administration of two-thirds of the docks over the entire harbor requires much travel by water, and the traffic manager has long stressed the need of such facilities.

Norton Lilly & Co., coast agents for the Isthmian Lines, have been appointed agents for the Oil Transportation Company, Inc., which operates the Clement Smith, a former United States Shipping Board tanker. The tanker loaded yesterday at the Associated Oil Company's station, and will sail today for Boston with a cargo of fuel oil for the Tidewater Oil Company.

The pleasure liner Cabrillo of the Wilmington Transportation Company went on the ways at the Wilmington yards of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. yesterday for a two months' overhaul and refitting. She will be on the ways approximately one week.

The $80,000 glass bottom pleasure boat Princess, newest and greatest of a fleet of four such craft operated out from Avalon, Catalina Island, by the Wilmington Transportation Company, was put through her trial trip yesterday and it is said to have surpassed expectations. She will be taken on the following Saturday by Capt. E. Patrick, manager of the island excursion fleet, which now completes two large speed boats, the Betty O and the Bianca, and the four glass bottoms, the Princess, Emperor, Empress and the Cleopatra. The Princess has a capacity of 249 passengers, with accommodations for 126 for viewing marine gardens through the glass bottoms.

Four Angelenos and five passengers from San Francisco sailed aboard the German motorship Odilia of the Misamer Line yesterday for Liverpool and Hamburg. Among the passengers embarking here was Frank Gorlitz of the Finance Corporation, Los Angeles, bound for Bad Nauheim, seeking a cure for partial paralysis of his left side. The vessel carried 7200 tons of cargo, consisting of 10,000 bags of grain, 10,000 bags of flour, 2500 tons of lumber and 10,000 bags of borax which was taken on here.

Application for a change in lease to the seventeen wholesale fish firms occupying the municipal fish market building, making the lease to a holding company representing the individual firms, was rejected yesterday by the Harbor Commission. It was decided that as the present leases expire next January new arrangements would best be delayed until then. In the interim an investigation will be made into the present conduct of the market building.

Life's Little Ironies

"So you've got your old cook back. I thought she got married and went housekeeping."

"Yes, but she's given up that and come back to me."

"What was the trouble?"

Coast and Geodetic Survey

Tides. Los Angeles Harbor.

Note—The following tabulation of the tides is compiled from the Pacific Coast Tide Tables of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. The tides are arranged in the order of their occurrence, beginning with the first tide after midnight in the left-hand column. There are usually four tides, two high and two low, each day; but occasionally what would be the fourth tide occurs after midnight and thus becomes the first tide of the next day. The columns of heights give the elevation of each tide above the plane of reference of the Coast Geodetic Survey chart soundings, except where the numbers are preceded by the minus sign, or dash, when heights are below the plane. The tabulations are furnished by the Field Station of the Survey, Customhouse, San Francisco, Cal.

Sunrise and sunset are computed for Los Angeles Harbor. Moonrise and moonset for Los Angeles.
